PANAMA READY TO DIG CANAL

It Sends Commission to Washington With Full Treaty Power.

COLOMBIA WAKES UP

Makes Offer Through Another Power to Ratify Hay-Herran Treaty at Once.

PROPOSAL COMES TOO LATE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

PHILIPPE BUNAU VARILLA,
Panama's Representative in the United States.

The new republic of Panama is anxious to go ahead with a canal treaty. The state department has been informed by an agent of the Panama Canal Company that the provisional government of Panama has designated a commission of three members, one of whom is Federico Boyd, a member of the junta, who will leave Panama tomorrow for Washington to begin immediately the negotiations of a new canal treaty. The commission, it is stated, is clothed with full powers to conclude that instrument.

Embarking of Colombian troops from Buena Ventura or any other Colombian port for the isthmus will not be permitted by the Washington government, and American warships will be ordered to any port upon receipt of an intimation that Colombian troops will attempt to sail for the isthmus. The Washington government holds that this policy is in the interest of the general good.

On good authority it was learned tonight that informal overtures had been made by the representative of a friendly power looking toward the restoration of former Colombian sovereignty in Panama and the renewal of negotiations with the Bogota government which now shorn of its greatest asset—the canal—is in a reasonable mood. It has not taken official form.

Proposals Come Too Late.

A state department official says that in reply the intimation had been conveyed that the time for interposition of friendly offices of this character had passed and that the United States could not consider such an offer.

M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the minister of the republic of Panama, was called to New York tonight on important business, and his presentation at the state department in consequence has been postponed temporarily. The minister lunched today with Secretary Hay and had a long conference with him afterward regarding the opening of canal negotiations and other matters relating to the relations of the two governments. The minister left Washington with the satisfaction of having been assured that he is to be duly recognized as the minister plenipotentiary of the new government with full powers. When he returns from New York arrangements regarding his meeting with the president probably will be made.

Before leaving the city the minister announced the appointment of Pablo Aroumena Ticon of 68 West Forty-ninth street, New York city, as provisional consul for the Panama republic at New York city.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—In obedience to rush orders from Secretary of the Navy Moody the auxiliary cruiser Prairie, which was scheduled to leave League Island for southern waters tomorrow, departed hurriedly from the yard at 6 o'clock tonight.

Will Ask for Amendments.

COLON, Nov. 9.—A coasting vessel left this morning for Porto Bello, carrying a few troops who will hoist the flag of the new republic of Panama there.

A cablegram received by way of Port Limon this morning says that the steam launch which went to Bocas Del Toro for the purpose of capturing that place in the name of the republic of Panama left there yesterday. She is expected here momentarily.

Dr. Manuel Amador, minister of finance, and Frederico Boyd, a member of the junta, have been appointed by the provisional government a committee to go to Washington and arrange with the United States for canal and other necessary treaties. They will sail tomorrow on the steamer City of Washington. It is said that the commissioners will endeavor to have amendments made to Article 8 of the Hay-Herran canal treaty and to eliminate Article 12 in order that the entire territory of the republic may be made free to the commerce of the world.

Reports are current here that the states of Cauca and Antioquia are also in revolt. While Colombia perhaps will not resist separation from Panama, she certainly will oppose by force of arms the withdrawal of the state of Cauca, which comprises almost half of Colombia, and Antioquia, probably the richest in the confederation.

DOCTORS HAVE STREET SCRAP

Prominent Allegheny Physicians Principals in Exciting Battle.

ONE USES REVOLVER

Drs. R. H. Gilliford and Thomas W. Wallace, Jr., Meet and Trouble Follows.

POLICE LOOK FOR GILLIFORD

A passage-at-arms between two prominent physicians of Allegheny, in which horsewhips and a revolver were the weapons used, caused a sensation on the North Side last evening. The principals were Dr. R. H. Gilliford, one of the oldest physicians in Allegheny, and Dr. Thomas W. Wallace, Jr., one of the prominent young physicians of the city. The trouble occurred shortly after 5 o'clock, at the corner of Chartiers and Juniata streets. Dr. Gilliford could not be found last night, although Supt. M. H. Campbell and Assistant Superintendent John Glenn called for him at his residence, Beaver avenue and Franklin streets. They were told that the doctor was away and that it was not known when he would be back.

Dr. Wallace spoke freely of the affair last night. He is very indignant, as he declares Dr. Gilliford gave his little 4-year-old daughter Majorie a cruel cut across the face with a whale-bone whip. According to Dr. Wallace he was driving along Chartiers street to make a call in the Second ward. His daughter was in the buggy with him. At the corner of Juniata street they met Dr. Gilliford, who, according to Dr. Wallace, tried to annoy him by driving directly across his path. This, Dr. Wallace says, is an old practice of Dr. Gilliford, with whom he has not been on good terms for a long time. When Dr. Wallace spoke to Dr. Gilliford, it is said, the latter drew his whip from its socket and struck at him.

"I resented this by doing likewise," said Dr. Wallace. "Then he struck my baby across the face and that was more than I could stand. I jumped from my buggy and demanded that he come out on the street and fight like a man. For an answer I got a cut across the face with the whip. In a moment I had the whip out of his hands and was punishing him when he drew a revolver and shot at me. I was only a few feet away from him. I had not expected any guns to appear and stopped. He commanded me, at the point of his weapon, to place his whip back where it belonged. I threw it in his face and he again shot at me. Then I drove home with my little girl. Dr. Gilliford has been acting meanly toward me for some time past because he does not like me. Yesterday morning he almost collided with me at Federal and Lacock streets. Morris Korrman, who was with me, will bear me out in this."

Last night Dr. Wallace said he did not think he would take any action against Dr. Gilliford, as he says he has got too much notoriety out of the affair as it is.

News of the trouble was telephoned into police headquarters last night and Superintendent Campbell started out with Assistant Superintendent Glenn to investigate. They failed to find Dr. Gilliford.

Dr. Wallace is a homeopathic physician, while Dr. Gilliford belongs to the allopathic school of medicine. Dr. Wallace says that last fall Dr. Gilliford vaccinated a woman in lower Allegheny and who afterward had lockjaw of which case Dr. Wallace took charge, and that this accentuated the bad feeling between them.

"I DIE AN HONEST MAN" WROTE ROSAMO

Italy's Minister of Finance Prefers Death to Meeting the Charges of the Socialists.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NAPLES, Nov. 9.—Signor Rosano, the new minister of finance, committed suicide in a railway station today. The Socialists, it was reported, had arranged to give the minister a warm reception on his first appearance in the chamber of deputies. They charged that he belonged to the notorious Camorra Society of Naples, which was organized by politicians. It has dominated the actions of the people for many years.

Since the formation of the new cabinet the Socialists also had attacked Signor Rosano, charging him with corruption during his political career, challenging him to disprove the charges and adding that otherwise they would bring the matter up at the opening of the chamber of deputies.

Signor Rosano left a letter to his wife in which he said:

> I am an honest man and die as an honest man, but during the last month such a violent storm of accusations has poured over me that I cannot resist. The future will render me justice. I pardon my enemies who have injured me so much. You also must forgive them.

The principal accusation against Signor Rosano was that he received $1,000 from an anarchist, Bergamasco, to use his influence to have Bergamasco released from police surveillance, which compelled him to live constantly at a stated place, which the minister succeeded in doing.

MISS ROOSEVELT ADOPTS NEW FASHION IN RIDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Miss Alice Roosevelt has discarded the side saddle and now rides in divided skirts. The president's daughter and Mrs. Rider, who has been teaching Miss Roosevelt how to sit on a horse in the more rational method, pass through the parks mounted astride without causing any more comment than the presence of the president's daughter ordinarily provokes. Miss Roosevelt's riding costume is a modest one of blue cloth.

SHOT DOWN BY GANG OF ITALIANS

Three Men Were Wounded in Desperate Battle at Donora Last Night.

LYNCHING WAS THREATENED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Donora, Pa., Nov. 9.—As a result of the attempt of a gang of Italians to assassinate a policeman here tonight, two men are dying, a third is wounded and five Italians are locked up, threatened with lynching, by an angry mob. The wounded men are:

POLICEMAN ISAAC JOHNSON, aged 45, married; Donora; shot through the abdomen and fatally wounded.

A. W. KALLERT, aged 25, Donora; a mill worker; shot through the abdomen; cannot recover.

AN UNKNOWN MAN, shot through the thigh; will recover.

At 8 o'clock Policeman Johnson was fired on from ambush by a gang of Italians near Thompson hollow. He fell mortally wounded with a bullet in his abdomen. Ten Italians rushed from the roadside to the Italian settlement. A number of people hearing the shot ran to the scene and found the policeman lying on the street in a dying condition. He was carried to a house nearby and a physician summoned.

In a short time a mob collected and a posse organized. The Italians were traced to an abandoned house and the posse armed with clubs and revolvers made a rush for the house, only to find the doors barricaded. They were greeted with a volley from inside the house and A. W. Kallert, one of the posse, fell with a bullet in his abdomen. He was carried away from the scene and again the mob made a rush at the house, breaking in the door and, leaping at the Italians with their clubs.

Another of the posse fell this time with a wound in his thigh. The Italians as soon as the door was broken in made a desperate attempt to escape and several managed to get away. Five of them were captured and taken to the Donora lockup under a heavy guard. By this time the whole town was aroused and a mob of angry people were in front of the lockup. The officers and citizens in the posse, however, were permitted to place their prisoners in the lockup and a strong guard was placed over them.

Johnson, who can hardly live until morning is married and has three children. The people of Donora tonight are talking of making a raid on the Italian settlement and wiping it out and it is anticipated that more trouble will result before morning. The police of the town are guarding the lockup and it is expected that an attempt will be made to break in and lynch the prisoners.

COMBINE AGAIN BLOCKS RAILROAD ORDINANCES

Select Council Wants Baltimore & Ohio to Pay for Street Vacations.

BILLS TO THE SUB-COMMITTEE

Citizens Party Leaders Lose the Control of the Lower Branch.

FAIL TO ELECT CHAIRMAN

SUMMARY OF PROCEEDINGS OF SELECT AND COMMON COUNCILS

Citizens party leaders and their allies of the select council combine again blocked the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinance. Adopted resolution to compel the company to pay for streets vacated in the Twenty-third ward. Ordinances are given to a subcommittee of three combine members.

Adjournment of select council forced before a vote could be taken on pending motion to withdraw Baltimore & Ohio ordinances from committee.

Select council passed resolution extending thanks to astronomers who discovered planet named Pittsburghia.

Citizens party leaders lost control of common council by failure to elect D. J. Bole president pro tem. Republicans and "Orphans" elected Gebhardt Sahner.

Ordinance introduced in common council authorizing the letting of contracts for street repaving which are already let and completed by the public works department.

Ordinances introduced transferring $172,500 to supply deficiencies created by councils last spring in making up annual appropriations.

Ordinances introduced dividing the garbage contracts for next year.

Solicitor Rodgers gave written opinion that blanket clauses in the public works and public charities ordinances were legal.

The Citizens party combine in select council is still doing business at the old stand, regardless of the popular condemnation expressed by the voters at the polls a week ago. The hold-up of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances is continued, and there seems now to be little chance of the passage of the ordinances as long as the present administration is in power. The leaders of the combine yesterday afternoon forced an adjournment of select council before action could be taken on John A. Murphy's resolution to withdraw from the surveys committee the Twenty-third ward street vacation ordinances for the Baltimore & Ohio.

Mr. Murphy's resolution was presented at the previous meeting of select council, but the combine forced an adjournment then while the resolution was pending. The combine repeated the performance yesterday. When the order of unfinished business was reached Mr. Murphy was on the floor to call up the resolution. President John S. Lambie was absent and Thomas E. Perry of the Twelfth ward, who is a loyal member of the combine, was in the chair.

Chairman Perry refused to recognize Mr. Murphy, but recognized Samuel J. Wainwright, Jr., who made a motion to adjourn. Chairman Perry put the motion when it had not been seconded. The combine and the Citizens, with almost one voice yelled, "Aye" and the chairman declared the meeting adjourned. A small minority, consisting of Murphy, Costello, O'Brien and a few others voted "No."

Earlier in the session, under the call of wards, John Upperman, another prominent member of the combine, presented the following resolution, which was adopted almost unanimously:

Another Club Over Railroad.

Resolved, That the director of public works be requested to furnish to the committees of corporations and surveys of select council the acreage of the streets to be vacated for the use of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company in the Twenty-third ward, and the acreage of the Monongahela wharf asked for by said railroad company, bounded by Smithfield, Water and Grant streets and the Monongahela river; also the acreage of the property lately purchased by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in the First ward, bounded by Penn avenue, Water street, Duquesne way and Third avenue.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's property in the First ward, referred to in the resolution, was vacated by councils about two years ago.

A similar resolution was adopted by the surveys committee, which met just before select council went into session. T. O. Atkinson, a member of the combine, is the chairman of the surveys

A contest for the position of president pro tem., which ended in the election of Gebhardt Sahner, an "orphan," and the defeat of Daniel J. Bole, a Bigelow follower, last night demonstrated that the Citizens party machine has lost control of the lower branch of Pittsburgh councils. President Charles S. Crawford was ill and absent from last night's meeting. The Citizens party leaders became acquainted with this fact in advance and made an effort to capture the chairmanship. A number of their lieutenants were at the city hall early, lining up the councilmen for Bole, who is a representative from the Nineteenth ward, where the Bigelows reside.

The "orphans" put up Sahner in opposition to Bole, and he was elected with the aid of Republican votes, 12 "orphans" and 7 Republicans voting for Sahner. He received 19 votes and Bole 18 votes. Chris Beckert, Jr., of the Fourteenth ward nominated Bole and W. H. Stevenson, also of the Fourteenth ward, nominated Sahner. The members voted as follows:

For Sahner—Armstrong, Bauldauf, Barr, Beehner, Brand, Cross, Moore, McNeil, Thomas O'Brien, Reitz, Sched, Semmelrock, Shaw, Shearer, Soffel, Stevenson, West, Wolfs, Wymard.—19.

For Bole—Barker, Beckert, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Lamb, Lauler, David Lewis, Martin, McNally, Schuck, Sterrett, Walls, Willey, Enger.—18.

Contracts Let Irregularly.

Outside of the contest over the chairmanship, the chief feature of the meeting was the introduction of several new ordinances, one of which displays what seems to be irregularity on the part of the head of the public works department. An ordinance introduced by J. P. Sterrett of the Nineteenth ward provides for the letting of contracts for street repaving this year, aggregating $78,000, the money having been appropriated by councils last spring. The irregular part of the proceeding is the fact that the street repaving which is authorized by the Sterret ordinance has already been done. The contracts were advertised and let to various firms months ago, without first being authorized by councils.

Among those to receive contracts was Evan Jones, who completed the work assigned him and on Saturday went to the office of the city controller and claimed his money. Controller John B. Larkin found that while the work had been done it had never been authorized by councils. He therefore refused to pay Jones the money for his work until the necessary legislation was enacted by councils. The ordinance introduced last night by Sterrett is intended to remedy the matter.

Ordinances were also introduced to 58th Congress Organizes With Usual Impressive Scenes on Floor and in Galleries.

KEYSTONE MEN PROMINENT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

The extra session of congress, called by the president to make effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty, assembled at noon today. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was elected speaker of the house, the usual preliminaries were attended to and tomorrow congress will listen to the reading of the president's message.

Today's meeting resembled a pink tea more than a legislative assembly. This was true of both branches, there being a profusion of flowers and floral designs, the galleries packed with handsomely-gowned women, and everybody on the floor and among the spectators apparently inspired with the kindliest feelings toward everyone else.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon's induction into office was greeted with the applause of both sides of the hall, Democrats joining with Republicans in showing the friendliest spirit toward the veteran legislator. As he took the gavel from Clerk McDowell and raised his right hand to take the oath, Mr. Cannon's face was flushed with pleasure. The scene was impressive and in that brief moment, as with uplifted hand he took the oath of office, the genial story-telling, witty, veteran of the house, the champion catch-as-catch can debater on the floor, was changed into the stern and dignified presiding officer, the official of the government next in power only to the president himself—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon.

Speaker Cannon Now.

To his intimates, Mr. Cannon will still be "Uncle Joe," brusque, honest, lovable and genial, but with the fulfillment of his life's ambition has come the responsibilities of the commanding general, and from now it is Speaker Cannon.

Maj. Alexander McDowell of Sharon, Pa., clerk of the house, presided until the election of the speaker was accomplished and acquitted himself with credit, after which he turned the gavel over to Speaker Cannon. Mr. McDowell paid Pittsburgh a compliment in the appointment of tellers, when he named H. K. Porter as one of the four. Later Maj. McDowell was re-elected clerk of the house.

Mr. Hitt (Ill.) offered the following resolution:

> Resolved, by the house of representatives, That the president be requested to communicate to the house if not incompatible with the interest of the public service, all correspondence and other official documents relating to the recent revolt in the Isthmus of Panama.

It was agreed to.

There were 129 new members sworn in today, among them being the four congressmen from Pittsburgh—John Dalzell, H. K. Porter, James W. Brown and George Shiras II. Mr. Dalzell thus begins his ninth term in congress, having entered that body on March 4, 1887. G. F. Huff of Greensburg begins his third term, having served in the Fifty-second and Fifty-fourth congresses.

Acheson's Fifth Term.

Ernest F. Acheson (Washington, Pa.) today entered upon his fifth term, having been in congress since March 4, 1895. A. L. Bates of Meadville begins his second term and Joseph C. Sibley his fourth term. W. O. Smith of Punxsutawney begins his first term.

The senate, having organized for the special session of that branch in March had little to do today. In this chamber the floral offerings were magnificent. Senator Hanna received many flowers in recognition of his great victory in Ohio, and Senator Gorman was accorded like recognition for his leadership of the Democrats in Maryland.

Several hundred bills were introduced in the house today. A statehood bill for New Mexico introduced by Delegate

GROCER SLAIN IN BRUTAL WAY

Three Men Enter Alexander Jazinka's Store in the Fog.

SHOOT AND ESCAPE

The Police Are Divided as to Whether Robbery or Revenge Was the Motive.

SLIGHT HOPE FOR CAPTURE

Alexander Jazinka, a well-to-do Polish grocer and who was accounted something of a leader among his race in this vicinity, was brutally murdered by three unknown men, who attacked him in his store, No. 3037 Wayne street, shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning. He was shot at several times, but it is thought the first bullet which struck him caused the mortal wound. The men secured no loot for their pains and escaped. With but meager descriptions of them the Pittsburgh police put in a fruitless day in search for the men. Up to a late hour last night the coroner's office had not been officially notified of the murder and had taken no steps in the case.

Jazinka's store is in the middle of the block at the top of a hill which winds up from the Pennsylvania railroad tracks. The building is a long and narrow one, and the front half is used for store purposes. The rear half which consists of but two rooms, is used by the Jazinka family for living purposes. The store part of the building is much larger than the other part.

They Shot to Kill.

There is a double door which leads into the store. On the left of it is partitioned off a space for a meat shop, which occupied the entire left side of the store; on the other side groceries are kept. To the right of the front door is a long circular counter behind which are circular shelves. The counter extends half way around this section of the room to steps which lead to the part occupied by the family. On each end of the long counter rests a case containing groceries. In the center between the two cases is the space over which the goods are sold.

Jazinka arose at his usual time, at 6 o'clock, yesterday morning, and began at once to open the store. His wife, Annie Jazinka, arose shortly afterward. The grocer threw open the store and began to sweep out. He was interrupted in this by a young Polish boy who bought some tobacco for his father. The lad stood about the store after the purchase had been made and got in the grocer's way while he was sweeping. The wife inside heard her husband order the boy out of the store. Then the grocer began to sweep behind the counter.

It was while he was doing this that the three men entered. It is not thought the grocer knew them, for he was heard to make no exclamation; he probably thought they were customers. Suddenly Mrs. Jazinka, in the adjoining room preparing breakfast, heard a shot fired, followed by her husband's wild screams. She peered out of the door into the store and saw her husband crouching behind the counter and the three men in the store, the foremost of whom held a smoking revolver. Mrs. Jazinka screamed: "They will murder us all" and ran from the kitchen into the bedroom, further to the rear, but leaving the door between the store and the kitchen open.

Jazinka Could Not Speak.

Jazinka dragged himself into the kitchen and sank on the floor his head resting on a long and low table. The men followed him, firing more shots at him. One bullet sped wide of its mark, through a partition between the kitchen and the bedroom, clear across the room and imbedded itself in the wall just above the head of the bed, just missing Mrs. Jazinka, who crouched terror-stricken in the room.

The men were seen running from the store by John Jazinka, the grocer's oldest son who came from his bedroom, upstairs, to the scene of the tragedy. Jazinka was carried to the bedroom and placed upon a bed. There he remained for nearly four hours with doctors working over him. He was in a semi-

KAISER'S CAPITAL UNEASY DESPITE ASSURANCES

Berlin Fears That Ruler's Long Standing Ear Trouble May Have Extended Into His Throat. Newspapers Doubt Statements of Doctors.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Although it is officially stated that the kaiser is suffering no ill effects from the operation on his throat, it cannot be concealed that there is considerable anxiety in court circles where it is suspected that something more serious than what has been given out may be expected. In spite of the assurance of the operating physicians it is believed that the tumor was connected with the inflammation of the inner ear, from which the kaiser has been suffering for many years, and the pain of which at times almost drove him insane.

Though nothing has been said of this inflammation of late it is well known that the kaiser is never entirely free from pain and that the inflammation has spread considerably during the last few months, though the attacks of pain are not as violent as they were in the kaiser's younger days.

It is now feared that the inflammation has progressed through the eustachian tube to the throat and that the kaiser may be attacked by the same cancerous disease from which his father died. The secrecy with which the operation was surrounded so that not even the empress or the oldest son of the kaiser had any idea that it was performed, is thought by many to signify that the condition of the imperial patient is much worse than officially given out. The official bulletins which appeared last night and this morning are not generally believed by the people of Berlin and there is great alarm in this city, where rumors are spread that the kaiser's condition is serious and that a crisis may be expected within a short time.

The Nord Deutsche Zeitung, a paper that is known for the reliability of its news, in a leading article today reminds its readers that the serious throat trouble which ended the life of the late Kaiser Frederick was also pronounced benign, and that, therefore, the statement of the operating physicians in the present case is open to doubt.

OPPOSE HASTE OVER THE SITE

Efforts to Hurry Report of High School Committee Will Be Opposed.

SIX PROPERTIES VIEWED

Central Board of Education Spends an Afternoon Visiting Possible Locations Near the Carnegie Institute—Judge Magee's Property Favored So Far.

The viewing yesterday afternoon of sites offered for the new high school developed the fact that there is a possibility of a serious disagreement in the Central Board of Education over the location of the proposed structure. The determination to dispose of the Friendship avenue site and secure one located in the vicinity of the Carnegie Institute has led to the offering of a number of properties and the committee appointed to secure a location has found six. One faction in this committee wishes to rush the matter through at once by choosing one of the half dozen available now, while another thinks that it would be better to wait for two or three weeks, see more sites and secure if possible a better price.

The sites so far considered were viewed yesterday by a majority of the members of the board. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the site committee will decide whether it will report at the meeting of the central board this evening. It is the desire of at least three members of the committee of seven that this should not be done; that a special meeting of the board be called about November 26 to consider this one question, and that the site committee continue its work in the meantime.

The sites visited, the price wanted and the extent of the property are given below in the order in which the visits were made:

Properties That Were Visited.

Property of John Murphy, general superintendent of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, above Fifth avenue, between Darragh and Lathrop, with Victoria street in the rear; extent, about two acres; price, $100,000.

Henry Lloyd property at the southeast corner of Fifth and Bellefield avenues; about five acres in extent; price, $400,000.

Schenley property in Bellefield avenue, across Bayard street from Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind. No arrangement has been made as to the extent of the property wanted or the price at which it could be had an acre, if the Schenley estate would sell at all. Five or six acres are mentioned as adequate.

Jennings property, between Duquesne Garden and Fifth avenue and Neville and Craig streets, fronting 411 feet in Fifth; 235 in Neville and 175 in Craig; price, $1,000 per front foot in Fifth avenue, or $411,000.

Judge Christopher Magee property in Forbes street, just across the bridge over Junction hollow; extends 600 feet along Forbes and with an irregular depth, includes about 12 acres, a large portion of which is now a deep hollow; between $300,000 and $350,000 wanted.

Steele property in Wodlawn avenue, two blocks west of the Forbes street car line; size about 250 by 200 feet; price, $110,000.

The Magee site has undoubtedly the call at the present time. It adjoins the site of the new technical school, and it is said to be but 600 feet distant from the east line of the Carnegie Institute although the deep Junction hollow lies between them. Another bridge across that hollow under consideration to connect both the new high school and the technical school with the Institute. The south line of the property extends to the bottom of a deep hollow where it joins the tech school line. Both the Magee property and the Flinn-Magee site obtained for the tech school are hilly and it is claimed that these hills would when graded furnish sufficient filling to level the hollow.

It is gradually developing that ambitious plans are being formulated for this new high school. It seems to be the intention to make it a central high school with the other high schools subsidiary to it.

The Friendship avenue property was bought for $117,000.

Those Who Made the Visits.

The members of the site committee are S. C. Jamison (chairman), George W. Gosser, John F. O'Toole, William H. Ziefel, Owen Welsh, T. C. Rebele and D. L. Gillespie. Messrs. O'Toole and Gosser are a subcommittee on prices. The other members of the Central Board of Education who accompanied the committee were President John T. Fox, Secretary Charles F. Reisfar, Jr., Robert P. Lougray, Andrew McGraw, H. W. Sellers, H. L. Reinecke, Samuel McCutcheon, Daniel Whitmore, C. J. Fedder, T. M. Brophy, George E. Geyer, William McGarey, Robert McMillan and John P. McTighe.

S. A. Dickey, Newton K. Delavan and Dr. Robert C. Clarke, members of the committee of seven appointed by the East End Board of Trade to look after the interests of that section, accompanied the committee, the other members, J. H. Harrison, J. W. Wallace, Dr. T. D. Davis and David Reihard not appearing. W. G. Kegley, solicitor of the Oakland Board of Trade, was also along. The Oakland board expects to take action on the plan Friday evening, and next Monday evening the subject will be brought up at the East End board meeting.

LECTURE ON CROMWELL.

First of Series on Leaders of Social Liberty in England by Dr. George E. Howard.

"Oliver Cromwell, His Place in the History of Intellectual Development," the first in the University Extension society's course of lectures on "The Six Leaders of Social Liberty in England," was delivered last night by George Elliott Howard, Ph. D., of the University of Chicago, before a large crowd in Carnegie Institute. Dr. Howard is an enthusiast of Cromwell and his estimate ranks Cromwell with the greatest leaders the world has known. He declared that "Cromwell's life reveals a great soul, earnestly striving to find a righteous solution of the tremendous cases of conscience which the times and nation laid upon him."

The ethical and social evolution of the age and the mission of Cromwell were carefully gone over, beside the new ideas and laws which he brought into vogue. In some respects, it was said, Cromwell was on a level with his age, but parts of his writings might be those of some well-known author of a comparatively recent date. The legal, constitutional and religious reforms which were wrought by Cromwell were brought out in the lecture.

"Cromwell was extremely religious and he believed that his army was superior to the army of his enemy because his followers were religious, and I do not believe that it was cant," averred Mr. Howard.

Rodey, has the distinction of being the first house bill of the Fifty-eighth congress, and will be number one. Representative Bartholdt (Mo.) sought this distinction for a bill restoring the army canteen, but was compelled to take second place, and this bill is number two. A bill giving congress the right to regulate trusts was introduced by Representative Palmer (Rep., Pa.). Representative Sibley (Rep., Pa.) introduced a bill to increase the pay of rural free delivery carriers. Representative Greene (Rep., Mass.) introduced a bill to induce favorable employment of American ships.

Representative Sulzer (Dem., N. Y.) introduced bills providing a territorial form of government for Alaska; to abolish government by injunction; to elect senators by popular vote; a bill granting rebates on exports and imports carried in American ships; an eight-hour bill, and bills for the erection of monuments in Washington to Samuel J. Tilden and Amos J. Cummings. Representative Shafroth (Dem., Col.) introduced a bill establishing the metric system of weights and measures.

At the caucus the Republican senators tomorrow a resolution will be offered declaring that the committee on interoceanic canals should be a majority committee and that the chairman should be a Republican. It is likely to be adopted, in which case the committee on committees when it reports will provide that a Republican senator shall succeed Senator Morgan. It is supposed that Senator Hanna will be named for the place.

MORGAN TO BE DROPPED FROM CANAL COMMITTEE

Republican Majority in Senate Has Grown Weary of His Opposition.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama is to be deposed as chairman of the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals and he is to be succeeded by Senator Hanna of Ohio. This is caused by Senator Morgan's persistent opposition to the Panama route in the face of the determination of the administration to utilize this route if at all practicable.

Tomorrow the senate will caucus and appoint a committee to name the committees and fill vacancies. Senator Platt of Connecticut will likely be chairman of this committee and in arranging the committee on interoceanic canals Mr. Hanna will be named as chairman and Mr. Morgan will be dropped down into the rank and file.

The Democratic steering committee met today and decided to concentrate all its attacks upon the president and his policies. They concluded that little was to be said about the Republican party, but that the acts of President Roosevelt were to be criticised on every opportunity. His course in extending recognition to the new republic of Panama will be the special target of the Democrats this session.

YOUTHFUL ROBBERS ORGANIZED IN A BAND

Confession of One Member Leads to Two Arrests in Lawrenceville.

Through the admission of Herman Fingern a boy who was recently arrested for incorrigibility, several of his youthful companions have been implicated in petty and mischievous thefts which have been puzzling the Lawrenceville police for some time. The boy yesterday told Capt. Peter Walsh that he was a member of a regularly organized band of thieves and gave the names of Robert Kress, 15 years old of Fifty-second street, and August Loedding of No. 5115 Holmes street, as other members, both of whom were arrested.

The three confessed to having robbed a confectionery store in the Butler plank road, Millvale, on election night, and destroyed much property in the store. The police yesterday turned Finger over to his parents, who live at No. 5106 Lotus alley. More arrests are expected to be made.

PATTI AT THE NIXON.

The Famous Songstress Has Been Positively Booked to Appear Here February 15.

Mme. Adelina Patti is to appear in Pittsburgh after all. She has been booked to sing at the new Nixon theater on the night of February 15 next. Her original date was November 6, last Friday night, at Duquesne garden, but when it was found that that place of amusement would not be available and Patti's management refused to allow her to appear at Carnegie Music hall, it was supposed she would not visit Pittsburgh.

Last night, however, T. F. Kirk, Jr., the Pittsburgh representative of S. F. Nixon, owner of the new Nixon and the Alvin theaters, received from Philadelphia a telegram from Mr. Nixon announcing that the famous diva had been positively booked for the Nixon for February 15.

committee, which has possession of the Baltimore & Ohio ordinances for the Twenty-third ward. John J. Shenkel, a member of the combine, moved to refer the Twenty-third ward ordinances to a sub-committee of three members with instructions to procure from Direc or Bigelow a statement showing the area of the streets which it was proposed to vacate.

On this committee were appointed John J. Shenkel, Louis P. Schneider and John H. Voskamp of the combine. Shenkel and Schneider stated that it was the intention to fix a value upon the streets to be vacated, based upon the valuations of the abutting property, and to make the railroad company pay this price as compensation. Schneider admitted that the railroad owned all the abutting property on the streets, but said that the railroad was to be forced to pay for the streets notwithstanding.

Under the law the public merely holds an easement on the streets and they revert to the abutting property owners whenever the streets cease to become available for traffic. Councils, however, must formally declare the streets vacated before the abutting propertyowners can take possession of them.

In the passage of the Upperman resolution Chairman Perry would not permit any remarks to be made upon the measure. Mr. Murphy wanted to speak on the resolution, but was shut off by the chairman, who called for the vote as soon as the motion to adopt the resolution was made by Mr. Upperman.

An ordinance was introduced in select council granting the Pennsylvania Automatic Signal and Alarm Company the right to lay conduits, wires, etc., for a private police and fire alarm service. The company offers the city a compensation of 5 per cent of its gross receipts. An ordinance granting Henry W. Oliver the right to build a subway under Wood street for a private electric light line, connecting his property, was also introduced. Both ordinances were referred to committees.

conscious condition but did not speak a word as the bullet which caused his death went through his mouth and destroyed the organs of speech. Jazinka died at 10:20 o'clock without giving any clue as to his assassins.

The police and detectives are divided in opinion as to the motive for the murder of Jazinka. Detective Oscar Seifert believes that the three men went to the store to rob Jazinka, and is backed up in that theory by Superintendent of Police McTighe and several of his officers. Seifert was on night duty Sunday night and was telephoned to a few minutes after the shooting took place. He got to the house shortly after 7 o'clock, less than an hour after the event. He found there were two drawers in the store counter, one where Jazinka kept his money and the other where he kept his bills and papers. The latter had been opened, the papers tossed about and some of them thrown on the floor. This drawer was six feet away from the money drawer.

Leo Bogasheski of 3028 Wayne street told Seifert he went to the store to buy a piece of tobacco and three men standing about the door drove him away, saying he could not get in there. He presumed something was wrong inside and went on to his work. Mrs. Mary Kilpatrick, who lives next door to the store, saw three men at the store, as did Elizabeth Schultz, a small girl, who also had occasion to go to the store. A woman who lives above the store says she heard knocking at the store door shortly before it was opened for the day. The description of the men seen by all these people is about the same. Officer Robert Walls saw three men answering the same description near the place at 5 o'clock. They told him they worked at Carnegie's mill and he let them go.

Mrs. Jazinka, who only saw the men for a moment before they ran, gives the same description, and from all of them the police believe they were tramps, or at least men who hang about the produce yards in the Pennsylvania railroad.

The three men were traced as far as the Lawrenceville station of the Pennsylvania railroad at Thirty-third street, where the trail was lost. The switchman at Twenty-eighth street saw the men walking up the track toward Thirty-third street. The stationmaster at the Lawrenceville station saw the men board the outgoing Pitcairn accommodation which left Lawrenceville at 5:53 in the morning.

Jazinska was 38 years old, and came to this country a little over 17 years ago. Up to 1893 he conducted a grocery store in Allegheny. Ten years ago he moved to Wayne street and had since been in business there. Besides his widow he leaves seven children, the eldest of whom is John, aged 17 years, and Clara, the youngest, aged 8 months. The other children are Alexander, Lewis, Anthony, Catherine and Mary.

transfer money aggregating $172,500 from the judgment fund to the street lighting and water funds, to supply the deficiences in those two bureaus caused by the councils failing to appropriate enough money at the beginning of the year.

The financiers of councils cut down the appropriations on the eve of the last municipal election for the purpose of keeping down the annual tax levy. Deficiencies amounting to $80,000 were left in the street lighting bureau and more than that amount in the water bureau. The appropriation for the health bureau was also cut down and since a bond issue of $225,000 has been necessary. It is stated that the judgment fund, which is drawn upon to supply these deficiencies, will be reimbursed by another bond issue.

The administration blames the deficiencies upon Controller John B. Larkin and Councilman W. H. Stevenson, the latter chairman of the finance committee, because Larkin and Stevenson made up the appropriations for this year.

Mr. Stevenson introduced two garbage ordinances last night, which provide a change in the garbage handling system. One ordinance provides for the collection and removal of garbage to three garbage depots. The second ordinance provides for the disposal of the refuse by having the contractors for disposal call at the depots to receive it. Under the present system one contractor collects and disposes of the garbage. It is the expectation that money will be saved by dividing the contracts.

An opinion was received from City Solicitor Rodgers holding the blanket clause of the public works and public charities ordinances to be legal. He stated that public emergencies might arise which would compel the employment of extra artisans and laborers, and that the heads of the departments ought to have this power. He said this power should only be used, however, in case of an emergency and was not a permanent right.

After the reading of the city solicitor's opinion common council went into the committee of the whole and made some more amendments to the public works ordinance. The two engineers at the city hall were given an increase of from $75 to $90 a month and the elevator operator was increased from $50 to $60 a month. The ordinance then went over for reprinting. The charities department ordinance was passed finally.

The first veto from Mayor Hays was received. He vetoed the resolution annulling the lease of Ruch's hill, Thirteenth ward, from Booth & Flinn, for a dog pound. The mayor's veto was based upon a contradiction in the text of the resolution. Council sustained the veto.

Council passed finally the ordinances for the River and Railroad Terminal Company, giving it the right to build a bridge from Carson street to its warehouses over Cabot way; for the vacation of Bingham street, between South Third and Fourth streets, and for the widening of Cabot way, between South Third and Fourth streets; for the building of a railroad switch into the warehouses; and for the changing of the name of Cabot way to McKean street.

Council also passed a large number of street and sewer ordinances, among which was the ordinance opening and widening Hamilton avenue, between Fifth and Penn avenues.

LEAVE DIAMOND SAVINGS.

John S. Scully and John S. Scully, Jr., Dispose of Stock and Retire from Bank.

By the resignation of John S. Scully as president and of John S. Scully, Jr., as cashier of the Diamond Savings bank, the entire interest of the two in the Diamond bank has been transferred to the same syndicate which last August obtained Mr. Scully's holdings in the stock of the Diamond National bank, of which he was president.

Will Price, who succeeded Mr. Scully as president of the Diamond National bank, now becomes president of the Diamond Savings bank. The new cashier is L. E. Huseman, who has been with the Lincoln National bank and the North American Savings bank for about nine years. J. W. Lee and H. C. Wettengel are vice presidents.

John S. Scully, Jr., returned yesterday morning from California, where he had attended the convention of the American Bankers' association.

Wilkinsburg's Bond Issue.

Wilkinsburg council last night passed a resolution on second reading providing for a special borough election on Tuesday, February 16, 1904, to secure a vote on the issuance of $50,000 municipal bonds for continuing the work of paving the streets of the town. Council is still deadlocked on the selection of a policeman to fill a vacancy. There are 10 candidates. The expected curfew ordinance was not presented.

POPE REGRETS LOSS OF POWER

Expresses Himself as to Temporal Authority at First Consistory.

NEW CARDINALS ARE CREATED

Says the Pontiff Should Appear Free and Not the Subject of Any Power. Asks Prelates to Help Him Carry His Burden.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, Nov. 9.—The first secret consistory of the new pontificate was held today. No American cardinal was appointed. Several appointments of archbishops and bishops were made, including that of the Rev. J. J. Harty as archbishop of Manila, Philippine islands, who, as an exceptional privilege, received the pallium at an extra consistory when he came to Rome for consecration. The Rev. Thomas A. Hendrick was confirmed as bishop of Cebu, Philippine islands.

The appointment of the two cardinals, Mgr. Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, and Mgr. Callegari, archbishop of Padua, was announced by the pope, who said in Latin: "What have you to say?" In response the cardinals raised their caps as a sign of affirmation on their part.

The pope began his allocution by recalling that at first he wished to decline the pontifical dignity. He said:

"Knowing the duties resting on a Roman pontiff it is not strange if we considered ourselves unfit for the task for as we saw the apostolic duty, we judged they could not be properly carried out with our strength, as we recognized that on rising to the papal throne our greatest study must be to give the most force to religion and to rectify errors. All this, considering our great weakness, frightened us, but as God willed to elevate us to this dignity, we trust in His help to sustain.

"His help to sustain our efforts to retain the faith inviolate and provide for the eternal salvation of all without saving ourselves trouble or fatigue.

"For truth's sake it is necessary that in governing the church the pontiff should appear to be free and not the subject of any power. But this is not the case and that is what we lament as being a grave injury to the church.

"Your precious help and advice, my venerable brothers, assist me in fulfilling the duties of my most important office, and I shall always ask for your counsel under all grave circumstances. Thus, each of you sustaining part of the immense weight resting upon us, our services will be extended not only to the faithful, but to the whole world. We shall not follow any path but that of our predecessors, namely, to restore all in Christ. As Christ is Truth we must go toward Truth."

Continuing, the pope enumerated all that was necessary to reach this end, and added that he knew there would be no obstacles to his work, and said:

"The pope, in his office, cannot separate the faith from politics. Therefore, he being the head and sovereign ruler of the most perfect society, namely, the church, constituted among men and of men strictly composed, he certainly must wish that between him and the princes of the world and the rulers of public affairs mutual relations should exist, if he wishes to provide for this society liberty for Catholics in all parts of the world. Efforts are now being made to destroy the liberty of the Catholic truth, which the church most absolutely opposes, as that is not a promotion of liberty, but corruption of liberty.

"However, following the Redeemer we must pity and pardon the sinners, while trying by all means to become reconciled with them. We trust to accomplish what our predecessors could not reach—that truth shall overcome everywhere the errors of injustice. We shall persist in this struggle as, if all our desires are not completely satisfied, certainly with the help of God we shall succeed in having the empire of truth established and consolidated in all good people and propagated to all others who are well disposed."

CASEY COMPLAINED.

Democratic Jury Commissioner Petitioned for Relief for One of His Henchmen.

A petition from Cornelius Casey, the Democratic jury commissioner of Allegheny county, stirred up trouble at a meeting of the Sharpsburg council last night. Casey asked that a fine imposed on Thomas Shultz by Justice F. W. Schradt, for placing Citizens posters on telegraph poles be revoked as Chief of Police John Straub had refused to arrest a man for doing the same with Republican posters.

Council came to a deadlock over a motion made by M. E. Dethlef that the fine be remitted.

Capt. E. E. Ziegler reported that Dr. W. M. Bell state quarantine officer, had investigated a smallpox epidemic in Pleasant Valley, O'Hara township, adjoining Sharpsburg, and had found there were 13 cases of the disease neglected. In case of a possible quarantine of the valley to prevent the disease from spreading to the borough, as it has been doing, Ziegler said that the borough would be forced to undertake the quarantine. Eight cases of the disease were reported in the borough.

ETNA COUNCIL WILL MAKE INVESTIGATION

Etna is to have an investigation. Last night J. H. Core, who was formerly employed as a borough engineer, appeared before the borough council and charged that Charles Heist, superintendent of water and light, had misappropriated money paid to him for the purpose of paying an engineer who took Core's place during three days' absence. Core alleges that the reason he was discharged was because he reported to the county boiler inspector an alleged defective condition of engine boilers which he says were condemned, but never repaired. And now a committee will investigate.

APPOINTMENT HAS CAUSED SURPRISE

Col. A. K. McClure Gets the Supreme Court Prothonotaryship Over Political Aspirant.

WALTON WAS INDORSED

Col. A. K. McClure Now Becomes Prothonotary

The supreme court in session here yesterday ordered filed an order appointing Col. A. K. McClure of Philadelphia prothonotary of the supreme court for the eastern district. Col. McClure, who is the well-known newspaper editor, fills the vacancy caused by the death of Charles S. Green.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—The appointment at Pittsburgh today of Col. Alexander K. McClure, the veteran Philadelphia journalist, as prothonotary of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, to date from December, came as a big surprise in political circles, as it was not believed that the appointment was to be given to any other than Speaker Harry F. Walton, also of this city.

About six weeks ago the name of Col. McClure was first mentioned in connection with that of ex-Gov. William M. Bunn, and it was then said that the mentioning of Col. McClure's name was due to his friends in the Clover club. The political leaders, when interviewed at the time, said positively that there was absolutely nothing in the report connecting the names of either Col. McClure or Gov. Bunn with the office.

The political leaders did not hesitate in saying that they desired the place, which is considered a life position and worth about $15,000 annually, for Speaker Walton and that the position would not be filled for some time to come. When it was first announced that efforts were being made to have Speaker Walton named for the prothonotaryship, it was stated that by his oath as a member of the legislature he was prevented from holding the position during the term for which he was elected.

The political leaders secured expert legal advice on this question, and the statement was made as a result of this inquiry into eligibility, that there was nothing to prevent the acceptance of this office by Speaker Walton, the contention being that it was an elective office, and that the justices of the supreme court elected rather than appointed.

The strongest influences were brought to bear upon the justices of the court to name Speaker Walton, and it was current gossip, for the time being, prior to the death of the late Chief Justice McCollum, that the court, without the vote of the chief justice, was three to three, and that it would require the vote of the chief justice to elect Mr. Walton.

How true this is may never be known. All the political leaders are away from the city at this time and their views cannot be ascertained. About one month ago Col. McClure lost considerable of his fortune in Consolidated Lake Superior and since that time his intimate friends, including many men of influence, have labored hard to secure for him this appointment.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

WILL BE LAID TO REST BY LIFE-LONG FRIENDS

Unostentatious Interment Will Be Given the Late William L. Elkins This Morning.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—In the simplest manner possible the Rev. J. Thomason Cole will conduct the funeral services over the body of William L. Elkins at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in his mansion at Ashbourne. Then the body will be taken to Laurel Hill cemetery and without ceremonies, laid to rest in the new marble mausoleum of the family.

A typical group of those who associated with Mr. Elkins in life, are to act as honorary pall bearers; they are: P. A. B. Widener, Thomas Dolan, A. J. Cassatt, E. R. Morris, C. Stuart Patterson, Dr. C. H. Duhring, Gen. Louis Wagner, United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins, Col. J. K. McIntyre, William C. Whitney, George [illegible] Huhn, Thomas F. Ryan, Clement A. Griscom, Isaac H. Clothier, John G. Johnson, Amos R. Little, N. Parker Shortridge, John D. Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, D. Newlin Fell, William R. Nicholson, Jay Cooke, Col. A. Louden Snowden.

Mr. Elkins was said to be a director in more than 100 corporations. It is known that he was the second largest owner of Pennsylvania railroad stock and at one time he held 16,000 shares of Standard oil. The latter alone is now worth $5,500,000. He also owned 30,000 shares of Philadelphia Rapid Transit. Who will succeed Mr. Elkins as a director in the Pennsylvania railroad, United Gas Improvement, Philadelphia Electric, Philadelphia Rapid Transit, and Metropolitan Traction is causing speculation. Either Rudolph Ellis, Thomas Dolan, P. A. B. Widener, and H. C. Frick have been suggested as the new director of the Pennsylvania railroad.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

Was Mysteriously Shot.

Frank Bass of Pittsburgh, working at the Port Perry tunnel, was shot yesterday afternoon and seriously injured. While standing by a fire at the tunnel a 44-caliber bullet struck him in the back and penetrated downward six inches, lodging against his thigh bone. His fellow workmen say they heard no shot nor saw any person around the tunnel with a gun. Bass was removed to the West Penn hospital.

FORMER PITTSBURGHER KILLED AT ST. LOUIS

Peter Tepper, a Tailor, Who Had Separated from His Wife, is Crushed by a Car.

Peter Tepper, 37 years old, a former Pittsburgher, was killed yesterday in St. Louis, by walking in front of a Laclede avenue street car. He had just treated a policeman in a saloon and coming out of the place walked directly in front of the car and was fatally crushed. He was taken to the city hospital, but died a few minutes after being placed on the operating table. Tepper was identified by a typewritten agreement found on him, separating him from his wife Cecilia, who now lives in Clarke street Pittsburgh. The papers were drawn up by Rabbi Moses S. Sivitz, of the Wylie Avenue synagogue and were dated December 1902. A bank book of the National Bank of Western Pennsylvania, in account with Samuel Cooper, was also found in his pockets.

Samuel Cooper was found at his house, No. 308 Roberts street, and said that Tepper had worked in his store at No. 1148 Penn avenue. Cooper said that he missed the bank book, but did not know that Tepper had taken it. The bank was notified soon after Cooper found he had lost his book. Tepper formerly lived in Logan street, but had no relatives in Pittsburgh. He was married about a year and a half ago and the separation took place last December, in accordance with Jewish laws. Mrs. Tepper is now living with her relatives in Scott street.

Cooper said that Tepper was a tailor and roamed about the country as he pleased. He worked for several Jewish tailors along Penn avenue, but never remained long with one firm. Tepper left Pittsburgh shortly after separating from his wife and it was a common rumor among Jews of the city, who knew him, that he had a wife in the west and that he went to live with her.

"Miss Bob White" Nearby.

"Miss Bob White," Spencer's tuneful opera, was given before a large and fashionable audience at the opera house in McKeesport last night. The opera was given with much vim and dash and nearly every melody in it was encored. The cast gave much satisfaction. Miss Dorothy Hunting was in excellent voice and acted, as well as sang, delightfully. Robert Broderick sang his numbers melodiously and Frank Deshon was decidedly amusing.

In the manufacturing of

for the wholesale trade very often small defects are overlooked, because to remedy them means some trouble and extra expense.

Not so when a Dealer manufactures PIANOS for his OWN Retail trade as we do.

The most trifling defects in material and workmanship are carefully corrected. Such defects may be trifling in themselves, but it's the painstaking Detail Work which makes the difference between a high-grade watch and a cheap one.

So it is with Pianos. We claim our Kleber PIANO, for that reason, is a high-grade artistic Piano, which ranks with the $450.00 kind; but as we make it for our own Retail Trade, and having a ONE-PRICE SYSTEM, we ask only $275.00 for it.

STEEL MEN WILL MEET TOMORROW

Another New York Session Will Take Up the Reduction in Prices.

CUT ON $1 60 TO $1 30 BASIS

Steel Rail Pool to Take Up Prices in That Line Today—Summary of the Corporation's Policy of Restricting Output and Expense.

Final decision on the reductions in steel will be made at a meeting of the steel men of the country at New York tomorrow. This meeting supplements those of last week at which the general lines of the reductions were marked out. It is said the reduction is from a $1 60 to a $1 30 per 100 pound basis, and will apply to practically all lines of steel, including structural shapes, plates, etc., as well as billets and Bessemer bars mentioned before.

The question of reducing the price of rails is being considered apart from the other reductions, but there would be little surprise if this price is also cut. There have been rumors of it dropping from $28 a ton to $26. It is to be expected that the railroads will not be content to pay the former prices while reductions are being made in other steel products. The rail pool meets today.

A special telegram to The Gazette from New York last night summarized the progress of the policy of restriction in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation as follows:

Summary of Restrictions.

Accomplished: Plants closed, 25 per cent; reduction of output, 15 per cent; pig iron reduction, 40 per cent; men laid off, [illegible] per cent; employes dismissed, 4 per cent.

To be accomplished: Wage reductions, 20 per cent; salary reductions, 30 per cent; economies in plants, 20 per cent; saving in freight rates, 10 per cent.

An official of the corporation is quoted as saying that the saving in freight rates alone will be $5,000,000 a year. "When the work now under way is completed it will be tantamount to a reorganization," he said. "High-salaried, but not absolutely essential places, will all have been abolished. The wage schedule, now ridiculously out of line with present prices, will be cut down. Many departments will be combined.

"It is in the operation of plants, however, that the greatest economies will be effected. Plants not properly situated when closed this time will be dismantled or removed before being reopened. The concentration of plants and offices at or near Pittsburgh will be the most important of all results brought about by the present depression."

Believes Bottom Is Reached.

In the course of an interview yesterday, B. F. Jones, Jr., president of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, said that he believed the bottom had now been reached and that the purchasers who had been holding off for lower prices would come into the market.

The report came from New York yesterday that Cleveland had been decided upon for the headquarters of the American Steel & Wire Company. It had been expected that they would be brought to this city.

MINISTERS INDORSED EVANGELISTIC PLANS

Meetings of Preachers Yesterday Were Interesting and Well Attended.

The attendance was large at the ministerial meetings yesterday, and papers of interest were discussed. The different associations indorsed the plan of the evangelistic committee.

"What Actually Happened on Saul's Visit to Endor, and What Is Its Bearing on Modern Spiritualism?" was the topic of the paper read before the United Presbyterian ministers by the Rev. J. A. Duff. The Rev. Samuel Semple of Titusville, read a paper on "Recent Contributions to Religious Psychology," before the gathering of Presbyterian ministers.

"The Macedonian Problem" was discussed before the Methodist Protestant ministers by the Rev. L. E. Davis. The Rev. J. C. Berrier, D. D., secretary of the board of ministerial education, spoke to the ministers about the advantages of Adrian college, of Michigan, which institution he represents. The board of ministerial education meets today in the Methodist Protestant building in Fifth avenue.

The Rev. J. M. Pascoe read a paper on "The New Testament in Relation to Certain Religious Thoughts of the Day" before the Methodist Episcopal ministers. The Rev. Thomas J. Leak, D. D., was elected a delegate to the state Sunday school convention, which opens in Harrisburg Monday.

The hour of the Baptist ministers was occupied by a paper on "Jesus, the King," by the Rev. J. A. Snodgrass. The executive committee of the Pittsburgh Baptist association is considering some suggestion to be made relating to the Revs. J. C. Wilkinson, of the Mt. Washington church and the Rev. C. A. McFall, late of the Sewickley church. The committee has the power to suggest only, and it is said will suggest that the right hand of fellowship be withdrawn from Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. McFall.

Some developments are expected tomorrow night when the congregation of the Mt. Washington church meets. The executive committee of the association is composed of the Rev. J. T. Davis, McKeesport, moderator; Francis J. Rebbeck, of the Fourth Avenue church, secretary; the Rev. George T. Street, Braddock; the Rev. J. A. Maxwell, McKeesport, and the Rev. B. F. Woodburn, of Allegheny.

No paper was read before the meeting of Lutheran ministers, but a number of announcements were made. The general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America will meet today in the Trinity Lutheran church of Allegheny. The Rev. M. Rhodes, D. D., of St. Louis, president of the synod, will preside. Dr. Rhodes will address the union meeting in the Trinity church commemorating the anniversary of Martin Luther. The tenth anniversary of the Grace Lutheran church, Hamilton avenue, Allegheny, will be celebrated next Sunday. The Rev. E. J. Wolf of Gettysburg, will preach the sermon.

The Pittsburgh presbytery of the Presbyterian church will meet in regular session in the Second Presbyterian church this morning at 10 o'clock. The Rev. A. R. Van Fossen will be received into the Pittsburgh presbytery from the Allegheny presbytery. The Allegheny presbytery met yesterday and granted a letter of dismissal to the Rev. Isaiah Revennaugh, formerly pastor of the Chiswick Presbyterian church. Mr. Revennaugh has accepted a call to the Riverdale church in the Pittsburgh presbytery.

The evangelistic committee representing the Protestant denominations of Pittsburgh, met in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association yesterday. The following denominations indorsed the recommendations of the committee: Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian, Baptist, Reformed, Lutheran and Christian. Other denominations are expected to take the same action.

New Soloist With Orchestra

At the second of the Pittsburgh orchestra concerts next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon Mr. Emilio de Gogorza will sing for the first time in Pittsburgh. Mr. Gogorza has been in New York two years, and previously in the best continental and English concert rooms, he had the favor shown only the greatest singers. He has a beautiful baritone voice and sings with the real Italian abandon. The orchestra program is brilliant and varied, some charming French ballet music being noted for the first time. There are plenty of good seats left for both concerts.

Skinner Starts on His Mission.

PORT SAID, EGYPT, Nov. 9.—The United States gunboat Machias, having on board Consul-General Skinner of Marseilles, and the party of marines which is to escort Mr. Skinner to Adis Abeba, capital of Abyssinia, left here today for Jibutil, French Somaliland, where a caravan for the interior awaits them.

Deal Formally Ratified.

Stockholders of the Public Trust Company voted yesterday in favor of ratifying the merger of that company with the new International Savings and Trust Company. The meeting was a formality, as all the details had been arranged and approved before.

Mrs. W. F. Casey Critically Ill.

Mrs. W. F. Casey, widow of the former well-known contractor of this city, and mother of Mrs. John P. Mahan, who was buried yesterday, is reported to be in a critical condition at her home, No. 4211 Fifth avenue.

VERNER WANTS TO CONSULT HAYS

Plans for Councilmanic Campaign Will Not Be Decided Until Mayor Recovers.

KIRKER TO BE PROMOTED

He Will Be Appointed Chief Clerk in the Prothonotary's Office by Major Hamilton—Several of the Clerks to Be Dropped.

Citizen party plans for the councilmanic campaign will not be completed until next week. Murry A. Verner made this announcement yesterday. He says that he is waiting for Mayor W. B. Hays to recover his health.

Thomas S. Bigelow and Verner are anxious to go over the situation with the mayor. They want his advice on a number of matters. Verner says that he cannot discuss the councilmanic campaign until he has consulted with Hays.

Until the mayor returns to his desk nothing can be done in the ripping line. There was a large crowd about city hall and the safety building yesterday. Some of the men were looking for jobs and others were trying to hold their places. It will be up to Hays to decide how many changes are to be made. Many of the leaders will urge him to use the ax with a liberal hand with the one idea of strengthening the machine in view. Bigelow says he does not know how much ripping is to be done.

Major J. B. Hamilton, the prothonotary-elect, will make few changes in his office. It is practically settled that Representative W. B. Kirker, of Bellevue will succeed Hamilton as chief clerk. He has been in the office for a number of years. The appointment of Kirker will take him out of the running for assemblyman in the Seventh legislative district. There are two or three clerks in the prothonotary's office who will doubtless be dropped.

Outsiders have been arranging the appointments in the district attorney's office for Maj. Robert E. Stewart, the district attorney-elect. So far he has made no selection of assistants, clerks and county detectives. The appointees will all be of his own chosing.

The official count of the county election may be completed by this evening. About 30 districts remain to be tabulated. It will take almost a day to count the figures. When the official count for Pittsburgh, Allegheny and McKeesport was completed, H. L. Goehring had a lead of 5,660 over Maj. Stewart, Republican, for district attorney. This lead was not lost until O'Hara townships was reached about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remaining counting districts are also strong for Stewart and he will have a plurality of from 850 to 945. The unofficial figures give him 945, but the official plurality will not be quite so large.

I. W. Shearer, common councilman for the Thirty-seventh ward, has announced that he will not be a candidate for reelection. He was elected by the Citizens, but as that party has lost the ward in the last two fights, Shearer evidently thinks that it is a good time for him to stay out of the contest. He was connected with the "Orphans" to the extent of signing the pledge, but worked for the Bigelow machine. Republicans spoken of for the seat are Charles Gulland, John Mamaux, William Allen and Elmer Leslie.

ENGLISH EDUCATORS TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Alfred Moseley's Party Will Spend Two Days Seeing the Schools and Industries.

Alfred Moseley, the English economist who visited Pittsburgh about a year ago with a party of English labor leaders, will arrive here tomorrow with a party of eight English educators. Mr. Moseley is greatly impressed with the advances that American methods, both in manufacturing and in education, have made over the English, and his purpose in these trips is to acquaint representatives of the English with the plans pursued in this country.

Pittsburgh is but one of the cities that Mr. Moseley intends visiting before his return. He has already seen the large cities east of here and from Pittsburgh will go on to the west.

Dr. W. Ripper of Sheffield, England, and Dr. Magnus Maclean of Glasgow, Scotland, the advance guard of Mr. Moseley's party, reached Pittsburgh yesterday. They called at once on Prof. Edward Rynearson, director of the high schools, who will act as a local guide for the party, at the request of President Harper of the Chicago University. With Prof. Rynearson and Secretary Charles Reisfar, of the Central Board of Education, they visited the Fifth Avenue High school and later arranged their movements while in Pittsburgh.

The party upon arriving tomorrow morning will be taken to Homestead to see the Carnegie works as soon as possible after reaching the city. Thursday will be given to the schools with the probability that they will visit only the manual training schools of both cities.

ENGLISH STEEL MEN SEEK CLERGUE PLANTS

Private advices have been received in Pittsburgh to the effect that negotiations are now well in progress, with great secrecy being observed, for the purchase of properties of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company by two of the strongest English steel manufacturing firms, Armstrong, Whitworth & Company, Ltd., of Manchester and New Castle-on-Tyne, and Vickers, Maxin & Company, Ltd., of Sheffield. The particular value of the Clergue plants to these English firms lies in the fact that they produce a steel having a large proportion of nickel in its constituency which would very well serve the purposes of the product of these companies. They are largely engaged in manufacturing armor plate and ordnance.

HARD ARGUMENTS

Coffee Uses Them Whether One Likes Or Not.

The ill effects of coffee are present in many coffee drinkers but some people pay no attention to the warning signals like dyspepsia, insomnia, nervousness, fluttering of the heart, etc., until coffee finally uses a knock-down argument which means collapse on the part of the coffee drinker.

"I am 30 years old and have drank coffee since I can remember until four years ago, when I broke down completely with nervous prostration and indigestion. I simply cannot describe the agony I suffered.

"Doctor told me he could not help me if I did not leave coffee alone, so I bought some Postum to give it a trial. At first I did not know how to make it, and was disappointed in the taste, but after reading the directions on the package carefully, made it right, and then I thought it better than coffee. At that time I weighed 140 pounds and now I weigh 155 pounds, that's quite a gain isn't it? I never have indigestion now and the headaches are all gone, and I am otherwise entirely well and strong.

"I never had any troubles that were not due to drinking coffee and these disappeared and health came in their place when I shut off coffee and drank Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Soda Water and Other Drinks.

Today we open the largest Soda Fountain in the State, and all the drinks incident to an up-to-date fountain will be found there. It is situated immediately to rear of main entrance to East Store. While delicious sodas will be a specialty, all the hot drinks for cold weather will be a feature—hot chocolate, hot bouillons, etc.

We also introduce a clever idea for those who desire to take advantage of it, i. e., a cute little purse containing $1.10 worth of checks which will be sold for the even price of $1.00.

Yesterday's Opening of Our Remodeled Suit and Wrap Department.

Fine weather and hundreds of women anxious to see what we considered a model arrangement for exhibiting suits and wraps co-operated to give us one of the busiest days in these departments we have had for a long while. And that means much, for these departments are always very, very busy. The only regrettable feature of yesterday's occasion—(indeed it applies to today also)—was the absence of the carpets. We tried hard to have them ready, but fate was against us. However, as curiosity was bent upon seeing the new way we purpose displaying our suits and wraps, the bare floors were overlooked. We should like ever so much to quote the many good words that were spoken of the new arrangement, but they were of such pleasing variety and of such great number as to prevent the attempt.

We again extend a cordial invitation to all women to see this splendidly appointed department now taking up the entire second floor, West Store. We desire that you see the departments, the goods they contain, and in that desire there is not the least intimation of purchase. However, it may not come amiss to show on what lines of inexpensiveness suits and wraps are shown here.

Women's Winter Coats.

Suits in both long and short coat styles, plain colors, if you like, say black or brown or blue, or in those very popular mixtures which their name is legion, now produced by the weaver. Not great choice in any one style, there being only one or two of a design, but taking the lot together, excellent choice. Our price is $14.75 per suit, and the real value of these suits is $20.00.

Suits in long blouse effect, the coat finished with flat velvet collar and new style of sleeve; the skirt known now as the trotter skirt, handsomely trimmed. The material in these suits is fine all-wool cheviot, and the colors are black, brown, blue and mixtures. The price is $19.00. The regular price $25.00.

A collection of tailored suits, including the counterparts of many that formerly sold for $35.00 and $40.00, a fine bargain that our buyer picked up in New York last week, showing all prevailing styles, and some that have not been seen in Pittsburg before. Our special price is $25.00.

Then there are suits for $35.00 that are worth $50.00, and at $50.00 suits that are worth $60.00, $65.00, $70.00 and $75.00, many of them models from Europe; others, again, excellent specimens of the American Ladies'-Tailoring art. Many of these garments were displayed in our case at the Exposition.

Women's Winter Suits.

The variety of winter coats here is all that any woman could ask; there is everything that women will wear, from the least expensive to the finest make.

$10.00 for coats in all-wool cheviots, kerseys and mixtures, the styles half-fitted, loose backs, capes, etc. These coats are lined throughout with heavy satin.

$15.00 for coats that we consider good value for $20.00. Fully fifteen styles from which to select. It is only fair to say, however, that there are not a great many coats of each style.

$20.00 for handsome coats of the shaggy zibeline, the panne cheviot, the broadcloth, the kersey and the many pleasing mixtures. This is one of the most popular prices that we know of, and the garments we offer for $20.00 you may depend upon it are worth more. Each of the coats is lined with an extra quality of satin and the ornaments and models are of latest conception.

$25.00 for coats that have only been designed from new French models within the past ten days. They are 25 inches in length, have semi-military front, are collarless, are outlined in velvet and with silk braid; the same braid finish on edges and bottom as well as forming designs on back and sleeves. Such materials as broadcloths, zibelines and other fine cloths.

As for evening, party and carriage warps, you can buy them now for prices one-fourth, one-third and one-half less than formerly.

6000 Handkerchiefs, 9c each—They're for Women.

Here's the story: A manufacturer, one that we know well, took a notion to make a "clean-up," and on the spur of the moment offered us 6,000 regular 15c pure linen handkerchiefs, hemstitched, and having either one-fourth, one-half or one-inch hems, at a price so we could sell them for 9c each.

We are very much tempted to indulge in superlatives over this bargain, but forbear. They are full size handkerchiefs and the best way to buy them is to take three for 25c.

Our Underprices for High Grade Domestic Rugs.

Other than underprices, there is a good deal to be said in favor of a department that has all the modern ideas for the most advantageous way of exhibiting rugs. Don't think our department of the fourth floor, East Store, could be improved upon in any particular. Coming back again to these domestic rugs let us say they are the very best grade and the prices quoted several notches lower than the same rugs sell for around town.

Kashmir Rugs, in soft greens, reds and blues, also blue and white effects, rugs that are reversible and are of fast color, designed after the style of choice Persian Rugs, at these prices: $6.00 for rugs 9x6 ft.; $8.00 for rugs 10 ft. 6 in. by 7 ft. 6 in.; $10.00 for rugs 12 ft. x 9 ft.

Tapestry Brussels Rugs, best grade of Tapestry, and newest ideas of design, 12 ft. x 9 ft. $13.50.

Body Brussels Rugs in small effects, after the Persian style, soft colors and beautiful designs, 12x9 ft. $20.00.

Best high-grade body Brussels Rugs in newest design and colorings, quite appropriate for bedroom or parlor, size 12x9 ft. $25.00.

Household Essentials Needed Every Day.

A thousand and one things, each and all useful around the house, but in this bit of news we pick out three essentials—the essential culinary, the essential thermal, the essential luminous, and here they are featured in their several ways.

Food Choppers.

The "Russwin," and it is the latest improvement in food choppers that we have come across, besides being the best. One of its perfections over the old kind is that the juice of anything ground cannot run on the floor, there being an invisible metal bowl for catching all percolation. Another feature of this food chopper is that it can be arranged to pulverize anything. Each machine has four knives, admitting of coarse or fine cutting. There are two sizes, $1.00 and $1.25.

The Block Light.

The difference between it and the ordinary mantles now in use is as three to one. It is the most brilliant light, with the aid of a correct mantle, ever produced artificially. Since this demonstration has been going on in the Basement there have been thousands of the Block Lights introduced into homes around Pittsburg and Allegheny. Any time during the day you can note the difference between the old and the new.

Gas Stoves.

When we say that the range of prices is from $1.00 by easy steps up to $10.00, you will know that we have a pretty large variety of Gas Heating Stoves. The little $1.00 stove is all that is required for a room 15x15 ft., and from that size the size range broadens until you meet the stove at $10.00, which is calculated to do wonders in the way of heating.

Aluminum Cooking Utensils.

No housekeeper can understand the good points of aluminum cooking utensils unless she sees them in operation. We are showing these goods in the Housefurnishing Department, Basement, in the many different ways that heat affects other cooking utensils, and it will be seen at a glance they are not hurt in the least. For instance, a teapot, in which there is no water, subjected to the intense heat of gas; a griddle on which cakes are baked without grease; a saucepan containing fruit butter that is never stirred, and various other demonstrations. While the cost of these aluminum utensils is a trifle higher than the commoner kind their cheapness in the end is readily seen.

Borax.

Would you be pleased to know the difference between pure and impure borax? In the Housefurnishing Department of the Basement we are showing a good many women daily how to distinguish between the two.

Pure borax, 10c a pound.

Kost Heaters.

You can have a heater attached to the gas in your room (it is preferable to have a chan[illegible] of at least two lights, then you have bot[illegible] and heat), and it will cost you but a sm[illegible] and all that you will ever have to do is to [illegible] gas jet under it. Then there are Kost[illegible] which require the hose. Both are being [illegible]strated in the Basement.

Tuesday, November 10, 1903.

Congress managed the routine of opening the extra session without a hitch or a surprise. Joseph G. Cannon was elected speaker of the house according to program, and good results are expected from his judicial temperament and long parliamentary service. If, now, both branches of the congress will proceed to dispatch the public business for which they are assembled with the same smoothness that organization was effected, the public will be fully satisfied. There is not the slightest doubt about what the people want done and congress might as well do it without wasting time over tedious and specious arguments.

Adjustment of coke and steel scales are occupying considerable attention these days. The frequent conferences are simply in recognition of changed conditions. For several years up to a few months ago there was only one condition in either of these industries, the effort to keep up with demand and to secure shipment of products. Those two things absorbed the total energies of every man connected with coke or steel in a responsible capacity. The conditions now are different. But they are not as greatly different as Wall street imagines and in time it will find that out. There is a good deal of business in hand and more that is waiting for the adjustments that are now being made. There is still more farther along, backed by the high purchasing power of the people.

The one important development of the common council session last evening was the co-operation of the Republican members with the Orphans in electing a temporary president, in opposition to the dictates of the proprietors of the Democratic-Citizens machine. This is but one straw showing how the wind blows. That wind will become a gale by and by if the hold-up of the Democratic-Citizens bosses with the collusion of the air-tight combine continues. The Orphans represent all of reform that ever came out of the Citizens movement, which was organized for reform, and further reforms will come from co-operation of the Orphans and an unbossed Republican party. The lesson of the late election has not been lost, even if it has had no effect upon the new machine and the combine.

While the public business waits, the administration finds time to mark for dismissal all public employes charged with political inactivity during the late campaign. According to reports in the organs of the Democratic-Citizens machine, 400 are marked for decapitation—a process cartooned by one of them as "a painful duty." No one can have forgotten the demoralization of the public service after the wholesale dismissals following the advent of the present administration, for it continues as an encouragement to the lawless element, and no one can doubt further demoralization as a result of the fresh application of the principle of political rewards and punishments. There is no standard for the public service as low as that which demands partisan activity above fidelity to the public welfare.

All reports agree that the physical condition of Emperor William of Germany is good after the operation for polypus on the larynx. Revival of the recollection that the emperor's father died of cancer has caused great apprehension among the German people, despite the positive assurance that the microscopic examination of the growth removed proves it to have been a simple tissue formation. It is true that polypi of any character are an unfavorable development in a person whose family has a cancerous history, but it does not follow that Emperor William must be afflicted with cancerous poison. Moreover, the methods of treatment of sarcoma and carcinoma, both by medicine and by X-rays, [illegible] advanced. Cures are really probable in [illegible] stages and possible when the [illegible] is farther along.

[illegible] than ordinary interest attaches to [illegible] convention of the American Fed- [illegible] Labor which has just begun its [illegible] Boston. The convention has [illegible] the utmost importance to the [illegible] of the organization and of [illegible] upon the public. First of all [illegible] to be taken upon the reported [illegible] President Gompers that "what- [illegible] may happen there must be no reduction of the wages of labor." Such an attitude should not be taken. It is sheer folly. Second is the expectation of an utterance upon the "open shop." Of course the convention is not expected to approve the "open shop," but it will be wise to not make any hard and fast rule prohibiting union men from working side by side with non-union men as some of the radicals propose. Individual freedom has some place among American institutions. Third there is the possible struggle for the presidency between Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell's followers, the latter favoring Mr. Duncan. It may be assumed the presidency will bear a relation to the action taken upon the two matters of policy mentioned, and conservatism ought to prevail.

Hold-Up Continues.

Apparently the proprietors of the Democratic-Citizens machine have learned nothing from the result of the election last Tuesday. An adjournment of select council was forced just as the resolution to recall the Baltimore & Ohio Twenty-third ward ordinances from the rump committee on surveys was about to be called up. Prior to the meeting of select council the rump committee on surveys met and referred these ordinances to a sub-committee of three and made a request for Director Bigelow to give the committee an estimate of the area of the streets to be vacated. During the council meeting John Upperman offered a resolution requesting the director of the department of public works to inform the committees on corporations and surveys what areas are involved in the proposed vacation of streets in the Twenty-third ward, in the grant at Water and Smithfield streets and the property to be occupied by the Pennsylvania railroad at the Point.

There are none so dull of comprehension as to miss the point in these maneuvers. They mean a further hold-up of the important pending ordinances in defiance of public sentiment and to the injury of the public. The pretense that the Baltimore & Ohio should pay for the vacation of the stub ends of certain streets completely surrounded by property owned by the Baltimore & Ohio and utterly inaccessible to the public, has not a leg to stand on. No property abuts upon those streets except the property of the Baltimore & Ohio, and as they lead nowhere they are of no use to anyone except the railroad company. The best service they can be put to is to grant them to the Baltimore & Ohio and then collect taxes upon them and the improvements to be made there.

To the talk about a higher rental for the depot site there is no more reason than in the bluff about compensation for the Twenty-third ward streets. The Baltimore & Ohio pays a rental of $4,000 a year for the property now occupied by its passenger depot and approaches. It offers $6,000 a year for an additional strip, 80 feet wide, to be occupied jointly with the city. The proposed structures will extend out over the river, at the same elevation above the water as the Smithfield street bridge, provided the secretary of war grants permission for their erection. The city cannot even authorize the structures and the lease is asked for subject to the approval of the war department. The rental proposed in the pending ordinance is the most liberal compensation ever offered by any corporation to the city, and the improvement to be made on the site is really of more importance to Pittsburgh than to the railroad company.

The request for information about Pennsylvania railroad property at the Point is a mere blind. It serves the pretense that some general enlightenment is needed and covers the failure to do anything with the Pennsylvania and Wabash ordinances. The citizen would be blind, indeed, who could not see through the whole game, which is simply to continue the hold-up in the private selfish interest of the proprietors of the Democratic-Citizens machine and the members of the air-tight combine, who are quoted without contradiction as declaring that one who is not a fool knows what they want.

This is not a battle between a railroad and a band of mercenaries. It is a struggle between the people of this city and a machine in control of those who should be the servants of the people and doing their will. It is a defiance by subterfuge of the expressed will of the people. There are but two ways out. One is the surrender of the Democratic-Citizens machine and its air-tight combine to public sentiment; the other is the wiping out at the polls of every man connected with the unholy alliance. It does not modify the situation to have one boss blaming the hold-up upon another and the organ of both denying the obvious close relations between the hold-up boss and the air-tight combine.

Securities and Investors.

In an editorial article on "Carnegie as a Trust Buster," printed in large black type and arranged in paragraphs of not more than two sentences each, the New York Evening Journal professes to have discovered that people "are amused at Mr. Carnegie's amazing discovery" that over-capitalization is a menace to business interests and that trusts are top heavy structures with weak foundations. It also points out (declaring the whole matter to be a "joke to all but trust victims,") that Carnegie "looked on while the trust was being organized and smiled a canny smile," but "at that time he had not made his famous discovery about the dangers of over capitalization," and "he thought $400,000,000 in first mortgage bonds was about the right figure for his properties." The Journal says:

> He needed this money. He wanted to give part of it to libraries and had other uses for the rest.
> So he postponed his discovery about the iniquity of trusts till a few days ago.
> His utterances are fine and noble. They reveal him as righteously indignant that the poor should be robbed by reckless speculators.
> But they do not conceal the cold fact that he had more to do with the Steel Trust than any one else and that he profited immensely by its over-capitalization.
> It is fitting and proper to condemn Morgan, Miller, Schwab and others connected with recent get-rich-quick schemes.
> It should be borne in mind, however, that this philanthropic Scotchman got rich quicker than any of them.
> The only difference is that he took no chances.

This is, of course, entertaining, and it is intended to be instructive. But the instructive part of the whole matter is not dwelt on by the Journal, though it is brought out by it in the last sentence quoted. Mr. Carnegie's transaction with the organizers of the United States Steel Corporation was not completed under cover of darkness. The public was fully advised of it. It knew that Mr. Carnegie "took no chance," refusing to accept stock and insisting on bonds that are better than gold at face value. His action was equivalent to a declaration to investors of his opinion with regard to capitalization—which is termed by the Journal over-capitalization. Mr. Carnegie made no other declaration. He did not advise investors to buy stock and his action was in effect discouragement of such purchases. He is therefore in a position to reply to the Journal, if he cares to do so, that the example he set in taking no chance is the best advice that he could have given. The public did not follow his example, but followed the example and advice of others. It took the chance which Carnegie wouldn't take.

So much for Mr. Carnegie's relation to the matter under review. He has a record that stands. On the other hand his action need not be regarded as justifying the disrepute in which United States Steel Corporation securities (except first mortgage bonds) are held in Wall street at the moment, and by the investing public and by the New York Evening Journal. The iron and steel business in times past has been "either a prince or a pauper," but its princely days did not come to an end forever when the downward move began in Wall street for everything. It has not been demonstrated yet that another era of pauperism has been reached. But even if one had been reached those who know the iron and steel business much better than Wall street and the New York Evening Journal know it, know that the princely period will come again just as it has always come. The real danger of the present moment to the investor is in giving ear to the professional pessimist and to the ignorant newspaper writer whose knowledge of the iron and steel business is not derived at first hand, or even at second or third hand, and whose judgment is probably more inaccurate than his insinuation concerning Mr. Carnegie.

Panama Development.

News reached Washington yesterday that a commission of three is to be sent at once from Panama to negotiate a canal treaty. It is understood in advance that the basis of the new treaty is to be the terms of that negotiated between the United States and Colombia, but with provisions more favorable to the United States concerning control of the enterprise and the territory occupied. This is all right as far as it goes, but the suggestion may be made that Panama can facilitate matters by adopting, or ratifying the treaty in advance of its submission to the United States senate. There must be no haggling or bad faith, such as was exhibited by Colombia under the opportunity offered by the Spooner law.

The news that Colombia has appointed Senor Reyes as peace commissioner to Panama are said to have greeted the report terpreted in several ways. The people of Panama are said to have greeted the report with joyous acclaim. Possibly they understand the Central American procedure. In this country, however, there has been a disposition to construe the embassy as a probable attempt on the part of Colombia to get in on a division of the spoils or to incite Panama to extortionate demands.

Another phase of the news is the assertion that the Panama revolution was planned in New York by the gentleman who is now the accredited representative of the new Panama government in this country. This report is interesting, but has no bearing upon the international aspects of the affair. The revolution might have been planned in Paris or London. It was executed in Panama and was planned without the aid or consent of any other nation.

Finally there is a report that Colombia has appealed to Germany and offered territory as a consideration for aid against the United States. Colombia may have appealed, but certainly Germany will not take the bait. The German press is hostile enough, but the German government will not mix in, or act as catspaw for Colombia's chestnuts. There are several good reasons for this belief, but if there was no other the fact that Germany's naval program is far from complete would be sufficient.

A Lesson, Anyhow.

The publication that a number of young men at Plymouth, Pa., have banded themselves together to exact tribute from candidates for office is either put forth as a joke or is an indication that a crisis has been reached in the decadence of political morals that will work a cure. It is said that at the election of last week these young men "went on strike" and "would not vote, because the candidates for the county offices would not buy ball tickets and provide a supper for them." It is also published that since the election they have, to the number of 36, formed a permanent organization, calling themselves "The Voters' Protective association," and have adopted a constitution and by-laws. It is said that one of the by-laws reads that the club will not support any candidate for office in the future who does not put up a certain amount of cash for the club's benefit, and that members of the club "say the candidates buy their nominations in the convention, and that they are in politics for the money there is in it, and, therefore, should help those who are in a position to help them at the polls."

The story is apparently told in seriousness, but it may, after all, be merely a joke. Or it may be a satire on political practices that obtain in Plymouth and elsewhere, and which all good citizens are interested in making an end of. If such a club as "The Voters' Protective association" has really been organized as told, it may be instrumental in bringing about the deserved end without intending to do so. If there has been a club formally organized at Plymouth for the purpose of making merchandise of its influence and the votes of its members, the fact that any candidate should have its support would be sufficient notice to the people of the character of his campaign and his probable course in office to induce them to keep him out of office and put him out of politics. Candidates are usually wise as serpents, if not harmless as doves, and would fly from a proffer of such support as would be offered by "The Voters' Protective association" as they would fly from the plague. They know that such a political weapon as such a political club would be as much more dangerous at the breech than at the muzzle, and they would much prefer to pay it to support an opponent than accept its support. If this club is able, therefore, to secure money at all it will be to induce it to keep off the grass.

As "support" it would be a rank failure, even if no one took the trouble to end its career by prosecution. Solicitation of a bribe is as serious a crime as giving one and a club organized for the purpose of holding up candidates for office is contrary to law and public policy.

On the whole, however, we prefer to think that the organization is imaginary, but even so the satire is illuminating, and the people ought to take it to heart by going into politics for themselves and putting grafters out of business.

The glad hand which the Democratic congressional caucus gave Mayor-Elect McClellan of New York because of Murphy's victory ought to guarantee that their money will be just as good as any other money when they hit the red light district.

The chairman of the Democratic-Citizens county committee says there were a dozen reasons for defeat of the Democratic-Citizens ticket. The official count, however, shows that there were thousands of them.

People who don't get killed before they leave Breathitt county refuse to go back, which has the same effect on the next census for that district as if they had returned, and saves powder and lead.

It is said that a couple of southern states will declare for Mark Hanna for president, if he will say the word, but your Uncle Mark knows that southern support doesn't mean any electoral votes.

The new members of congress are wondering now how they got there, but before the extra session is over they will be wondering how so many of the old-timers managed to hang on.

Those Democratic orators in congress who intend to try to make campaign capital ought to take notice from events in Wall street that mere wind doesn't go with the people.

The English anarchist who came to this country to preach against the law has a lot of nerve to appeal to it to obtain permission to go on with the preaching.

Not knowing what Gen. Grosvenor expected of them the Ohio Republicans just cut loose and did the best they could. Angels could do no more.

Perhaps Gen. Reyes is going over to Panama for the purpose of talking through his hat about a share in the profits of the deal.

The latest reports from Yokohama say that Japan is waiting on Russia. Russia can stand a great deal of that sort of thing.

The Pennsylvania election returns show that there isn't much left of the Democratic party in this state but Col. Guffey.

Isn't it about time to promote Maj. Alex. McDowell to at least a brevet brigadier generalship?

This is where the stand patters begin to find out whether congress will stand pat with them.

Panama can't become one of our islands, even if it is separated from Colombia by a canal.

It may also be said that Panama hats will have to be made larger on the isthmus.

It looks as if there is about to be a job for some expert cabinet maker in France.

This is where Cuba would have the center of the stage if Panama hadn't butted in.

Now it is the Isle of Pines that insists on being an insular dependency.

Uncle Joe Cannon now has his speakership on straight.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

John Palmer, a fullblood Ponca Indian, who has been admitted to the bar in Oklahoma, will be one of the speakers at the next session of the Oklahoma Bar Association.

Ex-Congressman E. B. Taylor, of Warren, Ohio, who succeeded James A. Garfield as representative of the old Nineteenth district in congress, on the advance of the latter to the presidency, has just completed the fifty-eighth year of his practice of the law.

The Duke of Fife, son-in-law of King Edward, made a notable statement in a public speech the other day. He told his audience that he had, for the past five years, been a total abstainer, not because the doctor had ordered him to abstain, but because he believed it to be the best way.

THE AGE OF KICKS.

Hear the kicks!
Hear the people making kicks,
Heavy kicks,
Sorry kicks;
One would think the poor old world was in a most unhappy fix;
Men are kicking at the weather, they are kicking at the price
That they have to pay for fuel, that they have to pay for ice;
They are kicking at the way
This and that is done today,
They are kicking at conditions as they loom up everywhere;
They have kicks to make because
Rascals disobey the laws;
One would think that crime was rampant and that woe was in the air!
Hear them kicking, kicking, kicking, oh the wild and woeful kicks
And the kicks concern religion, science, art, and politics;
There are kicks from those who work,
There are kicks from those who shirk,
All the world, it seems, is keeping busy registering kicks,
Making kicks, kicks, kicks,
Keeping up the daily average of kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks.

Do the everlasting kicks
Indicate a smash-up? Nix!
The world would quit revolving if we didn't have the kicks
From the men who wield the picks
And the ones who lay the bricks,
And the ones who wear the jewels, and the ones who sing and write;
Never since the world began
Has a point been won by man
Unless he kicked to get it, and did so with all his might!
'Tis a pleasing thing to mix
Gladness in among our kicks
When we may;
But, with gladness or without,
We may never hope to rout
The legions filled with kickers—they'll be here till the Judgment Day—
They'll be here to make their kicks
Till there's ice upon the Styx,
Till the last grave undertaker the last coffin cover clicks—
But a lot of us are kicking with no cause for making kicks,
Without the slightest reason for our kicks, kicks, kicks,
And never helping any with our kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks, kicks.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Why is it that some women can marry several times and others can't get there once?

There's a problem that is a problem.

You may know women who have married, and married as often as they could, legally, and some illegally, and yet no man asks you. The fact that you are prettier, more highly accomplished, and of better family than they, does not seem to affect the case in the least.

Now, why is this thus?

A woman, now living with her fourth husband, answered this query recently by saying: "It isn't your prettiness, nor handsomeness or looks, nor education, that fetches you a husband; but the 'come hither' look in your eye."

There is something in her eye that fetches men to the altar, just as sure as you are born. And it also blinds them to faults which might otherwise be fatal.

Is this fascination, or does the man read in her eye that she is his mote? The records seem to point to the fact that these catches are the best; at least they are more satisfactory than those made scientifically, or according to regular business rules.

That sly, and even unconscious command to come hither, is probably given by the little god Cupid, and it is well known that he does not care a fig for either business or science.

* * * * *

Marriage founded on a business basis is simply a transaction for gain, and not for the high and holy purposes for which marriage was ordained. It is earthy and nothing more, being no higher and holier than any other deal made for the sake of gaining an advantage of some sort.

How many brides have you known to weep bitterly, or go hesitatingly to the altar, when they should have gone cheerfully and gladly?

Haven't you known bridegrooms who bid farewell to their bachelor friends as sadly as if they were about starting on a long and disagreeable voyage?

And you probably know those who spent their last days and nights of single blessedness in a manner that indicated a feeling that their days and nights of heartsome enjoyment were about ending?

And you may have known men and women who faced the marriage altar with greater misgivings and fear than they would have felt in facing the grave. But it was business. One or the other had something to gain financially, or in some more or less mercenary way.

Thank heaven, there are those who have gone to the altar as they would have approached the gate of paradise, their souls delighted and their hearts full of happiness. These are they who contribute cheerful homes, give social light and life to the world, and give to it lovely children, to grow into the full stature of men and women who shall become the salt of the earth.

* * * * *

It seems that some women are doomed to a perpetual maidenhood, no matter how anxious they may be to marry. And there are men who remain single in spite of the presence of so many marriageable women. Nor is it because they are woman-haters, or have any serious objections to marriage.

The maiden lady, who is willing to marry but doesn't, says no man asks her. Naturally, she lays the blame on the man.

But with the bachelor it is different. Whether he can give a reason for his state and condition that will be satisfactory to himself, to say nothing of his acquaintances, is doubtful.

And, as you may have noticed, some of these are great admirers of women; delight to associate with them, and are forever talking about them, and appear to ever be thinking of matrimony. Why they do not pick out a piece of calico and take it off the counter—bargain counter, if no other—is one of the problems of the day.

If one of these unfortunate men were to rise up and tell us why he is what he is, don't you think it would make good reading?

A sure way to get this timid confession would be for a maiden to banter a bachelor—dare him—to make a clean breast of it.

* * * * *

Every rightly constructed man and woman desires marriage. It was so ordained from the beginning. In refusing to respect and observe this ordinance men and women commit sin, in that they refuse to fulfill their mission on earth; unless they are able to give a good and sufficient reason for their failure to observe it, thereby complying with the first great law of life.

The best reason, or at least one of the best, is a want of inclination, or natural desire, on the part of an individual to unite his life with that of another. This want means a lack of natural affection, and of that love which binds hearts and lives till death severs them.

There are those whose natures seem to be wholly, or in part, void of these elements, which means that they are imperfect. Nor is the spiritual man less liable to be born defective, or to acquire defects, than the physical man. That many are physically defective, ill formed, or maimed, is well known. For this due allowance is made. Should as great allowance be made for spiritual defects?

The chief manifestations of the spirit are life, love and hope. These dominate and control the body, or physical part of the human being.

Without life the man cannot continue to exist; without love he cannot enjoy life; without hope he cannot rise into better conditions.

Affection is a phase of love which leads men and women to love some particular person, or some thing which is specially agreeable.

* * * * *

Without true love true marriage is impossible; for without true affinity two elements cannot be joined in one.

This, too, was ordained from the beginning, and it never will be changed; for, if it were, every law of chemistry would fail. In short, every form of matter, including earth, air and water, would disintegrate and cease to exist, since all sensible matter—that is, matter which may be perceived and recognized by our natural senses—is composed of various elements held in place by that force which we call affinity.

Two prime elements having an affinity readily recognize each other, and as readily join and become one. Nor can these be readily parted asunder, for God hath joined them—that is, they are joined in accordance with His law.

Two prime elements not having affinity for each other, may be united, but not joined in one. They may, like oil and water, be confined together, or mixed together, but their constant tendency is to separate, to get away from each other. Or, they may be held together by bands or bolts, or simply by gravity; but they never become one and remain as such while either exists. To do so would be a flagrant violation of God's eternal law, the particular law under which all matter is formed, and by which life itself is maintained on the earth.

To unite two lives is, therefore, not the mere signing of a written agreement, nor a simple ceremony performed by priest or magistrate.

* * * * *

May it not be, therefore, that those who have not married because of not having met their affinity, are better off in life, as well as in the sight of God, than those who have united their lives without having the necessary affinity to join them in one?

Is not the woman who toils on alone, waiting for her natural mate, far better off than she who married against the protests of her spirit, merely to get some one to keep her? Is she truly a wife under the supreme law? Is her home the abode of peace and love? Are her children the pride and hope of her life? Does she wear with grace and proper fitness that heavenly crown designed for elect women—the crown of motherhood?

You may know women who, having sold themselves for their board and clothes, are mere bond-women in the sight of God, which fact they show forth plainly in their daily lives. Jealousy indicates a lack of agreement between the united elements, while bickerings, quarrels and unfriendly domestic relations arise from their lack of fitness and of affinity.

Does it not strike you, therefore, that it is about as serious a thing to marry as to not marry?

Shall we stop nagging elderly maidens and old bachelors and congratulate them on being as they are?

True love's the gift which God has given
To man alone beneath the heaven;
It is not fantasy's hot fire,
Whose wishes soon as granted fly;
It liveth not in fierce desire,
With dead desire it doth not die;
It is the secret sympathy,
The silver link, the silken tie,
Which heart to heart and mind to mind
In body and in soul can bind.
—Sir Walter Scott.

One difference between a Panama hat and a Panama revolution is that the latter never goes out of fashion.—New York World.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Literary women are numerous in New York, but they have the globe trotting habit so powerfully developed that you are as likely to hear of their being in London as to see them in this city. This accounts for the interest New York writers and illustrators of the tender sex take in the new international club for women about which Elizabeth Marbury and Jeannette Gilder are telling us. The new club, to be known as the "Lyceum," will have a clubhouse in London, near the British museum, but it seems as if American women are depended on largely to support it. Miss Jessie Trimble, who is on the ocean on her way here, is doing the active work of organization. She will make addresses to women and others when she gets to New York and incidentally will take subscriptions for membership. The prospectus, which is in the hands of Miss Gilder, says that the club intends "to provide a common meeting ground for women throughout the world who are workers in literature and science, including medicine." New York has a woman's hotel, and several woman's clubs of one kind and another, but this literary institution is intended to be different from all others. As Miss Marbury says, with apparent satisfaction, "It is not going to be run on a hinky-dinky feminine plan, like so many of our women's clubs." Miss Marbury believes in having men to do certain things in clubs, and particularly she believes in a man cook. There will be a "chef" in the new clubhouse in London.

Warning Goes Unheeded.

No matter how often notices are posted in smoking rooms of ocean liners warning passengers not to play cards with strangers, there are stories of this kind of swindling coming ashore every now and then with the arrival of some big steamer. Two fellows were charged with cheating passengers out of several hundred dollars and there were threats of arrest, but the gamblers got away as soon as the ship got into her berth at Hoboken. The captain does not say much about the affair, but evidently he thinks passengers who insist on playing poker with men they do not know deserve to lose.

Reminders of Ancient New York.

Among the queer old names of Manhattan's thoroughfares which have survived from the period when streets and avenues were named with more regard to picturesqueness than utility are "Tee Taw" avenue, "Featherbed Lane," "Gun Hill Road" and "Half Moon Place." These names sound more like London than New York, but there are a great many of them here which can be dug up easily enough if one chooses to go into the byways. For ordinary commercial and social purposes, however, it is found that there are plenty of numbered streets and avenues and the matter-of-fact New Yorker of today is inclined to say "numbers are good enough for me."

Pie and Pepsin.

Pie is still a toothsome subject of discussion in New York. The attempt to practically raise the price of pastry to restaurant keepers has brought into being the "United Lunchroom Men's Association" and some of its meetings are as crisp as a fresh pie, if not quite so appetizing. So far as the organization has gone it seems as if denunciatory resolutions and assessments of 50 cents a head from members are the main business done, but the quick lunch men say they will show the world something before they are much older in the shape of a larger slice of pie for a nickel than has ever been seen on a lunch counter in this city. Then up will go the price of pepsin.

Smith Praises the Spaniards.

F. Hopkinson Smith, the painter, author and lecturer, who is so well-known personally in Pittsburgh, is in New York after a four months sojourn in Madrid. He speaks very highly of the Spanish people, saying they are very much like Americans. Evidently the bitterness existing in 1898 is evaporating.

Two Dollars Too Much for a Show.

Managers here are practically unanimous in the opinion that $2 a seat is too much to be paid for the average entertainment in New York theaters. Some of the managers do not acquiesce in the suggestion that the figure should be reduced to $1 50, but it is obvious to the average observer that someone will cut the price in due time and then the others must follow. It is a ticklish subject with theatrical promoters, but the slump in business has brought it forcibly to the general attention. Some entertainments may be worth $2, but that is largely a matter of opinion.

This Policeman Knows His Business.

The policeman whose duty it is to make people "move on" in Upper Broadway every evening has been telling how he does it. He does not use the time honored Tammany "G'wan." He says the kind of men who stroll along between Thirty-ninth and Forty-second streets would not stand that, nor would they take kindly to a shove. All he does is to wink at any man or group of men he may see obstructing the sidewalk and the hint is taken immediately. "A policeman has got to use his brains at all times," says this officer, "and particularly when dealing with men most of whom are worth anywhere from $1,000 to $1,000,000." He referred to the sporting horse lovers who make up a large proportion of the population of upper Broadway in the evening at this time of year.

Rockefeller Doubtful About It.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., became the father of a bouncing baby daughter today. While he is proud of his daughter, he actually showed disappointment because she was not a boy. New Yorkers are asking if Mr. Rockefeller's disappointment shows exactly a Christian spirit. Even the czar of all the Russias accepts what comes to him.

More Predictions of a Hard Winter.

Sweet corn continues to be a common article of food on the average New York dinner table. It is not often that corn is found so late in the season as the middle of November, and the market men say it will not last much longer. They regard it as an indication of a hard winter coming, because it has been a long continued summer.

A Wedding Rehearsal.

There was a rehearsal of the Goelet-Roxburghe wedding at St. Thomas' church today. It is expected that the ceremony tomorrow will be very impressive and it is intended that there shall not be any slip if it can be prevented. Mrs. Ogden Goelet has managed other weddings and she knows the details as well as any woman in society. There will be fine music, including a surpliced choir of 30 voices, which means that they must be made to understand thoroughly what they are to do in the way of marching along the aisle. There was a squad of police to keep people moving past the church, and there will be a still stronger force on duty tomorrow.

Canal Site Fixed.

As an independent newspaper, and therefore as one without political prejudices or obligations, the Herald frankly admits that the time has gone by when controversy about the superiority, respectively, of the Panama and Nicaragua routes could be profitable. Such a controversy in fact is no longer possible. The latest uprising on the isthmus and the attitude of the Washington administration toward it have at least the merit of settling the canal question. The waterway is to be constructed along the Panama route.

Today then it is of vital importance that opposition to it should cease. Neither the New York Times nor Senator Morgan can undo the events of the last few days or hope to change the attitude of the government, now that it is pledged to a certain line of action. The country is at what may prove to be a turning point in its history. At such a moment there can be neither Democrats nor Republicans, neither supporters of the Panama project nor advocates of the Nicaragua route—there are only Americans, and it is their duty to support the government, right or wrong.—New York Herald.

While more nice than wise Americans were shrieking that the honor of the United States had been compromised, and while foreign critics were sneering that the revolution probably had its origin in Washington, the president and the secretary of state, without a moment's hesitation, established the pax Americana on the isthmus and insured the Panama canal to the commerce of the world.

Under all the circumstances it was a daring thing for the administration to recognize the de facto government of Panama before it was 72 hours old, and warn Colombia that the United States could not further disturbance of the peace of the isthmus; but it was a situation in which the end fully justified the means. The administration faced a dilemma, on one point of which was a protracted revolution and on the other point of which the immediate recognition of the new government. It followed the line of civilization's best interests, and we fail to see wherein an apology is necessitated. Secretary Hay's statement of the position of this government covers the case completely.—Detroit Free Press.

+ + + +

The sentiment of this country is in favor of the Panama canal, and that canal we shall build. The recognition of the provincial government is according to practice, the diplomacy of the administration is without a flaw, and the president can be relied upon to deal with the republic of Panama directly. It is useless for Senator Morgan to protest. He will have few followers. The proper place for the canal, the strategic point, is the Isthmus, and there it is bound to go. There never has been any reasonable doubt on that score. Such vast world enterprises cannot be blocked for long, and the revolution has cleared the skies wonderfully.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

+ + + +

Among the suggestions incident to the discussion of recent developments on the Isthmus of Panama is a clarion call to the administration to abandon the Panama mess forthwith and to take up negotiations for a canal with Nicaragua and Costa Rica. It is safe to say that this suggestion will not be given a minute's serious attention in influential quarters. It does not deserve serious attention.

Whether one belongs to the "muddle-headed moralists" who detect improper action in the course of the government or to the supporters of "the most ignominious thing in the annals of American diplomacy," one is not inclined to admit the force or applicability of the idea of taking up the Nicaragua route. To commence negotiations for the alternative route at this time would not make right of wrong done at the isthmus, if wrong has been done, and it could not make a wrong of right. The proposition is an idle waste of words.—Baltimore Herald.

The Panama incident is swiftly shaping itself into the form that will produce a treaty and an isthmian canal. Instead of a contest between the president and congress there is perfect accord between Mr. Roosevelt and the majority leaders of house and senate. The most gratifying feature of the matter is the executive decision that there is to be no more delay in the process of bringing the canal project to the digging stage.—New York Press.

+ + + +

The United States is the primate of this continent and in the common interest it exercises the rights of primacy. It has protected American nations from European aggression. It has thrown the panoply of the Monroe doctrine around the continent. There has been a growing feeling in thoughtful minds that the nature of our leadership required a larger degree of authority and influence over the relations of the countries which enjoy our protection. However, this may ultimately work out, it is certain that we must be entirely secure in the territory which shall be traversed by the canal into which the United States will put many millions of dollars. The president is rightly taking thought and care on this point. In spite of the venality and stupidity of the conspirators at Bogota, the way is opening up for the construction of the Panama canal, and the president is acting for the American people in making the most of the opportunity.—Philadelphia Press.

Panama knows that the canal will bring her prosperity and growth, and best of all, security and stability, from the close association with the United States, which must follow. The best opinion in naval and official circles in Washington is that the Panama republic is bound to succeed, that it will shortly be recognized by the United States and will enter into a treaty giving us liberal and advantageous terms. Meanwhile those who are mourning over the disgrace which has been brought upon this government in the estimation of the civilized world will do well to consult the foreign dispatches, where they will find that not only has not a single power protested against our attitude, but a singular unanimity of expression prevails that it is wholly correct and proper.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The query about the year in which a Christmas picnic was held at Friendship park was answered by several people who gave various dates. Mrs. S. E. Crest of North Braddock and Robert Heinle, of the city, said it occurred in 1877. Charles W. Hart, No. 1252 Ridge avenue, Allegheny, said it was 1875 and Charles Engemann, of Allegheny, said it was 1872. In this connection the following from the Commercial Gazette of December 27, 1877, under the head of "Christmas Picnics," would tend to show that it was in 1877 that the picnic was held:

"The idea of a picnic on Christmas day in this region is certainly a novel one; that it was successfully carried out is something that will remain a wonder for many years. The day was bright and warm, and pleasant almost as a spring day, and overcoats and seal skin sacques were largely at a discount."

HANNA HELD A CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

President Asks Him to Take Charge of the Campaign Next Year.

SENATOR IS YET UNDECIDED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

"To be or not to be, that is the question" that Senator Hanna has to think over. It was propounded to him today by President Roosevelt and the senator has all the time he wants to give an answer. It relates to the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, the place that the president is very anxious that Mr. Hanna should retain during the campaign next year. Senator Hanna called at the white house to pay his respects to the president, who took occasion to repeat the congratulations that he had sent by wire upon Hanna's splendid victory in Ohio.

Then they sat down to talk things over and during the conversation the president told Mr. Hanna that he would like him to take the national chairmanship next year. Mr. Hanna pleaded that his health was not what it should be and that as he had served his time, some other man should be given a chance at it. But the president said he wanted Hanna and he asked the senator to think it over and take all the time he wanted to make up his mind. The question was left this way. Senator Hanna after the conference said he did not want to discuss the question nor the question of his alleged candidacy for the presidency. If he decides to retire from the head of the national committee, it is quite certain that the place will be offered to ex-Gov. Murray of Massachusetts.

The friends of Senator Hanna do not believe that his reticence on the subject of his presidential boom means that he has changed his mind since he first denied that he would be a candidate for president. They think that the senator will make an announcement in due time, so emphatic and unmistakable that if any doubt was left following his previous statements, there will be none after this. But there is evidently an attempt being made by some one to "smoke the old man out," and Mr. Hanna is not the sort of person to be "smoked out" until he gets good and ready.

Prospects of Statehood Bill.

A senator who was prominently identified with the opposition to the statehood bill in the last congress said today that he did not know whether the question would be fought over again this year or not, but he supposed that Republicans who supported it before would not care to precipitate a fight just before the presidential election, although he had no information on the subject. If a bill is passed, he said, it will provide for two states, one of them embracing New Mexico and Arizona and the other Oklahoma and Indian territory. He intimated that such a bill would not find such strong opposition as the omnibus bill did.

Drawing of Seats.

The drawing of seats in the house was accompanied by the usual interest on the part of members who used every effort to get choice locations. Mr. Dalzell secured his former seat and J. W. Brown got a good aisle seat, but Mr. Shiras and Mr. Porter were not so fortunate and are located toward the back of the hall. Representatives Payne of New York and Williams of Mississippi, floor leaders of the majority and minority respectively, General Bingham of Pennsylvania, "Father of the house" and Representative Richardson of Tennessee, former Democratic floor leader, were by unanimous consent permitted to choose their seats before the drawing began.

A man supposed to be James McGinnis, whose residence is unknown, was struck and instantly killed by a Panhandle train near Leasdale, below Carnegie, yesterday morning. His body was badly mangled. The man was about 25 years old and his remains were taken to the morgue.

M'ILVAINE INDORSED.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the Washington County Bar Association today, President Judge J. A. McIlvaine was indorsed for appointment to the state supreme court. A resolution was unanimously adopted asking Governor Pennypacker to make this appointment. The movement favoring Judge McIlvaine for the Supreme Court bench is non-partisan and originated among the men of the bench and bar of the state. Judge McIlvaine is serving his second term as judge of the Washington county courts. An organized effort will be made not only in Washington county, but in the other counties in the western part of the state to secure his appointment.

Calls on President With Whom He Confers for Considerable Time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—John Alexander Dowie, head of the Zion restoration host, arrived in Washington today from New York. He passed most of the day in viewing the sights of the capital. Early this afternoon, accompanied by several members of his host, Dr. Dowie called by appointment at the executive offices to see the president. He was in conference with President Roosevelt for nearly an hour. At the conclusion of his interview, Dr. Dowie said he had no statement to make concerning it. The call, he said, was purely a social one, and no significance was to be attached to it. He had a very pleasant chat with the president, for whom he entertained a high regard.

Dr. Dowie will leave tonight for Zion City via Chicago, traveling in his private car over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Levi Fahnestock Is Dead.

Levi Fahenstock, secretary of the Iron City Chemical Company of this city, died Sunday night in Philadelphia, Pa., in his 47th year. He was a son of the late B. L. Fahenstock and was well known in Pittsburgh. His remains will be brought to Pittsburgh and services will be held at H. Samson's chapel in Sixth avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Fahenstock was a member of the Knights Templar and formerly resided in Oakland.

PRISONER TRIED TO END HIS LIFE

While in Custody George Treter Nearly Leaped from a Bridge Into River.

FIRED SHOT AT CONSTABLE

Was Arrested With Companion After Both Attempted Life of Their Employer—Oesterle Has Battle in Landing Men in County Jail.

Constable Fred Oesterle of Evergreen, back of Millvale, had an exciting time early yesterday morning while bringing two prisoners to the county jail. He walked them all the way in, and coming over the Sixth street bridge one of the men made an effort to commit suicide by jumping over the rail into the river, and was nearly successful.

The men were taken into custody on a charge of attempting to rob and shoot James R. Quick and attempting to shoot the constable. Quick runs a lumber camp in the vicinity and employs from six to eight men. Among them are George Treter, who served in the army during the Philippine war, and Frank Schweibel, a driver. Quick went to the camp Sunday night and both men were there intoxicated. They told Quick they were running things, and did not want him around.

Quick took the matter good-naturedly and went home. The men followed him there and entered the house. They went into a room where were seated Quick, his little daughter and his foreman, Stanley Price. Treter was armed with a shotgun and he aimed at Quick and prepared to fire. Price rushed forward, knocked the gun out of the man's hands, and the latter, with his companion, fled.

Treter lives at the home of Constable Oesterle, and Price notified the constable and asked him to arrest the men. Quick swore out informations against them before Justice George Thorne of Spring Garden borough. The constable found the man in his room with Schweibel. Treter divined the constable's intention and is said to have fired at him. The bullet missed its mark, and the men were placed under arrest.

Oesterle thought it a good plan to walk the men in and he did so. They made threats to him on the way down, and while they were crossing the Sixth street bridge Treter, although his hands were tied with ropes, made a desperate effort to jump into the river. He climbed to the top of the rail and was about to jump in when the constable caught him. While walking through the streets to the jail the men made several efforts to escape, but were finally placed behind the bars.

PERSONALS

The formal opening of the Colonial hotel in Sixth street will take place this evening. Proprietor F. C. Smith having sent out many invitations to business men and others. It is expected that a large number will call to inspect the newly fitted up hotel which now ranks with the best in the city. Two stories have recently been added, new elevators installed, the house practically refurnished throughout, the lobby greatly enlarged, telephones placed in every room, and all in all made a very complete hostelry. Mr. Smith last evening entertained about 50 of his friends informally and showed them the house from top to bottom. Tonight's event will doubtless be one of the largest of its kind ever held in Pittsburgh. In honor of it the hotel will be decorated with palms, flowers, etc, and with the brilliant illumination will make a pretty scene. While nothing definite has been decided upon, it is reported that an annex, fronting 40 feet in Penn avenue and running back the full length of the present building, will be erected next year. The improvements just completed represent an expenditure of about $200,000.

W. Ripper, of Sheffield, England, and Magnus Maclean, of Glasgow, Scotland, arrived in the city last night and registered at the city last night and registered at the Lincoln. They are two of a party of 12 who are touring this country with Colonel Alfred Moseley. The remainder of the party will arrive in the city tomorrow morning. Mr. Ripper has some friends in Pittsburgh. Col. Moseley has made it a practice to bring a party to America every year. Last year he had a party of English factory owners. This year the are mostly politicians, among them being the mayor of Nottingham.

Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate, left yesterday for Omaha, Neb., where he will attend the annual meeting of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church. The committee is composed of 30 members, including bishops and representatives from the conference districts. The committee appropriated nearly $1,500,000 last year and it is expected that the appropriation will be far above this mark this year. Out of the appropriations 57.5 per cent will be used for foreign missions and the remainder at home missions.

The Rev. Alexander Gilchrist, D. D., secretary of the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, returned yesterday from Monaca, Pa., where he had dedicated a new Presbyterian church Sunday. Dr. Gilchrist will dedicate the new church at Rennerdale, Pa., next Sunday. These churches are pretty, small churches, and were built with the assistance of the home board of missions.

A. B. Johnson of Cleveland is registered at the Colonial. He said the present Ohio election had done more to stimulate the steel and iron industry than anything else. Ohio and Pennsylvania going Republican makes it look as if a Republican president will be elected, which means four more years of prosperity.

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

The nearby residents registered at the hotels hotels last night were as follows:

UNDERTAKERS USE DIPLOMACY

Vindicate Both County Commissioners and Coroner in Embalming Hold-Up.

WILL SAVE COUNTY MONEY

Make Recommendations, Which if Carried Out, Will Effect Great Economy. Negro Funeral Director Complains of Discrimination by Health Bureau.

The committee appointed by the Funeral Directors' Association of Allegheny county to investigate the status of the embalming snarl at the county morgue yesterday sent a communication to the county commissioners, and last evening the committee reported its action to a meeting of the association at the Hotel Boyer. The association approved the acts of the committee, and thus stands on record as partly disapproving the instruction given to the commissioner by the coroner, but approving the efforts of the commissioners and the county controller to make the administration of the morgue more economical.

About a month ago the county commissioners and the controller, Robert J. Cunningham, had a long talk with the coroner, and, after the conference, the coroner ceased using the embalming process entirely at the morgue, although the refrigerating apparatus was not intended to preserve bodies lying at the morgue.

At that time the undertakers' committee was appointed. It saw the commissioners. They denied that they had instructed the coroner to cease embalming entirely; said they had told him to use discretion, and not to take to the morgue bodies promptly identified. Although there thus seemed to be a misunderstanding between the coroner and the commissioners neither side tried to clear it up, and the morgue embalmed no more bodies, so that they were in a shocking condition when delivered to relatives.

Recommendations of Undertakers.

The communication to the commissioners says that the coroner cannot well employ fewer embalmers at the morgue than the present number; recommends that the coroner be instructed to notify the hospitals to tell relatives of a patient as soon as the patient dies, and not leave that duty to the coroner; that the bodies of identified persons be taken to their homes or to the chosen undertaker's place, and not to the morgue. In conclusion the committee says the freezing process will not serve, and recommends, with the exceptions noted, the coroner be instructed to use the embalming process at the morgue.

Thus, it is considered, there is vindication all around. The commissioners and the controller are vindicated in their opinion that the morgue can be run more economically; the coroner is vindicated in his assertion that bodies held at the morgue should be embalmed, and the county, if the committee's recommendations are carried out, will save many thousands of dollars annually. The funeral directors' committee was composed of F. C. Beinhauer, James Lowrie, T. P. Hershberger, Jr., J. J. Carney, William Semmelrock and Charles C. Reel.

Some Undertakers Cheat.

The commissioners' probing has unearthed one cause of expense resulting from some undertakers imposing upon the coroner and the county. When bodies were embalmed it was frequently the case that the morgue was notified by relatives that certain undertakers would have charge of the corpse. Instead of calling promptly for the remains and embalming them themselves some undertakers would wait until the body was embalmed at the morgue and then call for it, the county thus paying for work the undertaker should have done.

R. L. Jackson, a colored undertaker, had complained to the association that the bureau of health refused him a permit to bury a person who had died of smallpox and some other undertaker not wanted by the family of the dead person got the business. A committee appointed to look into Jackson's complaint reported last night that it had called on Supt. G. W. Moore of the bureau of health and asked him if the bureau had its favored undertakers. Mr. Moore replied that the bureau had no favorites and any licensed undertaker could bury persons who died of smallpox. Incidentally, Mr. Moore said that most of the men in his office were new and not familiar with the laws governing the disposal of bodies of persons dying of infectious disease. The committee reported that it felt that the bureau did not intend to discriminate against Mr. Jackson and the treatment of which he complained was due to an unintentional error of an employe of the bureau.

COLORED CONVENTION ENDS

Women's Parent Mite Missionary Society Transacted Considerable Business.

The officers elected Saturday by the Women's Parent Mite Missionary society were installed by Bishop J. A. Handy yesterday at the closing session of the convention in the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church, Wylie avenue and Elm street. Mrs. Lillian Dorkins of this city and Mrs. Belle I. Temple of Philadelphia, were added to the list of officers to fill out the executive board. Mrs. D. E. Asbury of New Brighton, Mrs. H. A. Ross of Cincinnati and Mrs. W. B. Derrick, made addresses. The salary of the corresponding secretary was fixed at $150 and that of recording secretary at $15 a year.

The report of the committee on constitution and by-laws provided for several changes in constitution, but the convention disapproved of the changes, and the constitution remains as it has been.

The work of the convention closed with the discussion of the subject "System Giving for Missionary Purposes."

UNIQUE EXHIBIT.

Attracts Art Lovers to the Schenley Hotel.

What is probably the most remarkable collection of antique and modern Chinese and Japanese works of art ever shown in this country is now on exhibition in the ball room of the Schenley hotel. It includes rare old embroideries, hand-carved screens and ivories, silver-enamel cloisonne, bronzes, porcelains, carved furniture and quaint and beautiful pottery of the orient. Yamanaka & Co., of 254 Fifth avenue, New York, are the collectors and they will dispose of the entire collection at auction in the grand ball room of the Hotel Schenley on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Theodore Stanton will conduct the sale and there will be absolutely nothing reserved.

Councils Thank Astronomers Who Discovered Pittsburghia

Pittsburgh councils yesterday gave a vote of thanks to scientists who discovered the planet "Pittsburghia," named in honor of this city. The planet was first seen by Dr. Max Wolf of Heidelberg, Germany, who permitted Prof. John A. Brashear of this city to name it. Prof. Brashear yesterday sent a letter to Mayor Wm. B. Hays asking councils to pay Dr. Wolf a deserved tribute. The following resolution was introduced in select council by C. H. West, and passed by that branch.

Resolved, That we highly appreciate the honor conferred upon our city by Dr. Max Wolf, of the Astrophysikal Observatorium, Konigstuhl, Heidelberg, Germany, in naming one of the planets recently discovered by him Pittsburghia, and in tendering Dr. Wolf our sincere thanks for this high compliment, we wish him continued success in his interesting and valuable researches.

We also request that Dr. Wolf convey our sincere thanks to his colleague, Dr. Beberich, for his work in the determination of the elements of the planet Pittsburghia.

FORTUNE IS RECEIVED IN WEDDING PRESENTS

Goelet-Roxburghe Gifts Elaborate and Costly Jewels and Silver Plate.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Arrangements were completed tonight for the marriage of the Duke of Roxburghe and Miss May Goelet, daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet which will take place tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at St. Thomas' church. The ceremony, the third ducal wedding to be celebrated in New York, will be performed by the Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas church.

Only the presents from American friends of the bride and groom have been received here, the presents from those in England having been sent to the duke's castle to await the arival of the bridal pair.

Among the presents received are: A pearl and diamond tiara, two diamond bow knots and a diamond necklace from Mrs. Ogden Goelet, the bride's mother; a diamond tiara and a diamond and emerald pendant from the groom; a diamond tiara from Robert Goelet, brother of the bride; a jeweled miniature of the duke and a fan with diamond monogram from Lady Isabel Innes-Ker, sister of the groom; an emerald and diamond corsage piece, from Mrs. R. T. Wilson; a diamond pendant from Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Jr., and a diamond collar from Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

Of the bridesmaids, Miss Johnston gave a diamond bracelet; Miss Hayen, a sapphire and diamond ring; Miss Beatrice Mills, turquoise and diamond pin, Miss Babcock, diamond pin; Miss Thayer, feather fan with coronet and initials in diamonds; Miss Whittier, Russian enameled clock, and Miss Therese Iselin, turquoise and diamond bracelet.

Among the other donors of presents were: Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, large silver center piece; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sloane, gold purse studded with sapphires; Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., sapphire bracelet; Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, diamond comb; Mrs. William Astor, ruby and diamond ring; Mr. and Mrs. Baylies, pink topaz ring; Miss Gladys Mills, diamond bon bon box; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Astor, fan; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Ogden, silver dessert dishes; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Belmont, turquoise chain; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Post, gold pin with emeralds and diamonds; Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Baring, of London, silver basket; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mackay, diamond bracelet; Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, gold dish; Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, gold salver; Earl and Countess of Pembroke, case of antique furniture; Lady Alwyn Compton, gold belt and Mrs. Clement Moore, bracelet of rubies and diamonds. From the servants in the Goelet mansion came a silver basket, and from the employes in Ogden Goelet estate office, a silver punch bowl.

About 250 guests have been bidden to the church ceremony, the list including many of those prominent in New York society and members of the British embassy and the consulate staff.

M'HENRY DECLARES ORDINANCE WAS STOLEN

Allegheny Councilman Makes Charge in Chartiers Street Measure Case.

Charges of theft in Allegheny councils are made by Councilman Thomas McHenry of the Fifth ward over the disappearance of an ordinance introduced last May providing for the opening of Chartiers street. The measure sets forth that the Pittsburgh & Western railway, without authority from councils, appropriated the river front at the foot of Chartiers street and built a solid roadbed across the foot of the street, shutting off access to the river. Further, it is stated that in 1838 the William Thaw ferry was started under an act of assembly. The ferry ran from the foot of Chartiers street to the other side of the river. The ferry was later bought by Commodore W. J. Kountz, who sold it to his son, the late William J. Kountz, Jr. It is now owned by John Dipple.

The ordinance asking that the Pittsburgh & Western be compelled to remove the obstruction was introduced last May and was returned to the surveys committee for a correction on June 18. The bill had been bitterly fought in the common branch and in the surveys committee. Since it was sent back to committee it has disappeared. Mr. McHenry asked at a meeting of the committee last week that it be called up. The paper could not be found and now McHenry declares someone stole it. The city clerks cannot account for the missing paper.

Councilman McHenry is having a duplicate of the ordinance printed and declares he will give it to the surveys committee in corrected form to be sent back to the common branch. City Solicitor Porter says this cannot be done, but that the ordinance must be reintroduced and referred to committee. This will delay its passage or defeat for several months.

SULTAN SETTLES AN OLD DISPUTE AT JERUSALEM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Minister Leishman, at Constantinople, has notified the state department that the Sublime Porte has at last made a satisfactory adjustment of what is known as the "Jerusalem cemetery case." This means that the porte has authorized the establishment of a protestant cemetery by the Evangelical society in the village of Tour at Jerusalem and the transfer to the same of the Latins of the old protestant cemetery at Sion.

Platt's Body Reaches St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The body of Elroy Platt arrived here today from Pittsburgh. His sick father, George Platt, aged 70, has not been informed of his son's death. The interment of the suicide takes place Tuesday, under the auspices of Mt. Moriah Masonic lodge.

SCOTTISH RITE WORK WILL BEGIN TODAY

Fifty-First Annual Reunion Will End in Entertainment and Banquet.

Members of the Scottish Rite bodies sitting in the Valley of Pittsburgh, coming from all over the country will reunite here today when the fifty-first annual reunion will open. It is to last four days and the classes to receive degrees will be larger, it is said, than in any previous year. The conferring of the degrees will take four full days and three evenings. The last evening, Friday, will be given over to a vaudeville entertainment at Duquesne garden where a buffet lunch will be served.

Each day the work will commence at 9:30 a. m. and continue until late at night, lunch being served in the Masonic temple where the work will be in progress. The local Scottish Rite bodies are the Gourgas Lodge of Perfection, Pennsylvania Council of Princes of Jerusalem, Pittsburgh Chapter of Rose Croix and Pennsylvania Consistory.

The committees in charge are: Banquet—Herman Junker, Eli Edmundson, Jr., and George W. Wilson; reception of visitors, Albert A. Horne, H. K. Beatty, Levi S. Gaddis, John B. Barbour, Jr., David A. Sawdey, William N. Matchneer, Homer C. Stewart, Henry L. Dixon, Thomas N. McKee and Alexander McClinton; reception at Duquesne garden, A. J. Lawrence, John B. Barbour, Jr., finance, A. J. Lawrence, John S. Craig and Harry M. Landis.

Order Now for Christmas

The ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA will make an ideal Christmas present. That goes without saying. Yet you may wonder why we are mentioning the fact now. It is by way of warning.

By the first of December we will not promise to deliver books for Christmas except in very urgent cases. It takes about thirty days to fill an order for BRITANNICA, on account of the large number of orders constantly coming in. Last year we were sold so far ahead that it was impossible to make immediate deliveries, and we were forced to decline accepting Christmas orders. Many patrons offered to pay us the full price in advance for sets, but we could not accept their orders.

54,432 Sets Have Been Ordered since our distribution of the 20th Century Edition began. The largest book manufactory in the United States has been unable to keep pace with the enormous demand.

We Therefore Give Fair Warning!

If you want a set of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA for a Christmas present send the Inquiry Coupon to us AT ONCE. It will bring you full particulars, and also entitle you to a handsome bookcase, which will lend finish and added dignity to your gift. All applications will be filled in the order received.

The New 20th Century Edition is a marvel of completeness. Comprising 31 volumes of 25,000 large pages, it opens up every vein of knowledge known to mankind. No less than three millions of dollars were spent in its preparation. The world's greatest scholars have labored over it for one hundred years. That is why the BRITANNICA is recognized as the king of encyclopaedias all over the globe.

Pay For It AFTER Christmas!

BRITANNICA takes little of your Christmas money—nothing beyond the first payments. Afterwards it may be paid for a little at a time—when you will hardly feel the outlay. And if you order now, you get it at LESS THAN HALF PRICE.

Price Will Soon Advance!

On account of the increased cost of materials and labor, the price of this Encyclopaedia must be advanced at an early date. We have, however, arranged that this increase in price shall not go into effect until the present printing is exhausted.

But prompt action is needed to obtain a set on the present advantageous terms. Cut out the INQUIRY COUPON before you lay aside this paper, and send it in AT ONCE!

WHAT IS SAID OF IT.

"It is without a peer in the whole noble army of encyclopaedias."—LYMAN ABBOTT, D. D.

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is king of its tribe."—PROF. DAVID SWING.

"If all other books were destroyed, the Bible excepted, the world would lose but little of its information."—SPURGEON.

For Indigestion KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE

Bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, belching of gas, heart burn, no appetite and a loss of strength are some of the symptoms the person must endure whose stomach and digestive organs fail to digest and assimilate the food they eat. If not cured catarrh of the stomach is the result.

Kodol represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach. It cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach, and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It restores health to the stomach and strength to the body by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. Makes the sick well and the weak strong.

For a number of years I was troubled with Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It grew into the worst form, nothing I used did me any good. Finally I tried Kodol and after using four bottles I was entirely cured. Kodol does all that you claim for it. I recommend it to all sufferers from Dyspepsia and Indigestion.—Mrs. Carrie Cranfill, Tray, I. T.

"Kodol digests what you eat"

Bottles only.—Regular Size, $1.00, holding 2½ times as much as the trial size which sells for 50 cents. Prepared only by E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO REGULATE COKE OUTPUT

ractically the Entire Production of the Connellsville and Adjacent Regions Was Represented at a Meeting Held Here Yesterday.

rly the entire coke production of Connellsville and adjacent regions represented at a meeting held in urgh yesterday to consider means the coke business in firm control. s finally decided to entrust to a ttee of seven the formation of a this kind and the following were s the committee: Thomas Lynch, t of the H. C. Frick Coke Com he United States Steel Corpora ke concern; William Darsie of a Coke Company, R. S. Jamison amison Coal and Coke Company, ainey of W. J. Rainey Company, d, one of the largest of the Con e producers; Robert White, rep g the independent interests in the own district; W. Y. Humphries of ssemer Coke Company and W. P. , president of the Clairton Steel co any.

This committee will report to the var us interests represented as soon as it had the time to formulate the method ccomplishing the desired end, which is to restrict the output so that there will not be an over-production. It is expected that much the same course will be followed as in the case of the furnaces.

With nearly half of the furnaces closed and the demand for coke thereby lessened and with a smaller consumtion in founries and elsewhere the Connellsville region has for several months past contained many idle ovens. Prices have been held pretty well, however, and it is expected by this move to keep them safe from deep cuts.

A telegram from Connellsville last night says:

"Twenty-five hundred ovens of the H. C. Frick Coke Company that have been banked for the past week, were drawn this morning, signalizing the company's entrance into the general market after having abandoned it for one year. An official said that it was the determination of the company to keep the ovens running from this time forth, besides the firing up of others which have been out of commission for several weeks past."

KING'S BIRTHDAY MARKS NEW ERA

Ambassador Choate and Premier Balfour Rejoice Publicly Over Alaskan Award.

JAPAN IS ENGLAND'S ALLY

British Minister Declares She Will Be Discreet, but Firm in His Demands Toward Russia and That the Czar Wants Peace.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—King Edward, who was born November 9, 1841, today celebrated his birthday at Sandringham, where there was the usual dinner to the tenants of the estate at which the king and queen and other members of the royal family handed round the desserts. Salutes were fired at naval and military stations accompanied by the dressing of the ships.

The lord mayor and the sheriffs made their usual state pilgrimage from the Guildhall to the law courts, and tonight the new lord mayor, Sir James Ritchie, gave a banquet to 1,200 persons in the guild hall. Premier Balfour was the guest of honor. Ambassador Choate was present.

Ambassador Choate, responding to the toast of "The Foreign Ministers," invited the lord mayor to go to the United States and visit the St. Louis exposition during his term of office, guaranteeing that should he be able to do so, today's procession would be repeated with all its pomp and paraphernalia.

The lord mayor, Mr. Choate said, would be greeted in the United States with a degree of enthusiasm greater than ever displayed by Americans toward any visitor from England.

After speaking felicitously on the subject of King Edward's birthday the ambassador passed to the Alaskan boundary decision, which he said was a "happy ending to the only matter of controversy that threatened at any time to create mischief and distrust between these two great English-speaking peoples."

While he believed that ample justice had been done, the result, Mr. Choate said, was due more than anything else to the good sense, justice, courage and devotion to duty of Chief Justice Alverstone. The speaker paid a tribute to the magnanimity of the Canadians and said that the termination of the controversy had made both countries better friends.

Mr. Choate then paid a graceful and feeling tribute to the memory of the late British ambassador at Washington, Sir Michael Herbert, who he said "possessed a combination of qualities rarely, if ever, found in any single man to fit him for his great office and its great duties." He suggested that the United States and Great Britain unite in honoring Sir Michael Herbert by "selecting some magnificent mountain peak" on the line of demarkation of the Alaskan boundary and "affixing thereto the name of Herbert so that for all time to come it may stand as a monument to his splendid service, noble character and great achievements."

"The Bench and Bar" was responded to by Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, who referred briefly to the Alaskan boundary question, saying he declined to justify or to explain his conduct, because such a course would be a death blow to the confidence reposed in the British bench.

Speaking of the situation in the Far East, Premier Balfour, who was present, said there was every reason to feel sanguine that it would have no serious outcome. He based this assurance on the passionate desire of the czar of Russia to promote peace and on the fact that Japan as the ally of Great Britain would display moderation in its demands and firmness in enforcing them.

Referring to Alaska, Premier Balfour said: "The danger arising from uncertain and disputed frontiers in the case between the British empire and the United States has been decided for all time. I regret that the decision has not been favorable to the claims of this country, but the two small islands, the loss of which to Canada has aroused such great feeling, are really valueless from a strategic and military point of view. We regret the exact tenor of the decision, but, however, the balance of advantage went, the gain to the United States or the loss to Canada is not compared with the final removal of this subject of dispute between the two great countries. The decision must be loyally accepted, for the removal of so serious a controversy is an inestimable boon."

In conclusion Mr. Balfour said that the growth of the international spirit and the tendency toward frank dealings between the western powers was well exemplified in the treaty recently concluded between France and Great Britain. The nations, he declared, must feel that it was a crime to enter into war.

PITTSBURGHERS' CLUB DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire destroyed the hunting lodge and clubhouse of the Dickson club on Slippery Rock creek, near Slippery Rock, Pa., Sunday night. The loss is $3,500, with $800 insurance. The property belonged to Dr. J. W. Dickson, sheriff-elect of Allegheny county, Elmer E. Shaner and several other Pittsburghers. Dr. Dickson, Mr. Shaner and two other members of the club, and their wives, were occupying the quarters when the fire started from an old oil stove in one of the sleeping rooms. Nothing was saved.

STANTON AND HENDRICK ARE GRANTED NEW TRIAL

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Holding that the trial judge erred in admitting testimony relative to the conduct of Laura Biggar, an actress, who with Dr. Hendrick and Samuel Stanton were tried for conspiring to secure the estate of Henry M. Bennett, a Pittsburgh millionaire, the supreme court has set aside the conviction of the two men and ordered a new trial. Laura Biggar was tried jointly with the other defendants but a jury acquitted her.

Mrs. Joseph Young Dead.

Mrs. Joseph Young of No. 65 Orchid avenue, Emsworth, died suddenly Saturday night while on a visit at the house of her sister, Mrs. Kate Lang, East Jefferson street, Allegheny. Mrs. Young had lived in Emsworth three years, previously residing in Allegheny. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church. She leaves a husband and one daughter, Mrs. John McGerry.

THE DEATH ROLL

Edmund M. Armstrong.

Edmund M. Armstrong, father of H. W. Armstrong, president of the Solid Steel Tool & Forge Company of Pittsburgh, died yesterday evening at the home of his son, H. W. Armstrong, in Oakmont, in his 80th year. Mr. Armstrong had been in failing health for the last two years and his death was caused by dropsy. Mr. Armstrong was born in Sorel, near Quebec, Canada. He went to Chicago when a young man and engaged in business there for several years, later removing to Warren, Pa., where he was auditor of the Emlenton & St. Petersburg railroad. After holding the position for some years he went to California, where he remained till about 12 years ago, when he went to Oakmont to make his home with his son. Mr. Armstrong was an active member of St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal church, Oakmont, where funeral services will be held tomorrow morning. He is survived by his widow, who is in her 81st year, and two sons, H. W. and A. J. Armstrong, both residents of Oakmont.

Mrs. Mary Myler.

Mrs. Mary Myler, formerly of Allegheny, but who lately resided with her son, James Myler of Braddock, died yesterday in Denver, where she was visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Carroll. Mrs. Myler was 76 years old. She was born in Down county, Ireland, and 57 years ago settled in Ross township. Forty-three years ago she married James Myler, who died about 25 years ago. She lived in Turtle Creek for about eight years, having resided previously in Allegheny for about 43 years. She is survived by the following children: James Myler, a foreman of the machine shop of the Westinghouse Electric works; Joseph Myler, Mrs. Kate Ross of Berryborough, W. Va., and Mrs. John Carroll of Denver. She was a member of the St. Peter's Roman Catholic church when she lived in Allegheny, and in Braddock was a member of St. Colman's Roman Catholic church. Her son, Joseph Myler, had left for Denver several hours before the news of her death arrived.

Was a Double Funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Balthasar Weis, the former the founder and leader of the Great Western band and a well-known musician in this city for years, were buried yesterday from their late home, No. 6428 Penn avenue. Funeral services were held over their remains at SS. Peter and Paul's Roman Catholic church in Larimer avenue, East End, in the morning. The remains were escorted from the home to the church by a band of over 200 musicians. Requiem high mass was offered by the Rev. Father Joseph Suhrs. He was assisted by the Rev. Father Charles Weismann and the Rev. George Guenther. Father Suhrs pronounced an eulogy after the mass. At the grave in St. Mary's cemetery, a male chorus selected from the German singing societies, sang "Your Hearts Are Stilled."

Mrs. S. W. Hill.

Mrs. Kate Gertrude O'Connor Hill, 46 years old, wife of Col. S. W. Hill, well known in local G. A. R. and military circles, died yesterday morning of apoplexy at the family home, Perrysville avenue, Allegheny. She had been in ill-health for the last year and a half. Mrs. Hill was born on the South Side and was a sister of the late Dr. Harry O'Connor of Mt. Oliver. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, Allegheny, and, besides her husband, is survived by two brothers, Kingsley O'Connor, connected with the National tube plant at McKeesport, and C. A. O'Connor, former purchasing agent of the tube company. Mrs. Hill was a graduate of St. Xavier's academy at Beatty, Pa.

John C. Tegethoff.

John C. Tegethoff died at his home in Braddock last night of pneumonia. He was born in Westphalia, Germany, and served in the Franco-Prussian war, being a captain in the Thirty-ninth German infantry. He was 64 years old and removed with his family to Pittsburgh in 1871. He lived in Pittsburgh two years, engaging in the tailoring business, and in 1873 removed to Braddock where he became one of the most important tailors in the town. Mr. Tegethoff was a member of the St. Joseph's German Catholic church. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Zwarmik and Miss Sadie Tegethoff.

John L. Walsh.

John L. Walsh, aged 86, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. Harry Butler, No. 907 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, of tuberculosis. He had been a resident of Wilkinsburg for three years, removing there from Rockwood, Somerset county, Pa. He was a member of St. James Roman Catholic church. Besides the daughter with whom he resided, Mr. Walsh is survived by one son, a resident of East Pittsburgh.

Edwin F. Swift.

Edwin F. Swift, aged 24, is dead at the family residence, No. 807 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, after a long illness. He resided with his mother, Mrs. Jean Swift, widow of Henry Swift. He is survived by his mother, one sister, Miss Lillian, and four brothers, Charles M., Milton and Albert of Wilkinsburg, and John, who resides in the west.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Aaron Moore of Beaver died yesterday, aged 71 years. She leaves five children.

Salathie I. Whiteacre is dead at Alliance, O., aged 66 years. He served many years as a railroad engineer.

Welongton Spiras is dead at Blairsville, Pa., from a stroke of paralysis. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Mrs. A. H. Evans of Beaver is dead, aged 47 years. She leaves her husband, A. N. Evans, and one daughter, Miss Bertha.

John J. Biron, aged 38 years, is dead at his late home at Curray station of dropsy. He is survived by his widow and two children.

Julia Eskin, aged 18 years, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Eskin, in Bellwood, Mifflin township, yesterday morning of typhoid fever.

The Rev. Chalmers L. Bowland, who died Saturday at Windsor, O., was yesterday buried at Alliance. He leaves a widow who was Miss Ada Nichols of Alliance.

Joseph Jonnet, 88 years old, a resident of this city for over half a century, is dead at his home, No. 138 Winslow street, East End. He was a native of France. Five children survive.

Mansfield in "OLD HEIDELBERG"

By CHARLES M. BREGG.

Richard Mansfield's facile art has found a new setting. From the forum of the Roman senate to the rollicking student-halls of Heidelberg is a long dramatic journey. From the intrigues of Cassius and Brutus to the youth and comradeship of a German university is a transition that would seemingly tax the artistic ingenuity of even a Richard Mansfield. But the actor is in more congenial atmosphere in Germany than he found in the Italy of the Ceasars. Racially, he is nearer akin to Saxon blood than that of the Latins. As Prince Karl Heinrich in Meyer Foerster's comedy of "Old Heidelberg" Mr. Mansfield relinks the chain of character studies where he broke it off when he turned his back on that other Prince Karl and said good-by to Beau Brummel. The role is one that calls for an art of which Mr. Mansfield has time and time again shown us that he understood and could express, not in half-halting form or obscured by mannerisms that were the fruit of temperamental inadequacy. He gives us in this idyllic comedy of German student life a revelation of his acting talents in their most persuasive guise, if not in their highest form. The audience at the Alvin last night at the conclusion of the last act of "Old Heidelberg" arose quietly and left the theater. It was a rather startling commentary and critique of the play and the player's art. There had been applause, generous and spontaneous, amounting to several curtain calls, but the last scene of "Old Heidelberg" does not need noisy approval. The audience falls into the artistic charm and spirit of the pathetic finale and goes quietly away. The highest compliment that could be paid an actor or a playwright under such circumstances.

The Meyer Foerster comedy is not a great dramatic work. Its development is not one of great intellectual or even dramatic movement and force. Its supreme charm is exceedingly subtle, and the lights and shadows come and go so elusively, so delicately that you wonder how its motif got such sure grip upon your attention and your sympathy. The explanation is in a sentence. "Old Heidelberg" is the reincarnation in another form of the world's old idea that Goethe caught and gave us "Faust." It is the heart-deep invocation of man for youth, for all that youth means when these things have once been tasted and then snatched from the grasp. The story of the comedy is not pretentious. It recites in direct, simple fashion a chapter from the life of a young crown prince, who, reared from infancy amid the stiff formalities of court life, always under the oppressive shadow of his heirship to the throne, is suddenly sent into the gay free life of old Heidelberg. For four short months he lives that life, breathing its free atmosphere, coming into the joy of its democracy of youth. Hitherto he has lived by rule and measure. He has known none of the joys of youth and of young manhood, not even has love touched him in the seclusion of the castle at Karlsburg. At Heidelberg life begins and with it love comes. True, it is only a little barmaid, the neice of an inn keeper, but she is pure and good and in this young princeling's eyes beautiful as woman. Four months of this and the end comes. He is summoned back to his home to assume the prince regency because of the illness and subsequent death of the reigning monarch. Two years of gloom and state formality pass. A visit of an old servitor of his student life recalls Heidelberg and breaks up all the depths of his memories for the old life and for his little sweetheart, Katie. He goes back to the scenes of his college life, but now everything is changed. He is the occupant of a throne and the old comradeship passes into the stiff formality due to royalty. No more old songs, no more democracy, no more roystering. The stern fate of his inheritance follows him and destroys every cherished illusion of his youth. Only Katie is the same, but even here an added pathos is given the end, and in a scene of rare beauty and tenderness the playwright closes a story that is so full of alluring sentiment by a farewell on the part of the prince to this last vestige of his youth and joy.

From a literary standpoint the play, you will see, is not great, or even assuming. The environment, however, is magnificent. Of contracted area, so far as mere scope of plot and mass of words is concerned, it is a play full of human sentiment, and responsive in its appeal to some of the deepest and most enduring of human ideals. Mr. Mansfield has handled this environment so as to produce the most delightful effects. The production is artistically commanding. No detail is left unattended to that will serve to heighten the sentiment and make real and sensible the underlying motif. It is college life; it is Heidelberg, if you will when mere questions of the vision are concerned. The Necker flows under the moonlight and the famous old castle is there on the bluff above the river. The songs are actual reproductions of Heidelberg student songs, the pipes and dogs and beer and laughter are all fac-similies of this old German university. But it is in sentiment, in range of appeal, all the world, wherever man has tasted life under like conditions and has gone back or wanted to go back, after the fountains have run dry.

Mr. Mansfield plays Prince Karl with buoyancy and charm. I am told that the prime defect of the impersonation of young Mr. Boucicault, who tried the role last season, was that he failed to create the illusion of youth. Mr. Boucicault is a young man, less than 30. Mr. Mansfield is possibly 50, and yet his Karl is the embodiment of young manhood. There are some physical defects in Mr. Mansfield's impersonation but so slight as not to detract from the general excellence of the work. His trembling when under stress or dismay is too pronounced and leaves the impression rather of physical infirmities than of mental anguish. But in tone and spirit, in a just appreciation of the delicate sentiment and subtle appeal of the character, the actor is thoroughly effective. The support is admirable. Miss Grace Elliston is a charming Katie. Indeed, the thoroughly womanly and artistic appeal of her work in the last scene is one of the great charms of the play. The play of Doctor Juttner, played by Mr. A. G. Andrews, is another finely-finished portraiture. It is full of pathetic appeal and yet so human and convincing that one never feels that the old tutor is a stranger. The valet to the prince, played by Mr. Leslie Kenyon, must also be included as one of the good things of a cast remarkably well balanced.

Mr. Mansfield has given a splendid equipment to the play. The scenery is massive and artistically harmonious. The bodies of singing students and the environment of college life are all perfectly devised, component parts of a play that, while not, possibly, the most distinguished offering of the Mansfield repertoire, is certainly one to linger a long while in pleasant memory.

Bijou—Chauncey Olcott as "Terence."

If Mrs. Edmund Nash Morgan is wholly responsible for the play which has been made from Mrs. M. B. Croker's Irish novel "Terence" then she is a very clever dramatist and will be heard from again should she decide to remain in the field of dramatic authorship. The name of Eugene Presby appears on the program as having "edited" this newest Olcott play, but until more definite information is forthcoming gallantry and the law of literary credit demand that due honor should be paid the excellence of Mrs. Morgan's dramatization. If you read the Croker story, the impression made was possibly not beyond what a tale of Irish love and comedy usually leaves. The play that Mr. Olcott has at the Bijou is very much better than the story. It is a comedy drama of Irish life that deserves to take its place with the Boucicault plays if, indeed, it is not more human than even the best of these. There are evidences here and there of weakness in the structure of the piece. The finale of the second act is rather tamely conceived after a rattling good scene, which is full of vigor and dramatic movement. In several other places and in one or two instances the character introduction is rather clumsily accomplished, but take it all in all "Terence" is one of the brightest, most cleverly conceived and interesting comedies that we have had from native sources for a long time.

The story deals with the "last of his race" a young Desmond of Ireland who has seen service in India and who has come home to find the Desmond estate in the hands of a crafty lawyer, while bats and owls inhabit his ancestral halls. Assuming the name of "Terence" and disguising himself as an humble coachman, young Desmond sets about recovering his property and running to ground the rascally lawyer. Engaged thus he meets a true Irish lassie, and love follows as the supreme motif of the comedy. There is a heroic rescue from a runaway; a finely acted scene in which a silly wife is brought to her senses on the eve of an elopement with a blackguard; a plot in which the hero's life is attempted, and finally a rescue of the estates, defeat of the rascally lawyer and a true Irish love match. Summarized thus you will conclude that the play is something of a melodrama, but it is not, at least not in the sense usually understood. The story is so coherently told, the incidents so well arranged and handled with such intelligent skill that the effect as a whole is marvelously clean cut and entertaining.

In the midst of this excellent endeavor on the part of the playwright Mr. Chauncey Olcott conducts himself with charming cleverness. Of course, Mr. Olcott's new songs, and there are four very pretty ones, come first in the minds of the old Olcott admirers, but it is Mr. Olcott's acting that helps to make "Terence" quite the best thing he has ever done. In the role of a young Irish gentleman in disguise, he is in fine mood and surroundings. He never plays the part down, but keeps you convinced all the time that he knows how to be an Irish gentleman in love and yet have time to sing a child's song or outwit the villainies of a rascal. The role is played merrily, naturally and effectively from the standpoint of Irish comedy. The company is a very excellent one. Our old friend Augustus Cook, of Napoleonic fame makes a suave and foxy villain. Miss Adelaide Keim is an actress of charming personal equipment, and skill that grows with each act more admirable. M. B. Snyder and Mrs. Snyder are favorably cast. Harry Hanscombe, H. S. Northrup, George Brennan, C. N. Shaffer, little Dolly Forde and Blanche Alexander, Amanda Wellington, Edith Miller Cook, Elizabeth Washburne and Mary Moran are other members of a cast that help Mr. Olcott do by far the best work he has ever done as an actor in a play that is quite the most meritorious composition in which he has ever had a chance to display his improved art.

RICHARD D. MANSFIELD: IN "OLD HEIDELBERG" ALVIN

GLADYS SEARS AT THE EMPIRE.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT IN "TERENCE" BIJOU

MRS. FISKE, In "Mary of Magdala"—Duquesne.

Mrs. Fiske as "MARY of MAGDALA"

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

Although Mary Magdalen has been the archetypal heroine of many problem plays, it remained for Paul Heyse and Mrs. Fiske to put the penitent harlot upon the stage in her own person. It is an auspicious conjunction of genuis that brings us such an actress in the play of such an author. "Mary of Magdala," as presented at the Duquesne theater last night, is a drama that will not soon be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Mrs. Fiske's interpretation of the title role, though often overshadowed by that of Judas, is one that will take rank with her Tess and her Magda, interfusing the triumphant sensuousness of the one with the poignant spirituality of the other.

It is safe to say that any actress of intuitions and intelligence inferior to Mrs. Fiske's, would have made but a sorry patchwork of the part. To represent growth or development, moral or physical, is one of the most difficult of tasks both for the playwright and the player. In most dramas the hero or heroine is a fixed quality, the situations change, the characters remain the same. In "Mary of Magdala," Paul Heyse has essayed a doubly difficult task—to show the regeneration of Judas from the disciple to the traitor. Heyse has not succeeded altogether, especially with the character of Mary, which changes by a jump, but Mrs. Fiske's art prepares for the transition and shades it so finely that the sense of abruptness disappears. At the close of the second act, when she is saved from the mob, after having seen the Saviour's haunting eyes and heard his voice, she is born again. The sensuous languor and luxurious abandon that characterized her until then are put aside for the rapt and meditative aspect of the devotee in the third act; and though in this act her lines are few indeed, her acting makes up for the want of words.

In the crucial scene of the fourth act, when she is beset by the temptation to save Christ from crucifixion by accepting her Roman lover's suit, she rose to emotional heights that stirred the audience deeply. It was the only act in which she was given such opportunities, for the play is really the tragedy of Judas. Charles Kent, who played this role of the fanatic and traitor, did full justice to it, alike in make up voice and gesture. The part requires little shading, and Mr. Kent's art showed in repression rather than in expression, so easily could it be overdone. This is not the conventional Judas, the avaricious wretch who sold his master for 30 pieces of silver, but a fiery Jewish patriot who expected Jesus to overthrow the Roman and establish a worldly kingdom. In a rage of resentment against Jesus, who preaches love for his enemies, and stung by Mary's turning from him, Judas accedes to the high priest's proposal to betray the Master he loved. Mr. Kent's work in this third act was magnificent.

The action of the play is swift and intense. In the first two acts it is somewhat theatrical, as in the several melodramatic rescue scenes; and in the third act it is rather fragmentary, owing to the necessary elimination of the Saviour's person. One is almost of a mind with the Frenchman who complained of a classic play that so many people were telling of great things happening behind the scenes that he should like to see some of them happen.

The play as written by Heyse was in prose, but it has been turned by William Winter into blank verse that is dignified and flexible, though without elusive beauties or ever rising to great heights. Unfortunately the dramatic value of some characters has been refined away by Mr. Winter's hand. One wonders what would become of "Othello" or "Measure for Measure" in his purifying process. If this Magdalen met Magda or Paula Tanquery, one would expect her to sweep proudly by and thank God that she was not like other women in problem plays. Mr. Winter has taken the strong meat of Heyse's drama and changed it into Mellin's Food. The characters of Judas and of Pilate's nephew have both been emasculated.

Among the players besides Mrs. Fiske and Mr. Kent, praise is due to Vaughan Glaser, who looked the Roman and read his lines well, save for a tendency in the first act to address himself to the gallery instead of to Mary, and in the third act a bit of overdone declamation, which will probably be repeated because it earned a round of applause. When will actors learn that the perfection of acting is perfect naturalness—that the people in costume plays are supposed to be human beings and should not spout and strut any more than the people in what is called the comedy of maners?

Edwin C. Wilbur, who played Gamaliel, read his lines so naturally that some others might learn from him. M. J. Jordan as Carapiue played the astute and vindictive priest well. The rest of the cast were only fair, but the mob was was exceptionally well drilled.

The drama is mounted sumptuously. The scenery, both in the landscape and the architecture, is finely in keeping with the period and the place of the action. The storm scene in the last act was an especially effective piece of stagecraft. The costumes, in brilliant and vivid colors, were all that the eye could wish; but it was more. The profusion of turquoise ornament in Mary's costume in the second act would have gratified the instinct of the most exacting archaeologist. The priestly robes, the Roman costumes, the dress of the rabble—all were in one harmony with historical requirements, and gave new evidence of Mrs. Fiske's care for this part of all her productions. But one may well, having regard to common sense as well as to antiquarian accuracy, wonder whether the serving women of a household in the climate of Judea wore in the house the wimpled headdress they are shown to wear.

The appropriate incidental music was a notable feature, and warm applause was given to Handel's Largo, rendered as a violin solo by George Glassmann.

Altogether it was a satisfactory and satisfying performance. The curtain did not rise until nearly 8:20, and the audience was not dismissed until nearly 11:30, but this will doubtless be remedied by the management. The house was by no means full, and this should also be remedied by the people.

Empire—"Shooting the Chutes."

"Shooting the Chutes," one of Murray and Mack's discards, was dealt to the Empire patrons last night by a company composed of some clever and some exceedingly indifferent players. There is enough of the original crackling fun left, however, to even up for the rough places, and the large audience at the Empire last night was not slow to recognize the good bits and give a hearty hand. Neither was it remiss in strenuously objecting when occassion demanded.

To produce the musical comedy, as it is called, a rather large company has been gathered together with most of the talent resting with not more than four members. These, Harry Wyman, Joe Davis, Mat Farnam and James Taggart in character work along with Ruth Jordan, furnished the fun. Joe Davis is good; Harry Wyman is better. Mat Farnam, as an Irishman, doesn't look it and only at times acts it. Taggart could improve on his part, that of an Irish theatrical manager. Miss Seabrooke, who has the leading soprano hasn't a great deal to d which is to her credit. Miss Jordan, German character work, does her satisfactorily. Author Conrad, as a fr bell boy dances well and Miss Fan Wood does a tough song very clever but at times with a vulgar suggestiven

Grand—"The Dairy Farm."

Beautiful in its simplicity, charm in its vivid portrayal of unaffected c try life, rich in its vein of humor its rollicking drollery and pathetic stirring glimpses of a slave's suf before the war, "The Dairy Farm" bound to please the patrons of the this week and to dispel whatever they may have been harboring. W the inimitable Hugh Ward, as the peddler, the stock company, every ber of which is represented in th there would no doubt have bee served for the play the reputation gained elsewhere, of being the m tistic of the rural dramas. Wit Ward the play takes on added for the prince of quaint way-dow country characters, has a way away the heartiest good wishe hearers who have striven in va strain their laughter and applau

The simple tale of love that through the play is its chief With none of the trappings of m ciety to hinder the lovers, the out the old-fashioned methods o try courtship in a way that would a New England poet, William furnished a fine example of the wooer, true to his manhood and and daring. Marion Berg, as the outcast Lucy, brought out the artlessness of innocent girl in the most fascinating Miss Eva Taylor did excellent wor the coy trainer of her bashful lo Charles Abbe, and when she appea with a red-faced baby to effect a rec ciliation between the squire and Natha the eyes of many were dimmed wit tears.

Avenue—Refined Vaudeville.

A crowded house at the Avenue theater last night was rewarded by a good bill of vaudeville acts. The chief attraction on the program, Miss Mabel McKinley was enthusiastically received and she pleased the audience by her singing of "L'Estaisey," "Ma Li'l Sweet Sun Beam" and "Violets." The four Bard brothers, acrobats, offer a novelty in every feat they attempt, and they are without doubt by far the best and most graceful tumblers seen here this season. That their performance was appreciated was demonstrated by continuous applause throughout their act. Mark Sullivan, as usual, made a hit with humorous impersonations, and A. O. Duncan, the ventriloquist, introduces some good jokes into a conventional act. Matthews and Ashley have an excellent dialogue and singing sketch, entitled "Money Mad." The Rice family of child violinists are fair entertainers, and Christina's dog and monkey show seems to have left their training school a little too soon. Genaro and Bailey have an act that is good only in its concluding features. The performance is ended with a pretentious series of cinematograph pictures, entitled "The Life of Napoleon."

Academy—Manchester's Cracker Jacks.

Bob Manchester's Cracker Jacks packed the Academy to the doors at both performances yesterday and well sustained the reputation the show has for first-class burlesque and vaudeville. Bob Van Osten is the star comedian of the show and his quaint humor and actions are a treat. He has a bran new lot of four-line parodies, sung with the old bass drum accompaniment which made such a hit on his previous appearances here. A striking lot of girls compose the chorus and their biggest hit of the evening and of the season for that matter, was their appearance in a song number gorgeously dressed in long Parisian gowns. Between burlesques a good vaudeville olio is presented.

Butler Warned Against Typhoid.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The unusual number of typhoid fever cases caused an all-day session of the board of health. John M. Leighner, president of the board, and Dr. John E. Byers, county medical examiner, signed a proclamation advising against the use of the city water, unless boiled.

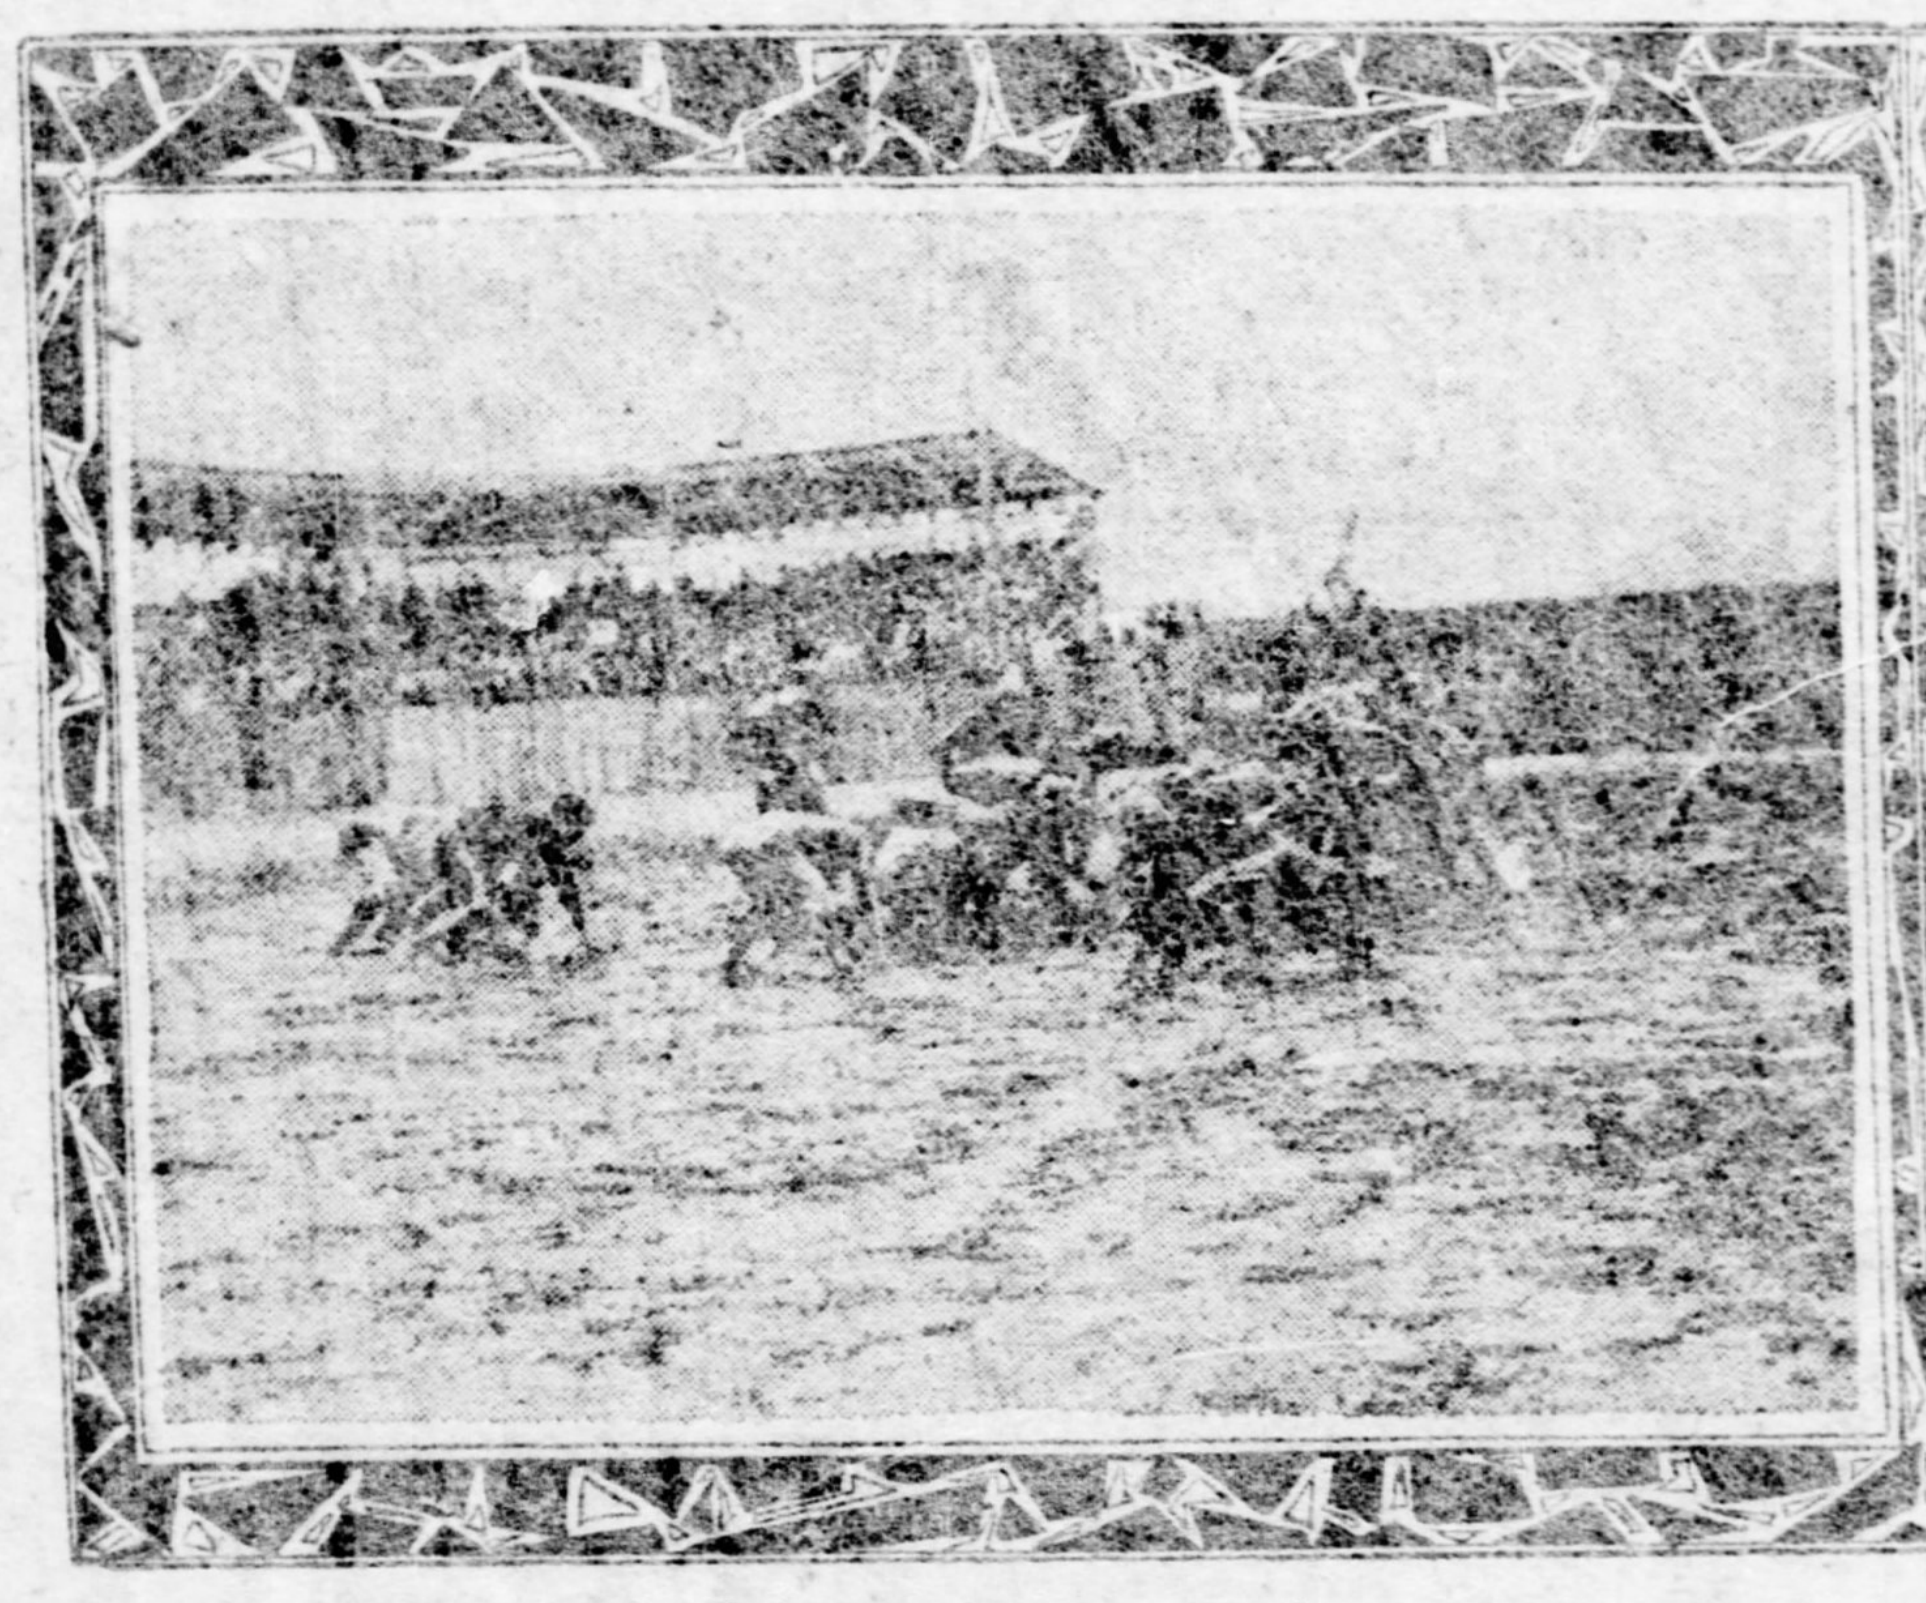
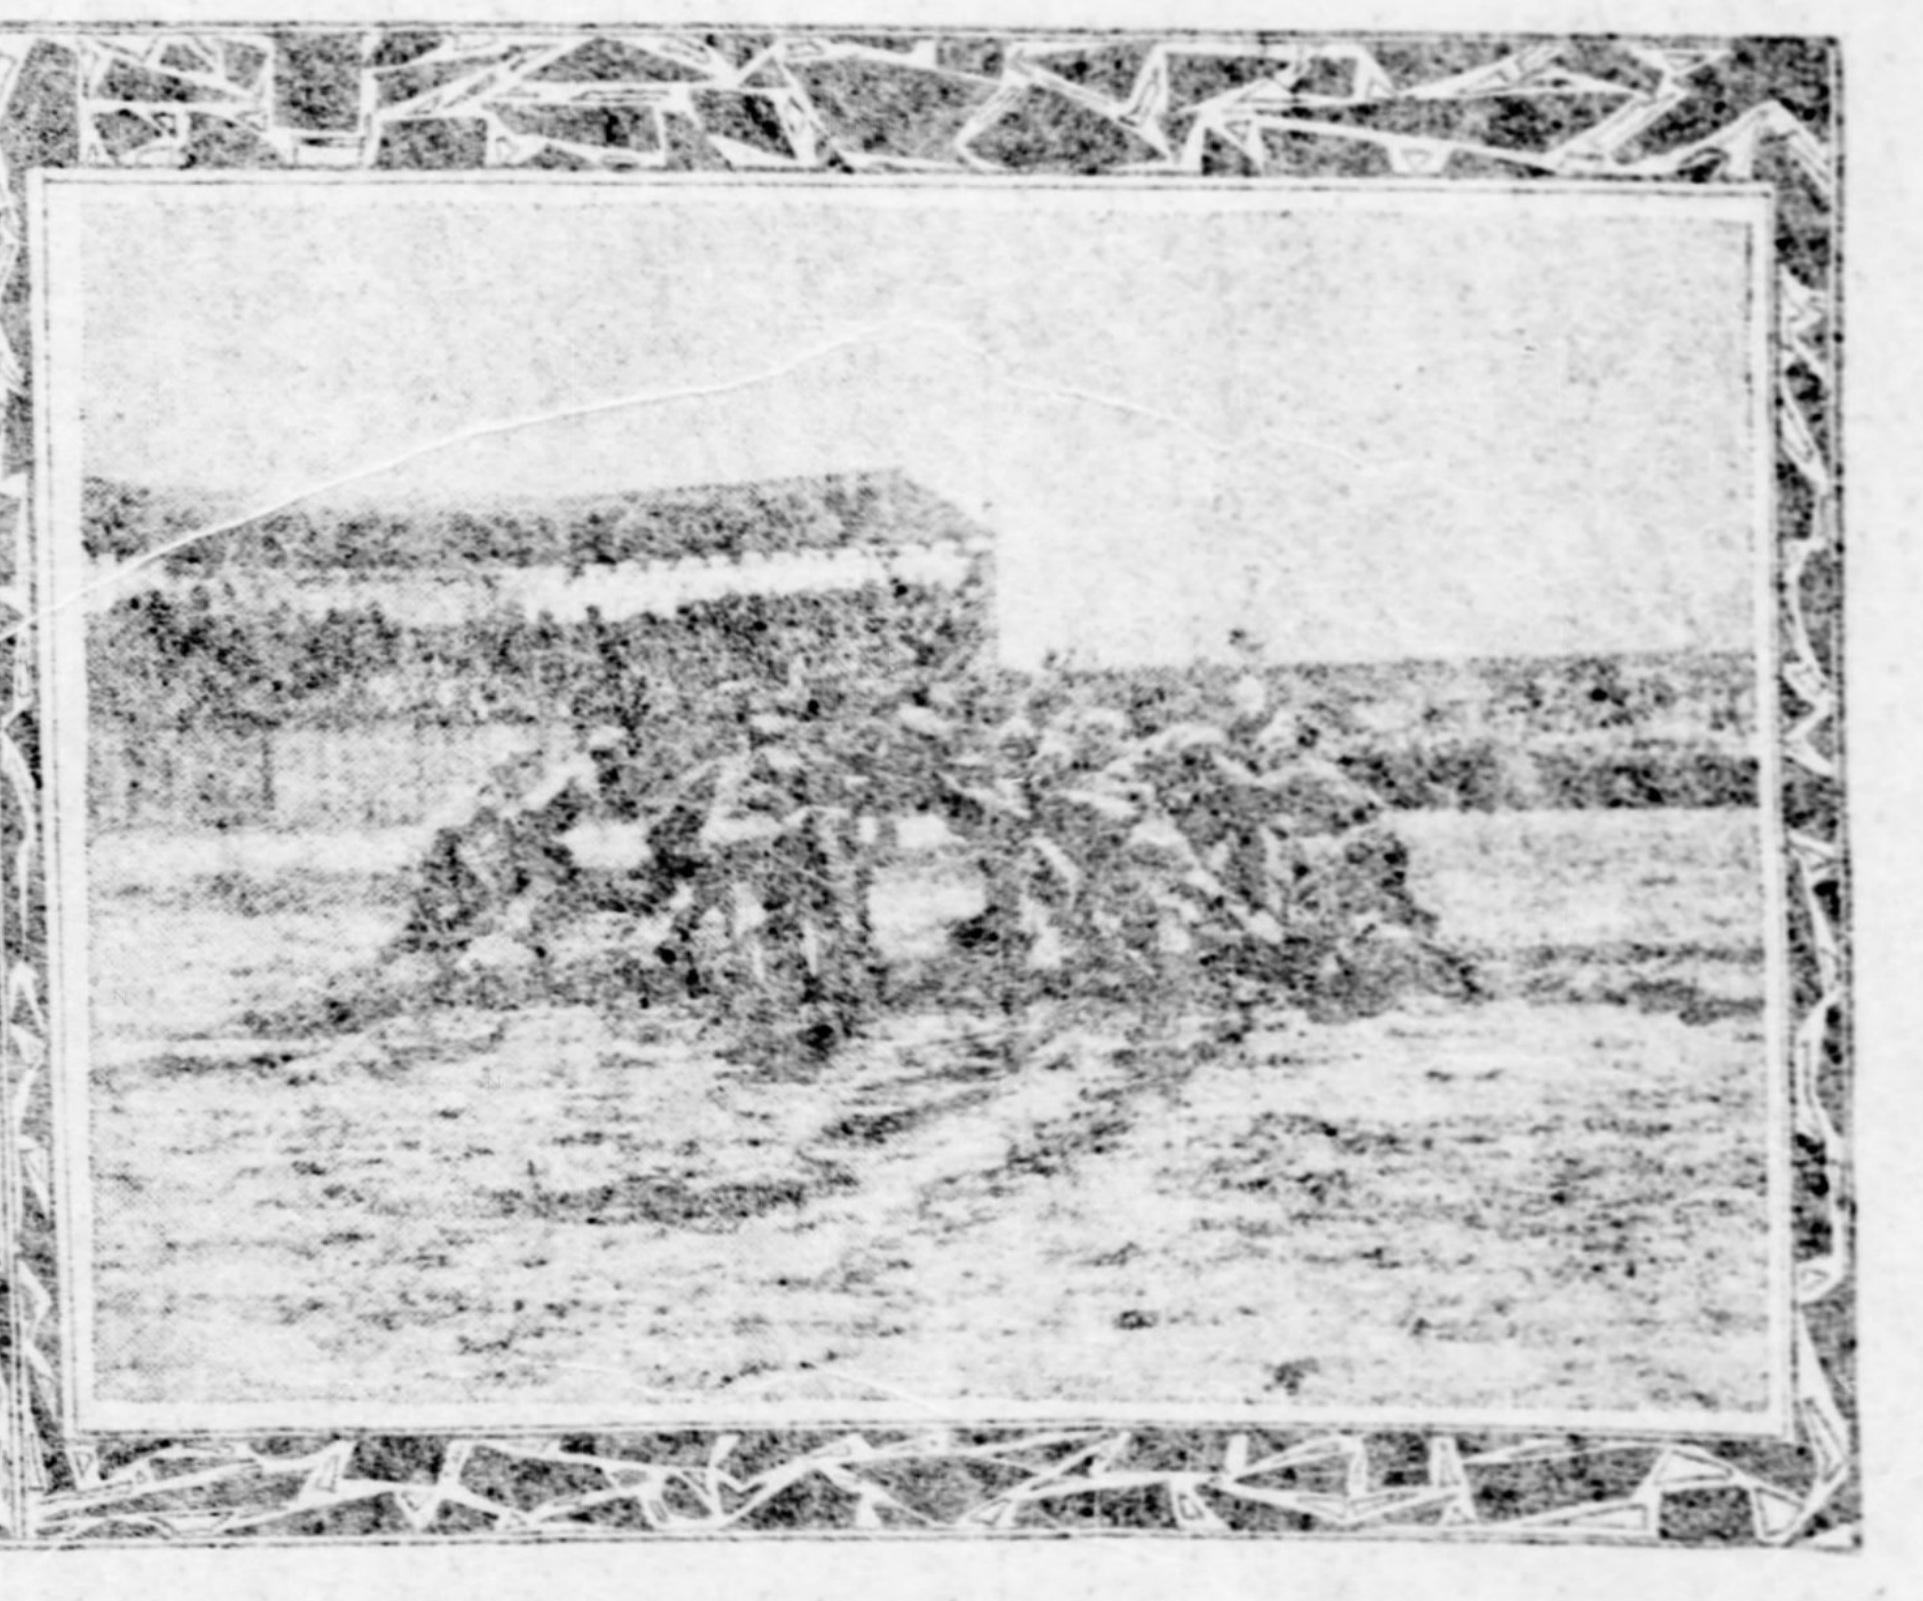
School Teams Put Up Fine Battle for Supremacy

TWO SCENES OF THE KISKI-SHADYSIDE STRUGGLE



Kiski lining up for a mass play.



Charlie Ahl taking the ball for an end run.

KI OUTPLAYED ANCIENT RIVALS

le Academy Puts Up a Game All Through and lls Up 33 Points.

IS BADLY INJURED

Kiskiminetas Springs school eleven oved, trampled and in generally out d by the Shadyside academy team Friendship park yesterday, 33 to 0. rom the first kick off to the end of one sided argument were the Saltsburg representatives outplayed. Shadyside ice crossed their goal line in the first half, en both came easy, and in the second half four times was the ball taken over their line. Capt. Williams kicked three goals.

The Kiski forwards were unable to beat back the fierce onslaught of the Shadyside backs and in advancing the ball only twice did Kiski get it close to its openents goal line, then in the first half when it got between the 23 and 25-yard line, and on both of Seanor's attempts at goals from placement nothing resulted in the way of scoring.

Shadyside found no trouble in piercing the line. McKaig, with the aid of Williams, Ahl and Price, hurdled the line for gains from three to ten yards, and the sensational runs were turned up by Kert Price, who contributed two. Early in the first half he circled the end for 40 yards, after which Ahl made a touchdown, and in the second half he recovered the ball when McKaig fumbled it and ran yards for a touchdown.

Kiski had no luck in recovering the fumbles and in this respect also was it beaten by Shadyside.

Gordon Badly Injured.

arry Gordon of Franklin, right end for ki, was badly injured in the second half scrimmage and was removed from the in an unconscious condition. While he was tramped on by one of the players, cleets pressed in on his temple, also ning bruises on his head. Ralph Long, old Kiski quarterback who was on the lines, applied the wet rag and other means storing consciousness, but when two phy came on the field he was ordered taken hospital. He however, was taken to the home of Quarterback "Boog" Cunningham, a few squares from the park. Late last evening he was still unconscious but the physicians entertain hope of his rounding too before morning.

Gordon was the only player removed by reason of injuries, but Charlie Ahl, who was playing a magnificent game, was sent to the side lines for scrapping with Seanor.

The officials were not certain who the Kiski man was mixed up in the fight, and when Capt. Caughey pointed out Corbett, who was tired, that player, with Ahl, was sent to the side lines.

Williams began the game by kicking to Davies on the 12-yard line, where he was tackled by Price. Caughey, on the first attempt, gained three yards through the line, but Urling could not make an impression, and on another try Caughey fumbled, but Cunningham regained it for a loss of two yards.

Gordon's punt went to the 23-yard line to Price. Shadyside began to get in action. Price took eight yards around the end and Ahl two more at the same place. Donnelly made first down and Williams smashed through to the six-yard line, then to the three-yard line, where McKaig hurdled for the first touchdown. Williams failed at goal.

Williams kicked over the line and Caughey, bringing it out, punted to Price in mid field. Price broke through the line like a fish getting through a seine and was pulled on the 14-yard line by little Swires. Price tore off 40 yards on the run. Donnelly got through three yards, and Ahl took the ball to the four-yard line, and on another attempt got over, Williams kicking goal.

Bakewell caught Williams' kick in midfield and Seanor made a first down. Cunningham was penalized 20 yards for an illegal run and Gordon was compelled to kick. Price, too, was guilty of an illegal start and also was penalized 20 yards. Shadyside lost the ball and Seanor, after the ball had been taken to the 23-yard line, tried for a field goal, but ueller and Williams were offside and Shadyside lost five yards. Seanor's attempt, however, went wide of the posts. Lytle made a or pass to Cunningham for another try for field goal and Seanor was tackled on the 30-yard line.

Shadyside punted and Kiski again got to the 23-yard line, where Seanor again failed at goal. Shadyside hammered its way down the field and had the ball on the three-yard line at the end of the half.

Donnelly Gets Touchdown.

Gordon, at the start of the second period, kicked to Ahl on the 12-yard line, and he got back eight yards. From this place the Shadyside back field men, with Donnelly, hammered the line and ran the ends down the field for a touchdown. On this journey McKaig did some fine hurdling, being aided by his mates in the back field, and Donnelly made the touchdown.

Kiski lost the ball on its 25-yard line, being unable to make a third down, and on the first attempt McKaig was given the ball for an end run. He fumbled and Price, catching it while in the air, got away from the bunch and ran the 75 yards for a touchdown like a running horse leading his field. Seanor made a hard try to overhaul him.

From the 20-yard line Shadyside again tore up the line and Williams scored another touchdown. Price landed the last touchdown on a 23-yard run, getting away on a fake kick. The line-up:

Shadyside—33.		Kiski—0.

BRUNSWICKS LOSE TWO GAMES TO THE CECELIAS

Neither Team, However, Plays at Its Usual Speed—Results in Other League.

The Cecelia team beat the Brunswicks, the former league champions, two out of three games on the Cecelian alleys last night in an Allegheny county league match. Neither team played its usual game and there was only one 800 score, made by Cecelia in the second game.

In the Diocesan league on the St. Michael's alleys the St. Charles team lost three straight games. The Crescents took two out of three from the Opals in the St. Vincent league. The scores:

BASKETBALL OPENING.

Great Crowd Turned Out and Watched Manchester Team Win Both Games.

The basketball season was opened in lower Allegheny last night and a great crowd turned out to cheer for the Manchester fives. The hall was crowded to the limit and enthusiasm ran high.

The first game was between Manchester and Bellefield, and the battle was a stirring one all the way. The game was fast and just rough enough to make things exciting for the spectators, who appreciated the efforts of both teams and applauded until the large majority of them were unable to shout any more. This is why the lower Allegheny doctors are expecting a rush in their business today. Following is the lineup of the game:

Manchester—32.		Bellefield—13.
Hay, Seibel	R.F.	Yeager
Koch	L.F.	Luty, Kelly
Metzkes, Walliser	C.	McCreight, Luty
Graham	R.G.	Gross
Burry	L.G.	De Muth, McCreight

Goals from field—Seibel 4, Koch 4, Graham 2, Burry 1, Metzkes 1, Luty 2, Gross 1, Yeager 1. Goals from foul—Graham 8, Yeager 2, Luty 2, Kelly 1. Referees—Kelly and Little. Umpires—Seibel and De Muth. Timer—Frank Burry. Scorer—Harry Roth.

The Manchester Juniors put the bug on the Standard five in a rough-and-tumble, free-for-all sort of game. The Standards were much bigger than the Juniors and held them down for a few minutes, but all in vain; the spell was broken at last and the Juniors rained goal after goal. Tannehill was the chief offender against the Standards, getting seven goals from field and one from foul. King also got a bunch of five, but left his opponent long enough to allow him to score the only field goal and the only points which the Standards got. Following is the lineup:

Tannehill	R.F.	Gasensmith
O'Neil	L.F.	Huber, Smith
King	C.	Jones
Hassler, H. Graham	R.G.	Smith, Garie
Alton	L.G.	Hoffmann

Goals—Tannehill 7, King 5, O'Neil 3, Hassler 1, Graham 1, Alton 1. Jones 1.

THE DETROIT FRANCHISE.

President Ban Johnson is Looking for a Purchase.

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—President Ban B. Johnson, of the American Baseball league arrived here today to stay, he says, until the deal for the purchase of the Detroit team and franchise from S. F. Angus, the present owner, is closed up.

Johnson, when asked about the story that Clark Griffiths, manager of the New York American team, was to purchase Mr. Angus' property, said that it was hardly likely. "Griffith will have to be with New York next season and besides that I understand the persons whom he was depending upon to help him out with the financial part of the transaction, have dropped out," he said.

BASKETBALL NOTES.

The Superior A. A. Junior basketball team has reorganized for the coming season and would like to hear from all 16 and 17-year-old teams for games. Address J. R. Neely, Shady avenue, Allegheny, Pa.

The South Side champions are now ready to tackle the champions of eastern Ohio next Saturday, when East Liverpool will play at Odd Fellows' hall. The reserved seat tickets were nearly all disposed of last night and the outlook is for an overwhelming crowd when the doors are opened on Saturday night.

The Silver Leaf Basketball team would like to hear from all strong teams having halls. The Colonial, Beaver, Tigers and Standard preferred. They played a practice game with the Lafayettes and all showed as if they can make some of the other teams hustle to beat them. The team is composed of the following players: Koser, Kerr and Albrecht, forwards; Nieman and Schmidt, centers; Steuernagle, Passat and Shields, guards. All teams wishing games please address E. M. Steuernagle, 828 Third street, Allegheny.

RANSCHAUPT WAS HERE TO MEET BILL PHILLIPS

Indianapolis Club Owner Thinks the Allenport Pitcher Will Make a Fine Manager.

Charley Rauschaupt, who used to have the score card and other priveleges at Exposition park and who is now the principal owner of the Indianapolis team of the American Association was in the city yesterday for the purpose of holding a conference with Bill Phillips, the Allenport pitcher for so many years with the Cincinnati team. Phillips has been selected to manage the Indianapolis team next season and there is little doubt but what he will make a success of his new job.

Speaking of Phillips Rauschaupt said: "I have all the confidence in the world in Phillips and believe he will be just the right man to handle the Indianapolis team next season. He knows baseball from A to Z, and while he has had practically no experience as a manager, I believe the players will respect him and he will be able to maintain discipline. He is well known in Indianapolis because of his long connection with the club in that city a few years ago, and should be very popular with the patrons of the game. Bill Phillips should win somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,000 per cent of the games he pitches. Crowley should not fall far behind this mark, while Newlin and Allemang and one or two others that may be on the regular pitching staff, will lose just enough games to prevent us going through the season with an unbroken record."

The news that Ban Johnson had gone to Detroit to take charge of the team in that city and try to find financial backing for it was not much of a surprise in this city, as it has been known for some time that the Detroit team was in a shaky condition. The American league is in pretty bad shape, having the franchises of Washington, St. Louis and Detroit on its hands, and Johnson is likely to have hard work finding men to put up cash to carry these teams along, as all have been financial losers for years.

WATERBOY WILL RACE.

Great Horse Recovers from Injury and in Good Shape Again.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The report of a few weeks ago that Waterboy, the great 4-year-old, would be retired to the stud has been modified. The great black has recovered from the injury he received while training for the Brighton cup and as a consequence his trainer, Jack Joyner, has decided to put him in training next year for the numerous big stakes.

With Waterboy well enough to race again it is probable that he and McChesney, the western champion, will come together after all in at least one of these big stakes.

New Castle to Have a Five.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—An All-New Castle basketball team will play games during the fall and winter with teams from many nearby places. Robert B. Hart has been elected captain and manager and is now arranging a schedule. The locals play their first game Thursday evening of this week against the Y. M. C. A. team at East Liverpool.

YALE'S DEFENSE WORK GIVEN SEVERE TEST

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 9.—Frank A. Hinkey came from Tonawanda, N. Y., today and took charge of the Yale football ends. Albert H. Sharpe also arrived and put the kickers Bowman, Mitchell and Hoyt through morning and afternoon drill, both in punting and in drop kicking.

The Yale varsity eleven was played almost to the limit of endurance of some of the men this afternoon in what is said to have been the severest test of the Yale defense yet attempted. The coaches admit tonight that they are satisfied with the test, and among the players themselves there is growing confidence that although trick plays or goal from the field may bring about Yale's defeat, Princeton will not give the Yale eleven a stiffer trial than they underwent today.

In the open practice the "turtle back" formations and the wide swinging interference from tackle out were tried. The cripples, Owsley and Metcalfe, were able to run back punts and are rapidly recovering. Bowman's punting under Sharpe's coaching today increased to a distance of 60 and 65 yards. If Batchelder keeps his form through the week he will go in at left guard to face the great Dewitt. Morton is temporarily sub center rush.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Harvard practice on Soldiers' field today was confined mostly to the subs and second team, as the varsity men were given a day off. They did not show any signs of over-fatigue as a result of the trip to Philadelphia and last Saturday's game, but it was thought best to give them another day of rest, so they will be in prime condition to start on the last few days of the campaign. The varsity subs and second lined up for a short, snappy scrimmage, and the latter won 5 to 0.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—After Saturday's hard game, which tested the Princeton players as no contest before has done, the men rested today. It is generally agreed that the Tigers made a big mistake by pursuing a kicking policy against Lafayette. If Princeton is to defeat Yale next Saturday it cannot be done by a kicking game alone. Princeton must rely on her offense and adopt a rushing policy.

If Princeton's line is to weather the gale it must settle down and each player must know how to work in unison with the man next him. The coaches will work hard in the remaining practices to get the team in smooth running order and to eliminate fumbling.

Pool Tourney at Braddock.

A billiard and pool room tournament was started in Braddock last evening at the Casino parlors. Tom Helms, the Braddock pool champion, started to play five players of that vicinity. During the week he will play each man 100 balls and the player making the largest score against him will be declared the champion.

WILL SHADYSIDE SHOVE HIGH SCHOOL OVER FIELD?

Coach James' Boys Think Victory Will Be Their's Over Winners of Yesterday's Game.

"What will Shadyside do to High school?" "Will High school stand off the line bucking of Shadyside and can High school backs get around the East Enders' line? Will High school win?"

These were questions that persons who follow the local elevens pondered over when they were filing out of Friendship park at the conclusion of yesterday's game.

High school is confident. It thinks Kiski is easy and that Shadyside has not the ability to shove it all over the field like it did the Saltsburg boys yesterday. There is no doubt that Coach James will have his pupils in fine trim, and his close attention to the Shadyside plays will be of use. He will coach his boys how to break them up, and beginning with this afternoon nothing but hard work will be in order until Friday afternoon, when signal work will be done.

Saturday, the day of the contest, will see the best game of the year for Pittsburgh when these prep. teams meet. The High school management is anticipating the largest crowd that ever attended a football game at the park and accordingly will have bleachers erected along the west side of the field. These, with the grandstand and bleachers already standing, will furnish seating facilities for three thousand people.

The managers of the two teams have not yet agreed on the officials.

Jimmy Ferguson to Marry.

"Jimmy" Ferguson, the well-known shortstop of the Homestead team, is to be married tomorrow at Irwin, the bride-elect being Miss Elizabeth Edwards, of that place.

Through Trains to Be Added on the Pennsylvania Railroad

If the operating department of the Pennsylvania railroad comes to a common understanding with the passenger department several important through trains will be added. The trains in which Pittsburgh travelers are most interested will be a Philadelphia flyer and a fast train to follow No. 19 out of New York. A provisional schedule which has just been arranged has the flyer leaving here at 12:01, noon, and arriving at Philadelphia at 9:30 p. m. The schedule of No. 19 will be changed so that that train will arrive here at 8 a. m. instead of 8:30. It will be followed from New York by a new train which will arrive here at 8:30 a. m. No. 19's schedule, it is understood, will not be quickened, but the train will leave Jersey City at 7:55 instead of 8:25 p. m.

A meeting of operating officials was held in Philadelphia yesterday and the local officials here will meet with the other division officials and General Superintendent Creighton at Altoona today. Final arrangements will likely be completed at this meeting. On the lines west, it is understood, a new train will be put on between Pittsburgh and Toledo, and a flyer between this city and Cleveland.

The Philadelphia flyer, if the present intentions of the passenger officials are realized, will prove of immense value to the traveling public. For some years there has not been a suitable fast train from Pittsburgh to the east between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m., the train leaving at the latter hour being practically a night one. The new schedule will go into effect

New Backing at Wheeling.

John A. Howard, an attorney of New York who represents a number of capitalists of that city, has taken hold of the somewhat neglected Wheeling, Waynesburg & Eastern railroad with a view of bringing it across the river into the coke fields. The project is not a new one. The question of terminals at Wheeling is now in the hands of the proper councilmanic committee. A committee of citizens recently went over the proposed route.

Change in Department.

C. E. McKim, superintendent of the telegraph department of the lines west, who for some years has been acting in an advisory nature to the insurance department of the Pennsylvania system, will no longer be connected with that work, as his duties in that connection hereafter will be performed by George C. Urquhart, real estate agent of the lines west. Before making the change the largest properties of the company will be inspected this week by R. H. Newbern, assistant superintendent of the department from Philadelphia. This official passed through here last night, being joined by Mr. Urquhart. They will meet Mr. McKim in Columbus.

The Pennsylvania system instead of placing its fire risks in the hands of regular fire insurance companies, handles its own business. When the department was first created A. M. Schoyer, now general superintendent of the Northwest system, was superintendent of telegraph, and his duties included work in the insurance department. Mr. McKim, who is regarded as one of the most thorough financiers of the lines west, has rendered valuable assistance to the general officers in connection with the insurance feature.

Still Short of Cars.

Coal operators of this district are still fighting the railroads for a better car supply. The impression has been given that the situation is easing, although a prominent operator said yesterday that this is far from the truth. The assertion was made that the railroads have not been treating this district fairly and that if they follow this precedent the closing of lake navigation will not help matters. The opinion is gaining favor that the average railroad official is becoming callous to the appeals of operators for cars, treating the conditions as represented to them as a necessary evil.

Railroad Notes.

J. P. Anderson, division passenger agent of the Allegheny Valley, is in the east on business.

The Lackawanna has established an east bound freight agency in New York, which is in charge of Frank H. Pyke.

The name of Germantown Junction on the Pennsylvania railroad is to be changed to that of North Philadelphia on November 20.

It is reported that the general offices of the Chesapeake & Ohio, now at Richmond, Va., will be moved to Cincinnati, where they formerly were.

It is reported that the Norfolk & Western has purchased the old C. S. & H. terminals in Columbus. Both roads are controlled by the Pennsylvania.

The question of world's fair rates will be discussed by the Central Passenger association at a meeting in Chicago tomorrow. As told in The Gazette, some trouble is expected with the ticket brokers and low rates may not be granted until the various railroads have some assurance from the citizens of St. Louis that they will be protected from the illegal practices.

The Wabash contractors are moving their men from Marion county, W. Va., to Bellington and Montsville, where work will be pushed on the tunnels on Paw Paw and Jakes runs and the bridge across the Monongahela at Rivesville. This bridge is to be completed within 18 months. The object in changing the men is said to be a desire to reach Fairmont as soon as possible.

A B C's
For five years the Regal Shoe has been explaining to the public the A B C's of Shoes.
Hundreds of thousands can now read and appreciate the whole story of "Tannery to Consumer."
For the benefit of the late-comers we are going to keep on repeating the Regal lessons until every man, woman and child knows them by heart.
Here are a few that we never get tired of emphasizing.
A—Economy. I should buy a shoe that goes direct from the tanner to my foot. In this way I save five or six needless tariffs, and get a better shoe for less money.
B—Quality. I want genuine Live Oak Soles, King Calf Uppers, and honest workmanship. I want the shoe that proves its quality, for there are many tricks in the shoe trade and I cannot afford to take chances.
C—Style. I may as well have a shoe which is shaped from the most exclusive custom models, and which has a distinct individuality. At the same time I do not want comfort sacrificed to beauty.
Regals are the only shoes in the world which combine all these points and prove it.

SPLENDID AUDIENCE HEARS HERBERT'S OPERA

President and Mrs. Roosevelt and Other Distinguished Persons Attend.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt and the most distinguished audience of the present theatrical season witnessed Miss Fritzi-Scheff's debut in light opera, at the National theater tonight, in "Babette," a romantic comic opera written for her by Victor Herbert, director of the Pittsburgh orchestra, and Henry B. Smith. The president and his party occupied two lower boxes, those accompanying him being Mrs. Roosevelt, Justice and Mrs. Holmes, Senator Lodge, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Senator and Mrs. Platt of New York, and Postmaster General Payne. Among those in the auditorium were Senator Hanna, Attorney General Knox, Representatives William Allen Smith, Goebel and Babcock, Senor Delviso, General Randolph and many persons well known socially.

It was the first performance of "Babette," and both it and the new comic opera star met popular approval, Miss Fritzi-Scheff having excellent opportunity for display of the talent for comedy that she displayed while one of the soloists in grand opera with Mr. Grau's Metropolitan grand opera organization.

The music of Mr. Herbert is tuneful and melodious but more imposing than that he has written heretofore. The libretto tells a love story with a historical background located in Belgium and France in the seventeenth century. Miss Fritzi-Scheff appears in three roles, the first that of the letter writer of a village near Brussels, then as a strolling player, and in the last act as a swaggering gallant at the court of Versailles. The play is magnificently staged and among the well known members of the large company producing it are Eugene Cowles, formerly of the Bostonians, Louis Harrison, Josephine Bartlett and Ida Hawley.

TECH DIRECTOR IS TO BE DECIDED ON TODAY

Carnegie Institute Trustees Will Make the Announcement After Its Meeting.

The "director" of the Carnegie Technical school is to be chosen at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute today. The matter has been in the hands of a committee, of which President W. N. Frew, Prof. John A. Brashear, William McConway and W. L. Scaife are members.

All of the committee agreed to maintain strict secrecy as to their choice until the final decision is given. It was reported that the committee will suggest two men, leaving it to the board to choose between them and that neither is a Pittsburgher.

The director of the new school will have a great deal of authority, as his choice comes right at the start of the work and the development of the big school will be largely dependent upon him. It is expected that he will give his entire time to the work.

Friends of Dr. T. C. Mendenhall, whose work in technical education is well known, were guessing yesterday that he will be the man selected. If he is not a candidate it was thought a pupil of his will be chosen.

The Three Rivers

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—The stage of the river at 6 p. m. marked 4.8 feet and stationary. The Levi J. Workum will be let off the Queen City marine ways tomorrow. The packet Helen Gould will be repaired and repainted before being put in commission. A slight rise which is coming will serve to check the fall in the river for the next few days. Local Inspectors of Steam Vessels Fern and Dameron yesterday dismissed the case of J. R. Holcraft and W. T. Jones of the W. H. Grapevine. The inspectors decided that the case was of a minor nature and the blame could not be placed on either party to the suit. Business was very dull along the river front. There were no towboats moving.

WHEELING—River 3 feet 2 inches and rising. Clear and warm.

STEUBENVILLE—River 2 feet 7 inches and stationary. Clear and cool.

LOUISVILLE—River falling; 8 feet 1 inch in the canal; 9 inches on falls and 4 feet 5 inches below the locks. Clear and pleasant.

WARREN—River 7-10 inches. Clear and cool.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 2 inches and stationary. Clear and pleasant.

GREENSBORO—River 5.4 feet and falling. Clear and cool.

GALLIPOLIS—River 8 feet and stationary. Clear and cool.

HUNTINGTON—River 4 feet 8 inches and stationary. Carrie Brown resumed her regular trade today.

INCREASE OF TONNAGE.

The report of the tonnage of the Monongahela river for October, 1903, was compiled in the United States engineer's office yesterday and shows a large gain over the same month of last year. The total output was 718,098 tons, which is about 100,000 tons more than that of October of the previous year. The tonnage of other product was: Iron and steel, 1,118, up; 2,668, down; gravel, 1,034, down; 58,621, up; sand, 28,448, down; 32,278, up; timber, 1,114, down; 3,245, up; lumber, 194, down; 5,814, up; general merchandise, 381, down; 3,217, up; live stock, 26, down; 62, up.

Most of the coal is loaded at the landings in the harbor in readiness for the next rise. More coal is said to be loaded in the harbor now than in previous years at this time. A rise has occurred in the rivers the latter part of November for the last few years, and rivermen are confidently expecting a good coal stage the last of this month. River prophets are more backward than usual, and predictions as to dates are not heard.

SOCIETY.

THE FOOTBALL game between Princeton and Yale at New Haven next Saturday is claiming a great amount of attention from this city. A large number of people will leave within the next few days for New York, remaining there until the eventful day and most of them planning to stay over for the Horse show which opens on Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Friend, with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wood Friend, are among the first to begin their eastern pilgrimage, having left last evening. They will also be among the first to return, coming back during the early part of next week. Mrs. Benjamin Thaw will be an interested onlooker at the game. Stephen Dow Thaw, her son entered Yale this year, together with Francis Laird Snowden, another Shadyside lad. Mrs. Thaw expects to leave on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Louise Sproull and Mrs. Thomas Morrison Carnegie, Jr., also leave on Wednesday, to remain east for several weeks. Mrs. Sproull, who has but recently returned from her summer home in Southampton, while in New York, will be the guest of Mrs. J. R. Dilworth, who has taken a house in West Thirty-fifth street, New York, for the winter. Among others who will leave the middle of the week are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wellington Pargny, with Mrs. Pargny's mother, Mrs. Rachel Tuman, and her sister, Mrs. Augustus Grange. They will be away for two weeks.

Miss Louise Magee will be one of a party whom George W. Darr will entertain in his private car from New York to New Haven. Mrs. James H. Reed and her daughter leave on Friday evening, while on Thursday evening three Princeton alumni, Joseph Guffey, Frank McCune and Howard Fisher, go to New Haven.

Miss Lama McGinley and her younger sister, Miss Jean McGinley, went to New York last week and will be in New Haven for the football game.

Dinner for Bridal Party.

Novel decorations marked the supper given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Liggett of Walnut street for Miss Pearl Cropsey and Noble Allen Birge, whose wedding will take place today. Pink chrysanthemums with satin ribbons formed the hub and spokes of a wheel. The hub was of chrysanthemums, the ribbons forming the spokes extending from the center to the 12 places laid for the guests. At the ends of the ribbons were small bouquets and engravings of the bride-elect, with a cluster of wedding bells and the place name. For souvenirs there were little white kid slippers filled with rice.

Covers were laid for Miss Cropsey, Mr. Birge, Miss Caroline Rucker, Miss Della Elizabeth Liggett, who have been chosen as flower girls; Lawrence Liggett and Frank Fortune, the ushers; Walter Hoyt, the best man; Miss Martha Ash of Oil City, who is being entertained by Mrs. Thomas Liggett over the wedding; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Say of Crafton, and the host and hostess.

The dinner was served at 7:30 o'clock, the rehearsal preceding it at 5:30. The Rev. Daniel Dorchester, D. D., will perform the ceremony this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Liggett in Walnut street, an uncle and aunt of Miss Cropsey, with whom she has been making her home for some time. The hour for the wedding is 6 o'clock.

Miss Cropsey presented her maid of honor with a beautiful little pearl and forget-me-not pin, while to the ushers Mr. Birge gave scarf pins and to his best man, cuff links. At the conclusion of their wedding trip, the bride and bridegroom will make their home in Sherman, Tex., where the latter is in business. Mr. Birge gave his bachelor dinner at the Hotel Lincoln last evening.

Pre-Marital Function.

A 6 o'clock dinner last evening preceded the rehearsal of the wedding of Miss Mary Cree Weddle and John Howard Calvert, which takes place this evening in the Sixth Presbyterian church, Allegheny. Miss Weddle is a sister of the Rev. Dr. David Frazier McGill and Mrs. McGill of Chartiers street, at whose home the dinner was given. Covers were laid for Miss Weddle, Mr. Calvert, Miss Lydia Turner of Chester, Miss May Diehl of Philadelphia, Mrs. William Calvert of Media, mother of the bridegroom; M. M. Couch, who is to play the wedding march; Dr. and Mrs. McGill, Miss Sara Weddle, who will act as maid of honor; Miss Jean Wilson, the only bridesmaid; Harley Calvert, his brother's best man; and the ushers, Walter Burtt of Washington, D. C.; Harry G. Fleck of Johnstown, William Turner of Chester, Harry Schwarm and Charles Urben of Pittsburgh, and the bride's nephew, James McGill; Dr. W. S. Weddle of McKeesport, who will give the bride away; little Miss Mary Hamill Trimble and Paul Didier, flower girl and ring bearer.

Pink and white were the colors of the decorations, which were in chrysanthemums. A centerpiece was formed of these, while ferns and palms were placed about the dining room. Miss Weddle gave to each of her attendants combs set with pearls, while the ushers, best man and ring bearer were remembered with scarf pins of different designs. The wedding hour will be 8 o'clock, with Dr. McGill as officiant. Media will be the future home of the young couple. At home dates after December 1 have been announced.

Will Live Out of Town.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Keller in East End avenue will be the scene of a pretty wedding this evening with their daughter, Miss Sarah Alice Keller, as bride, and Robert Fulton Pitcairn as bridegroom. The ceremony will be performed at 6 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas Parry, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg, and will be witnessed only by the immediate relatives. After their wedding trip Mr. Pitcairn and his bride will live out of town. No at home cards have been issued.

The rehearsal and accompanying dinner took place at the Keller home on Saturday and was attended by the members of the bridal party, including Miss Grace Keller, maid of honor; Miss Georgia Pitcairn and Miss Caroline Patterson, bridesmaids; Robert W. Sutton, best man; Edwin H. Keller and Edwin B. Wilson, ushers, and Mrs. Bryan of St. Louis, Miss Pattison, a daughter of ex-Gov. Pattison, and Miss Thompson of Philadelphia; also Mr. and Mrs. Keller. A set of little gold pins was given by the bride-elect to each of her attendants, the bridegroom presenting scarfpins to his ushers and best man. Mr. Pitcairn is a cousin of Robert Pitcairn of Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside.

Future Entertainments.

Mrs. George A. Macbeth of Amberson avenue will give a large afternoon reception today to introduce her debutante daughter, Miss Helen Macbeth. The hours are from 4 o'clock until 8.

Mrs. Thomas Reed Hartley and Miss Young of Shady lane will give an afternoon reception on Saturday, November 21, at the home of Mrs. Hartley in Fifth avenue. The hours will be from 4 o'clock until 6, and the assistants will include a number of young married women and several debutantes. Cards for the affair will be issued on Thursday.

Miss Schwartz of Penn avenue has invitations out for a small and informal afternoon tea on Friday, November 13, in honor of two visiting cousins, Miss Franciscus and her sister, of Philadelphia.

Studio Recital.

An unusually pretty scene was presented in the Clarke studio last evening during the song recital which Mlle. Florence de Valliere gave under the auspices of the Art Students league. The platform upon which stood two large pianos was placed at one end of the long studio, while upon the walls hung tapestries and rugs, giving a peculiarly oriental appearance to the place. The illumination also was an innovation. From the lofty beamed ceiling hung clusters of electric lights, brightly lighting the whole place. The recital was given to pay the expenses of the increased lighting and to add other furnishments to the place.

Mlle. de Valliere is a charming singer with a rich contralto voice. She sang a group of songs last evening which showed her fine artistic work and captivated her hearers. Mlle. de Valliere especially excels in the dainty and gay French ballades.

Wedding Rehearsal.

The Rev. Dr. Frank Sneed of the East Liberty Presbyterian church will officiate this evening at the wedding of Miss Mary Caroline Henderson and Dr. George T. Gregg, the rehearsal for which took place last evening at the Henderson home. Miss Henderson, who is a daughter of Capt. and Mrs. James A. Henderson of Margaretta street, will have but one attendant, a matron of honor, to whom she gave a gold comb as a souvenir. Dr. Gregg has presented his ushers and best man with monogram cuff links. The wedding will take place this evening at 8 o'clock, with a guest list restricted to the relatives and most intimate friends. Dr. Gregg and his bride will be at home, for a time after a wedding trip, with the bride's parents.

Guests Will Arrive Today.

Mrs. J. W. Smitley and Mrs. L. W. Deventeck of Schenectady, N. Y., will arrive in Pittsburgh this morning to be the guests for a few weeks of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smitley of the Monongahela House. Mr. and Mrs. Smitley will entertain for the visitors with a large card party and dance next Monday evening. Several other entertainments are being planned.

"Panic" at the College.

At the Pennsylvania College for Women, the old students will entertain the new ones on Friday evening of this week. The library will be the scene of the affair which it is expected will be very noisy, as the game to be introduced is a new one entitled "Panic," first heard of on Hallowe'en.

Meeting of Colloquium.

Colloquium met yesterday afternoon at the Pennsylvania College for Women with Mrs. W. M. Armstrong as leader. The meeting was an open one. The papers of Miss Knapp, Mrs. Renshaw and Miss Sara Hillman were much enjoyed. The musical program was given by Edward Napier and Mlle. DeLa Broissiere. The hostesses for the afternoon were Miss Jane Clarke and Mrs. Armstrong. The drawing room of the college was prettily decorated with potted plants and pink carnations. Pink and white were also carried out in the refreshments. Mrs. Robert Linton was elected a member and Mrs. J. F. Shafer, presided. The next meeting will be held November 23, at the home of Mrs. William F. Abel in Murtland avenue.

HOW TO GET WELL.

If one is sick and wants to get well there is just one way to go about it. That is to breathe pure air, drink pure water, and eat the right quality of food. That is all there is to it. Air, water, and food of a proper sort the body welcomes. Nearly every disease is caused by a lack of one or all of these things. Some doctors may tell you that pure blood, upon which good health depends, is made in some other way. The wise doctor will tell you it can be made from no other source whatever.

People who are sick and want to get well will find that no food is more serviceable in the production of pure blood than Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit, and that none is more appetizing or more easily digested. Physicians who have studied the food question are warm in their indorsement of Shredded Wheat for invalids and for people suffering from some impairment of the digestive functions.

I most cheerfully indorse Shredded Wheat as a healthy and highly nutritious food. Especially is it adapted for those suffering from a weak digestion and mal-assimilation.—W. Carey Allen, M. D., Colorado Springs, Col.

Carpets, Rugs, Draperies.

Few people realize the full extent of this store's helpfulness—

The scope and beauty of the stock of carpetings—the richness and size of the Oriental Rug department—the artistic completeness of the line of curtains and draperies—

The experience of more than half a century is condensed into the store's present day ability to serve you promptly and well—

The completeness of the stocks is a particular point—Even in the finest, most exclusive Wiltons and Axminsters you will find the line complete enough to meet your every demand—There's no buying from samples—with the consequent vexations, delays and disappointments—

We also have facilities for having carpets woven to order in one piece to fit any room—and match any color scheme—

In brief, the store is prepared to serve you promptly with the best the world produces in floor coverings of every description, and in curtains, draperies and upholstering stuffs—

Among the Clubs

AN ADDRESS by Mrs. Florence Kelley, corresponding secretary of the National Consumers' league, and national factory inspector, was the feature of the program at the annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania branch of the Consumers' league. The meeting was held in the assembly room of the Twentieth Century club at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was followed by an informal tea, served by the members of the local branch.

Mrs. Kelley has just returned from Chicago where she spent 10 days with Miss Jane Adams, after attending the annual meeting of the Illinois State Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Kelley said in opening her address that she has been frequently asked how the Consumers' league can broaden its field of work. And she answered the question by showing the progress which has already been made in disseminating the principles of the league throughout the United States. Through the industrial committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs the program presented at the meeting in Milwaukee three years ago gave a place to reports and addresses on the work of the Consumers' league. Again, in Los Angeles, much the same method was pursued and the individual organizations are also carrying on this feature of its work by interesting other organizations. The local branch during the past year sent representatives to speak before women's clubs and missionary and church societies in and about Pittsburgh. The National league in the last four years has enlarged its influence and now almost five times as much money is spent with equally increasing results as in the first year.

Mrs. Kelley presented in striking contrast the work which the different states have done in the direction of improved child labor laws, one of the important features of the work of the league. During the past year bills for improved child labor laws were presented to the state legislatures of Texas, Georgia, Alabama, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin and California. The bills were passed in all of these states but Georgia and Pennsylvania. Of these laws now in operation that in Illinois is the best. Its three chief provisions are that children under 16 years of age shall not be employed after 7 o'clock; that no child under 16 shall work more than eight hours and no child under 16 shall be employed unless he or she can read simple sentences and write legibly. This last provision for its fulfillment does not depend upon the affidavit of the child, its parents or the inspector, but a certificate must be filed, signed by the principal of the school attended, stating a satisfactory fulfillment of the educational requirements.

If it is found that the child does not meet the educational test, after the filing of the certificate, the principal is held responsible and prosecuted. Ohio is the only other state which requires that the children of 16 shall not be employed after 7 o'clock, and Ohio does not enforce that law. The plea that the widowed mothers suffer by the passage of the law prohibiting or limiting child service, was met by the offer of the women's club of Illinois to meet the deficiency in their support caused by the withdrawal of their children's wages.

Under the most systematic investigation in Chicago and throughout the state, only 14 widows in the city were reported to the clubs and after continued investigation only three were found to be really worthy of the proffered aid. The number outside of the city was 6, for which the State federation stood sponsor.

In New York state the new law has suppressed the "baby" newsboys, the little waifs of 4 and 5 years of age selling their papers on the streets among whom the most demoralized conditions prevailed before the enactment, while the age of newsboys was raised to 10 years and for boys between 10 and 12 a license is required which permits them to sell only out of school hours. During the first year of the juvenile court in Philadelphia more than one-fourth of the 500 offenders brought before it were newsboys.

In Pennsylvania 36,000 children are employed in the factories, 20,000 children being thus employed in New York. Pennsylvania also shows a greater degree of illiteracy than many of the southern states which have a large negro population. It ranks lower than Maryland and West Virginia, and just above Florida.

In conclusion, Mrs. Kelley said that the Consumers' league has a membership of only 10,000 in the United States and until its numbers are greatly enlarged it is deemed wisest to restrict its work to the supervision of the manufacture of stitched underwear, with this work taking up the other work of improving the labor conditions of the children and young women particularly, who are engaged in their manufacture. Only 55 manufacturers have yet found that it is commercially valuable to them to have the Consumers' league label placed on their goods, the label testifying to the fulfillment of the league's requirements regarding the manufacture of the garments and the humane provisions made for their employes.

The annual election took place yesterday afternoon, with the following result: President, Miss Eliza D. Armstrong; first vice president, Mrs. W. J. Askin; second vice president, Mrs. John Cowley; third vice president, Mrs. Josiah Cohen; treasurer, Mrs. S. L. Seymour; recording secretary, Miss Jane Robb Murdock; corresponding secretary, Miss Nannie G. Barclay; governing board, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. Mattie Patterson, Miss Beulah Kennard, Mrs. Albert Blumberg, Mrs. J. M. Colesberry, Mrs. Teresa M. Popp, Miss Kate C. McKnight, Miss Alice M. Thurston, Miss M. E. Stevenson, Mrs. Samuel S. Miller, Miss Minnie Teeters, Mrs. A. Leo Weil, Mrs. E. W. Gormley, Mrs. Charles D. Armstrong, Mrs. W. P. Price, Miss Alice R. Denniston, Miss Elizabeth S. Mitchell, Mrs. John Purman, of Homestead; Mrs. T. L. Kennedy of New Brighton, and Mrs. William J. Glenn of Carnegie.

Duquesne Ceramic Club Reception.

The annual exhibit of the Duquesne Ceramic club opened last evening with the reception to the members of the club and their friends, in the suite of parlors on the second floor of the Hotel Schenley, where tables prettily decorated in the club's colors were covered with the ceramic display. The rooms were thronged with people. The table bearing the cups and saucers, each member of the club contributing one, was quickly depleted of its wares. This year Miss Hicks of the Arts and Crafts Guild of New York was the juror. Miss Hicks arrived yesterday morning and was entertained through the day by Miss Myra Boyd. She left for the east again last evening.

The exhibition is regarded as one of the most notable ever shown by the club, and in some instances the work is the best the members have done. The gold medal was awarded Mrs. Albert Pettit for a miniature of her husband reading by the firelight. The pose is easy and the work is exquisitely done. Miss Mabel Farren won both the silver and bronze medals in the plate and vase competition. Honorable mention was accorded a larger number than usual, among them being Mrs. William Walters for a vase done in wisterias from nature; Miss Mabel Faust, conventional design; Mrs. Annie McIntyre, a bowl in silver and black, with a grape design; Mrs. N. L. Jackson, a vase; Miss Helen Harper, a design in enamel and gold; Miss Laura Overly, a vase; Mrs. Otis Cheesman, Mrs. H. L. Swaney and Mrs. E. D. Miller, conventional designs on plate. One of the most interesting exhibits was a portrait in cameo effect, the work of Miss Mabel Farren. The exhibition will be open to the public today and tomorrow.

Conference of the Daughters.

This afternoon the first session of the state conference of the Pennsylvania Daughters of the American Revolution will be held in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music in Dithridge street, Bellefield. A number of the representatives of the chapters of the society throughout the state arrived in Pittsburgh last evening, but the majority of visitors are expected this morning and will be received by the reception committee of the local Daughters, Mrs. S. Jarvis Adams, chairman. The Schenley will be the headquarters. The address of welcome will be delivered by Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, with a response by Miss Susan Frazer of Lancaster, the state regent. This evening the concert of the Pittsburgh orchestra with Victor Herbert conducting, which will be held in honor of the visiting daughters by the Pittsburgh chapter, D. A. R., will take place in Carnegie Music hall, and will be followed by a private view of the Carnegie art galleries.

The court below found that they were special partners under the act of 1870 and found against Jordan, and this action is affirmed.

In the mandamus proceedings brought to compel Judge W. M. Lindsey to preside over a trial of a railroad case the supreme court says that the matter is before the Potter county court and the president judge of that court must see that it is tried.

In the case of the Homewood People bank against William R. Heckert, an action on a note, the court declares that an oral agreement to extend the note from time to time, is not admissible to vary the effect of a written contract to pay at a fixed time.

BANK SUES TO RECOVER $5,000 ON STOCK DEAL

U. S. Circuit Court Begins November Term--Judge Buffington Grants New Trial.

The November term of the United States circuit court opened yesterday with Judges M. W. Acheson and Joseph Buffington on the bench. The morning session was entirely taken up with going over the trial list.

The case of Abraham Ziegler versus the Pittsburgh & Western railway company, and John K. Cowen receiver, was reported settled, as were the cases of the Evansville Contract Company versus the Fort Pitt Glass Company, and James Gillespie, by his guardian, Rosanna Gillespie, versus the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. In the case of William Krupper versus W. W. Lucius, a verdict for Lucius was rendered by agreement of counsel.

The first case taken up was that of the First National bank of Milwaukee, Wis., versus the Deposit National bank of DuBois, Pa., an action to recover on a draft for $5,000. The suit is the result of a lumber deal between H. F. Osborne of DuBois, and the Rib Lake Lumber Company, of Rib Lake, Wis. The case was still on when court adjourned.

Judge Joseph Buffington handed down an opinion in the suit of the Cleveland Foundry Company and W. R. Jeavurs versus Kaufmann Bros., of Pittsburgh. The suit was for the alleged infringement of an oil burner, a patent for which was granted to Jeavurs in 1902. The court holds that the means employed are not new, but that the usages to which they are placed, are new. The opinion continued: "We think in sustaining the patent and granting the patentee a monopoly of such use, we might trench on the public right to make any use it saw fit of a needle valve and an enveloping sleeve. The patent is therefore held to be invalid."

An injunction to restrain the Karnes Manufacturing Company, of Franklin, Pa., from using the picture of a horse as a trade mark for its gall-cure was refused. The petition was filed by the Biskmore Gall Cure Company, of Old Town, Me., who alleged an infringement on their trade-mark.

A new trial has been granted to George B. White, who was convicted in the United States district court last May, of wrecking the National Bank of South Hyndman, Pa., and of making false statements to the controller of the currency. In granting a new trial Judge Buffington says:

"After careful consideration, we are of the opinion that the court erred in the trial of this case in admitting evidence of loans secured by George B. White from three different banks and giving the stock of the Hyndman National bank as security. If, in these transactions, any fraud was committed upon the banks, it is not to be tried in this case. We are of the opinion that no such connection was shown between these transactions and the making of the alleged false statements of May 8, 1902, and November 25, 1902, as charged in the indictment. * * *

"Their nature was such that notwithstanding the caution given by the court of the limited use for which they were admitted, they would naturally have a damaging effect on White's case, in the minds of the jury."

White is now in the county jail, where he has been since April 9. There were 72 counts in the indictment and he was found guilty on 24 counts.

Liquor License Transfers.

Judge J. A. Evans, sitting in quarter sessions court, granted the following applications for transfer of liquor licenses yesterday: Joseph Grier to Joseph W. Fisher, 900 James street, Allegheny; Harry Elkin to Fred Hockstetter, 4733 Butler street; Joseph H. Munch to John Zinmeister, 3507 Butler street; A. A. Weisser to James Farrell, 1519 Penn avenue; Mary McCann, changed location from 2202 to 2219 Penn avenue; Adolf Kuehemund to Adolf Boes, 126-128 Duquesne avenue, Duquesne; Lillie Ord to Harrison T. Lewis, Third and Washington avenues, Dravosburg; Paul Kuhnert, change of location to opposite corner at Chestnut street and Center alley, Harrison township; John G. Wisener to Timothy F. Sullivan, 1306 Penn avenue; Stany Nicholski to Jozef Domesleurcz, 1103 Braddock avenue, Braddock; M. J. White to Frank Becher, 223 Fifth avenue, McKeesport; James Garland to John F. Keeling and George L. Harger, 4802 Second avenue; Paul Suhur to Henry Glasser, 318 Second avenue, Duquesne; David B. Johns to Peter Scheif, Jr., Carnegie; Margaret Joos to George Renkes, 24 Southern avenue, Mt. Oliver; Jose Hauser to Charles J. Weisenberger, 405-407 Huey street, McKeesport; Charles Herman to William A. Ulrich, North Canal and Clay street, Sharpsburg; Theresa Keating to Josephine F. Keating, Perrysville plank road, Ross township; John Golden to Annie Golden.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Decrees in divorce were granted in the suits of Catherine A. J. Chambers against Charles Chambers, and Margaret Hettrick against Phillip Hettrick, on grounds of desertion.

The following executions were issued: William L. Sloan, use, vs. George L. French, $3,201 97; Geneva Tool Company vs. Hubbard & Co., $859 81; J. H. Coulter vs. J. C. Coulter, $3,575; T. Tully vs. Mrs. Agnes N. Wolf, $43 04.

Letters of administration were granted as follows: To A. C. Gordon on estate of Hilda J. Quinn; Attorney F. P. Glasser on the estate of Johanna Husak; Samuel Hinkel on the estate of Katherine Hinkel; and to Antonina Ozel on the estate of John Ozel.

Frank E. Holmes, Scott Bailey and Cyrus Henderson have entered separate suits for $5,000 each against Patrick C. Duffy, a hotel keeper in Grant street. The plaintiffs alleged they requested edibles and refreshments in the defendant's restaurant which were refused them on acount of their race and color.

In the suit of Dr. William R. Hamilton against J. W. Thompson and William H. Graham, the latter defendant has filed an answer and avers that the signature purporting to be his on the note sued upon is a forgery and that he never had any dealings with the plaintiff.

Good Health

Is doubtless the highest human good. It is especially so to women, to whom it means the preservation of beauty, happiness in the home, and the enjoyment of social duties. There can be no good health for any woman who suffers from womanly diseases. Her complexion fails. Her flesh loses its firmness. Her eyes are dull. She has no home happiness, no social enjoyment.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases which destroy the health. It establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It gives good health to women, which means tranquil nerves, a good appetite and sound sleep.

"I was a great sufferer two years ago with female trouble and I wrote to you for advice," says Mrs. Mattie Hays, of Tribulation, McDonald Co., Missouri. "You outlined a course of treatment for me. I followed your directions, and now feel like a different person. I never expected to hear from you when I wrote to you. In three days after I commenced taking your medicines I began to feel better. I took twenty dollars' worth of the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I bought it five dollars' worth at a time, and also four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I would not take one thousand dollars for the good the medicine has done me. I can't praise it enough. I wish all who suffer with such troubles would give Dr. Pierce's medicines a fair trial. I can work all day--doing anything, walk where I please, and feel good. Many thanks to you for your kind advice."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LIQUIDATION CONTINUED IN U. S. STEEL PREFERRED

New Low Records Made for the Stocks and Bonds The Market for Railway Shares Held Steady. More Gold Coming.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

There was a resumption of the liquidation in the steel stocks yesterday in the eastern stock market, and except for a brief interval just after the opening, when an attempt was made to rally prices, the tendency was downward. Both the common and preferred stocks, as well as the new sinking fund bonds, declined to the lowest prices ever quoted, and the final transactions were at practically the lowest. Aside from the steel issues, the market was steady to firm, and even when Steel was at its weakest, some stocks advanced, notably Manhattan. London was not a factor in the dealings, and initial sales on this side showed fractional advances. United States Steel common opened a shade lower at 11⅛, but the preferred was a shade firmer at 53⅞. The latter price proved to be the highest of the day. There was a quick decline to 53 on rather large transactions, followed by a recovery to 53¼, but for the remainder of the day there was steady liquidation, which finally carried the common stock to 10⅜, the preferred to 50½, and the new bonds to 65⅝, and the closing bids were only a shade above these prices. The downward movement was not accompanied by any influential news, and there was no official confirmation of the rumored cuts in prices of finished iron and steel. There were reports, however, that meetings of various pools would be held during this week, and the impression prevailed that present nominal prices would be reduced to a point that would stimulate demand. The actual condition of the trade was said to be better today than it was two weeks ago; that is, the producing capacity in operation is larger, and it is inferred that mills would not have been started unless conditions justified the resumption. The usual bearish tactics were not so much in evidence as they were on last week's decline, although there was one minor wager that the price of the preferred stock would break through 50 during the day.

Other industrial stocks sympathized with the weakness in the leader, and Republic Iron and Steel preferred, after advancing to 50, declined a point on a rumor originating in Chicago that August Belmont had resigned from the directorate of the company. Pressed Steel Car common, which was quoted ex-dividend, declined from 26 to 25½, but closed at 25¾ bid. Colorado Fuel and Iron sold off from 28⅝ to 27 and closed at 26 bid on reports that the strike of coal miners of the company was more extensive than expected. Tennessee Coal and Iron broke from 28 to 26¼ and closed at 26½. Amalgamated Copper sold off from 37 to 36⅛, and closed at 36½.

The railroad list held firm until 2 o'clock, and moderate advances were scored, but after that hour they sympathized with the continued weakness in United States Steel. The declines, however, were in no instance important, and they were impartially distributed among those stocks which would be most affected by a continuation of industrial depression and those that traverse the richest agricultural sections which have not yet felt business reaction. Thus Pennsylvania declined from 117⅛ to 116¾, a net loss of 1⅛ per cent, while St. Paul declined from 139⅜ to 138¼, also a loss of 1⅛ per cent. Baltimore & Ohio declined 1 per cent to 75⅝, and Atchison declined 1 per cent to 64⅝. Manhattan was the strongest stock on the list, advancing from 136 to 138⅜, and closing at 138¼. In many of the leading railway stocks less than 1 per cent covered the extreme fluctuations. The market was more active during the afternoon than during the first two hours, and the total sales reached 435,000 shares. Except in United States Steel the business was extremely light and generally professional.

The rate for call loans was steady to firm most of the day at 5 per cent. Time loans were also firm, and there was a scarcity of offerings of bank money. On the other hand the shipments of currency were comparatively light, and during the day it was announced that $750,000 gold had been engaged for import. In the London market the price of bar gold advanced to the highest price of the year, but at the same time sterling exchange declined to the lowest of the season, adding to the profit on imports of gold. Through their operations with the subtreasury, the New York banks have lost $1,653,000 since last Friday, but the present indications are that transfers of currency to the interior have reached the maximum, and, besides this, some of the gold now on the way from Europe will arrive during the week and offset the drain of money to the country.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday there was a decided falling off in business, and a rather heavy tone developed. This was due entirely to the weakness in Wall street of United States Steel. The latter was the only active member of the local group. There were sales of 405 shares of the common at prices ranging from 10⅞ to 10⅝, and 888 shares of the preferred within a range of 53⅞ and 50½, the close on the latter being 50¾. The transactions in Crucible Steel all day amounted to only 15 shares of the preferred at 29⅞ and 30. The common stock was quoted at 3¾@3⅞. The liquidation in these stocks seems to have been completed, and dullness is likely to continue until the middle of next month at least, when the directors take action on the preferred dividend. Pittsburgh Coal common sold off to 18⅝ and was offered at that price at the close, while the preferred closed unchanged at 60 sales and bid. The report published in the east that the deal between this company and the railroads handling its tonnage had been declared permanently off was officially denied here, and the delay in consummating the transaction was explained by the statement that a modification in some minor details of the original proposition was undergoing consideration. A small lot of River Coal preferred sold unchanged at 27½. Westinghouse Electric was dull, selling at 67¼ and 67½, but closing at 67 bid, 67¼ asked. There were no sales of or quotations for Westinghouse Airbrake. National Fire Proofing common sold unchanged at 11, and the preferred was nominally quoted at 23½ bid, 23¾ asked. Manufacturers Light and Heat closed a fraction lower at 25⅝ sales and offered. Pittsburgh Brewing common closed a fraction lower at 25. There was nothing doing in the remainder of the stock list, and prices remained nominally unchanged. River Coal 6s sold to the extent of $12,000 at 107, which was unchanged from the last previous sale.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges were $5,600,741, a decrease of $500,000.

Stock market dull and heavy. Sales 2,553 shares stock and $12,000 bonds.

United States Steel the only active issue, and the only stocks to show material losses.

Pittsburgh Coal common declined to 18⅝, but the preferred held steady at 60.

River Coal preferred sold at 27½ and $12,000 of the bonds at 107.

Manufacturers Gas and Westinghouse Electric closed slightly lower.

IN WALL STREET.

Continued liquidation in United States Steel again overshadowed the market.

Condition of the money market also had its shares in repressing activity.

All three of the active securities of steel sold lower than ever before.

Total sales for day were 435,700 shares of stock.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The fact that the extreme decline in United States Steel 5s yesterday was only 1⅛ per cent, while the loss in the preferred stock was 3⅜ per cent, led some people to the conclusion that the decline in the preferred stock was due in some measure to manipulation on the part of the bond syndicate. The latter is still engaged in converting preferred stock into bonds, and the cheaper it can buy the former the larger its profits on the conversion. At the extreme decline yesterday there was a difference of 15⅛ per cent between the price of the preferred stock and the bonds, which with the commission of 4 per cent on the transaction, would represent a very handsome profit. It is hardly probable, however, that the syndicate is depressing the preferred stock for this purpose. The weakness in United States Steel preferred is depressing the whole market, and the loss through shrinkage in the latter is greater than the profits of the conversion. Besides, it does not look well to see a 5 per cent bond, with such enormous earnings behind it, selling on a basis of nearly 7⅝ per cent. The syndicate as a whole or as individuals would make more money if the conversion were being made on a basis of 75 for Steel preferred and 80 or 85 for the bonds, because such prices would indicate a restoration of confidence, and the whole market would be averaging much higher, giving the opportunity to carry through other financial transactions now held in abeyance. The weakness in Steel preferred is probably due to forced liquidation of margined stock, which was bought to average holdings after the price reached 75, and by the apprehension of hundreds of small holders which was aroused by the action of the directors in cutting the dividend on the common stock. It is a question if this cut did not aggravate a situation that the directors were trying to mend. The fact is admitted that the decline in the general market earlier in the year was responsible for some of the depression, because it prevented corporations from selling on favorable terms stocks and bonds which had been authorized for improvements. The inability to raise new capital forced railroads and other corporations to hold in abeyance plans for large expenditures, and necessarily curtailed the buying of structural material. Then the United States Steel directors cut the dividend on the common stock. This action was construed as indicating an unfavorable business outlook. It was followed by declining security values, by the cancelling of orders for material, and by the waiting attitude on the part of consumers generally. No one can safely say what would have happened if the regular dividend had been declared on Steel common, but certainly the situation would have been no worse. The Steel Corporation saved $2,500,000 cash on the quarter's dividend requirements, and possibly lost more than that in the cancellation or withholding of orders for new business, besides demoralizing the whole market.

The convening of the congress of the United States in extraordinary session is an event of international importance, and yet it is probable that no regular or extra session of congress ever convened and attracted as little notice or comment in financial circles as was the case yesterday. No one looks for any currency legislation at this session, and other matters that may be considered are not likely to have any influence upon the financial situation.

The date for the hearing in the Northern Securities case has been advanced by the supreme court to January 4 next. After the hearing it may be months before a decision is rendered.

The stockholders of the Northern Central Railroad yesterday authorized an increase in the capital stock from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000, and at the same time adopted a resolution looking toward closer relations with the Pennsylvania railroad. It is a matter of comment that within the past two weeks corporations affiliated with the Pennsylvania have authorized or sold new securities aggregating $53,350,000. A portion of the latter has been to reimburse the companies for expenditures already made out of earnings, to retire maturing bonds, and for additional improvements. But taken in connection with the $80,000,000 obtained through the sale of Pennsylvania new stock earlier in the year, the total represents a large sum raised at a time when the market was not propitious for such transactions. There is another view of these recent transactions, however, that is favorable. These authorizations and sales of stocks and bonds indicates an improvement in the tone of the investment market, or perhaps it would be more correct to say that they are anticipating an improvement which seems probable after the turn of the year when money begins to flow eastward.

The next dividend action of local interest will be in relation to National Fire Proofing common. The directors are scheduled to meet day after tomorrow to consider the subject. The company has been paying 1½ per cent quarterly.

A Chicago dispatch said: The earnings of Republic Iron and Steel Company for October were $175,000 or at the rate of about $500,000 annually above dividend requirements. The company is negotiating for the purchase of the Wick Iron Company of Youngstown, O.

The total transactions in Crucible Steel yesterday amounted to only 15 shares of the preferred at unchanged prices. The liquidation in this stock is thought to have been very complete. The stock shows a loss at current prices to practically every holder, but those who carried it down through the decline are apparently now determined to stay with it. The same is true of the holders of common stock. Any considerable rally from the present level would doubtless induce selling by those who do not care to await the outcome, but both the common and preferred are evidently in strong hands now.

There is a strong probability that the First National bank of Allegheny will reopen for business about the middle of next week. The exact date has not yet been determined upon, but new interests have been looking into its affairs and are satisfied with the prospects for opening the bank. The impression prevails that the Federal National will also resume business before the end of the year, but with a reduced capital and larger surplus.

Seats in the Pittsburgh stock exchange were yesterday quoted at $6,000 bid, $10,000 asked.

A Pittsburgh member of the New York exchange yesterday wired one of his eastern correspondents to "Go into the board and present the first 'bull' you run across with a good cigar with my compliments." An hour later he received the message: "Went to the board with a pocketful of cigars. Am back in the office without losing a cigar."

The Merchants Savings and Trust will celebrate the first anniversary and opening of its new home today, and will receive friends between the hours of 11 and 4 o'clock.

According to the United States Investor, bond sales for the month of October amounted to $8,520,510, not including temporary loans. Of the above amount $6,688,450 were issued by cities and towns, and $1,832,060 by counties. This amount shows a decrease of $2,096,-867 over the $10,176,377 reported for the month of September and an increase of $2,164,474 08 over the $6,356,035 92 reported for the month of October, 1902.

The fire losses of the United States and Canada during the month of October, as compiled from the carefully kept records of the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, show an aggregate of $10,409,800. The following comparative table shows the losses for the first 10 months of 1901, 1902 and 1903:

	1901	1902	1903
January	$16,574,950	$15,032,800	$13,166,350
February	13,992,000	21,010,300	18,030,800
March	15,038,150	12,052,600	9,907,650
April	11,352,900	13,894,600	12,549,000
May	22,352,200	14,336,000	16,886,800
June	9,590,000	10,245,350	14,684,280
July	15,749,000	10,028,000	12,835,600
August	8,331,000	7,425,550	8,428,350
September	7,645,200	9,945,000	9,039,150
October	14,749,800	9,593,300	10,409,800
Totals	$135,393,250	$123,097,700	$125,521,250

President Duntley of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company announces in a statement given out here that the net earnings of the corporation in the last nine months were $513,224, or about enough to take care of the bond interest and the dividends for the entire year. He made no reference to the rumors about possible bond issues, or reductions in dividends, but confined his statement to the financial condition of the company.

After the close of the market, a Wall street brokerage house which has been inclined to favor purchases of United States Steel on the decline, wired its Pittsburgh correspondent as follows: "We are in receipt of many inquiries as to just what is the matter with Steel preferred and how much lower it can go. In view of the fact that there is no support to it and the capital is so large, it is difficult to form any exact conception as to how far the liquidation may go. The bears are combining their efforts against it and the reductions in Steel prices have no doubt induced many holders of long stock to sell. The decline has been carried so far that the downward movement is apt to be overdone just as the advances during the boom of 1902 were carried too far. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia are said to have sold a good deal of Steel preferred today and a rumor was current that this represented closing out of a loan. It would only be natural if more or less margined stock had been thrown over. The fact remains that the Steel Corporation can stand a very great contraction of earnings and still pay 7 per cent on the preferred stock. Whether it would continue to do this if business fell away very much investors must decide for themselves. If the preferred dividend were reduced to 4 per cent this would still mean 8 per cent on the investment at 50 for the purchase price. We think the steel business is on the mend, although we do not look for any great expansion."

One-half the total sales on the New York board yesterday consisted of United States Steel, and more than a third of the total was in the preferred stock. There was a constant outpouring of the latter all day, and an unending succession of offerings of 1,000-share blocks and upwards. The special source of this selling was as much a mystery as at all times, but the manner of the selling gave color to the supposition that a very large account was in process of liquidation. Officials of the corporation denied the numerous reports of heavy cuts in prices, but this did not prevent the general conviction that prices throughout the trade would be readjusted to the new basis fixed by the reduction in steel billets.

THE MONEY MARKET

The local money market remains dull and unchanged at 6 per cent on call and time loans. Clearing house comparisons:

TRYING TO EXPLAIN SLUMP IN STEEL PFD.

All Wall Street is Puzzled by Movement Which Has Become Mysterious.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

The Herald this (Tuesday) morning says: At the close of business in Wall street yesterday practically but one question concerned bankers, brokers and speculators alike. That was whether or not the liquidation in United States Steel stocks, chiefly the preferred stock and sinking fund bonds, which has continued practically without interruption since Wednesday last, could drag down the general list and start liquidation afresh in that quarter. There were some signs of a general yielding in places elsewhere than in Steel. More pronounced, possibly, in properties which handle coal and iron tonnage than elsewhere, but still sufficiently well defined to attract attention. The question is the more interesting because heretofore the general list has shown excellent resistance while the steel shares were being liquidated. Brokers hoped that the market was breaking free from the malign influence of the industrials in this point, however, at the close of yesterday's trading.

As on several preceding days, the overshadowing and practically the sole influence in the stock market was the heavy selling of the Steel shares. There was other news and some of this, such as the demoralizing break in sterling exchange and the decline in staples, wheat, corn and cotton was favorable, but no attention was paid to these features, while the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the world's greatest corporation was plunging downward with sickening rapidity.

Recently Mr. Carnegie has spoken of the great desirability of squeezing the water out of industrial corporations, but Wall street thought it detected signs yesterday of blood tingeing the water that flowed from the Steel Corporation. The best feature of all, and this is not much, that most of the mischief was confined exclusively to the shares of the giant corporation.

Most persons in Wall street are at a loss to explain to their entire satisfaction the reasons for the continued heavy selling of the Steel stocks. Cuts in the price of material, reduction in the common stock dividends and fears of further reductions, the unfortunate preferred stock conversion plan, the extension of the syndicate contract, with its right to buy preferred stock and sell bonds and be paid four per cent for doing it, bear raiding and liquidation, have each in turn and all together been used in explanation. In addition to this it is not impossible that the recent scandals connected with the shipbuilding company has assisted more than most people realize in continuing the present liquidation.

Millionaire Investor of Boston Leaves His Entire Estate to Harvard University.

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Victor and Robert McKay, the two sons of Gordon McKay, the late millionaire inventor of shoe machinery, are practically cut off by their father's will from all share in his estate, while Harvard University will eventually receive the entire estate, valued at several millions of dollars, the interest of the fund to be used to promote applied sciences.

The only private bequests are made in the form of annuities which at the time they become effective will amount to $50,000 a year. To provide for an [illegible] trust fund for Harvard college [illegible] promotion of applied sciences, the [illegible] are directed to invest 80 per cent [illegible] income of the estate until the [illegible] $1,000,000 is reached. The full [illegible] then to be paid to the president [illegible] of Harvard college.

[illegible]cks Invade Cape Colony.

[illegible]N, Nov. 9.—The German consul [illegible] Town telegraphs that the Bon[illegible] tribesmen have invaded Cape [illegible] and have had an encounter with [illegible] police.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

While no official announcement has been made, it now is understood that the Calumet & Pittsburgh Development Company will be made a mining company in December. This company is in the same hands as was Calumet & Arizona, which was made a mining company from an initial development concern in March, 1901, and about the same course will be pursued with the new company as with that; that is, the mining company probably will have $2,500,000 capital stock, although not all will be issued at once. Stockholders in the original development company will probably receive $1,600,000 stock in the new company for their old stock, and will be permitted to subscribe for the same amount of additional new stock at par. This means one million cash, and it is understood that even now the entire amount has been subscribed.

The same course will be pursued in regard to the Lake Superior & Pittsburgh Development Company, which is to be made a mining company next spring, and so fine is the outlook for this property that there is no question of all stock being taken by the original subscribers. In neither of these companies, in other words, will any stock get on the public market. This company has a drift 41 feet in eight per cent copper cross cut 25 feet.

When their original company, Calumet & Arizona, was put on the market the rights of development stockholders were not considered so valuable, and many did not take all they were entitled to, thus letting the public in. Since then that stock has advanced from the par value of $10 a share to $100, and is in December to begin the payment of 20 per cent or 25 per cent quarterly dividends. The company has $1,000,000 on hand and is earning at the rate of $200,000 monthly.

Work is being pushed at the Jay Gould properties, recently acquired by the Standard Oil Company, represented by J. Campbell Cory of Helena. The mill to be placed on the property will be enlarged to a 30-stamp mill and the work of putting this in place and operation will be pushed as soon as possible. Improvements and repairs are being made in the mine, so that work may be begun in the near future in getting out ore for the mill. There is enough ore in sight above the 400-foot level to keep the mill running for several years, and no doubt its capacity will be increased in the near future.

The Pittsburgh & Montana Company, which has erected a smelter at Butte, has purchased of John Olson and Peter Burquist the Christina group of mines and claims near Austin, 13 miles from Helena. There are seven claims in the group, and besides this the company purchased the Fanny Parnell and two other adjoining claims owned by Mr. Olson, the Denon estate and W. M. G. Settles of Helena. Three other claims were also taken up for surface ground. On the Christina group a large amount of work has been done and considerable copper-silver ore has been shipped at a good profit. The price paid for these properties was $16,000. The new company will develop and work the properties vigorously as they need Puritic ores for their smelter.

Oxide of tin has been discovered in the placer grounds at the head of Ten Mile Creek, near Helena.

The Red Bird Mining Company, which is a steady dividend payer from its mines near Austin, a few miles from Helena, is sinking a shaft on properties adjoining the Red Bird mines, and will develop the property. The shaft is going down in iron which carries values in copper.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Tin was quiet in London at £115, 15s for spot, and £116, 15s for futures. Locally, tin was steady, at $25 25@25 50. Copper advanced 7s, 6d in London, spot there closing at £58, 2s, 6d and futures at £57, 12s, 6d. Locally, copper remains quiet. Lake is quoted at $13 62½@13 75; electrolytic at $13 62½, and casting at $13 50. Lead was steady, unchanged at $4 50 in the New York market with London also unchanged at £11, 2s, 6d. Spelter declining 2s, 6d in London, closed at £21, while in New York was unchanged and steady at $6 00. Iron closed at 48s, 9d in Glasgow and at 42s 10½d in Middlesboro. Locally, iron was dull and unchanged. No. 1 foundry northern is quoted at $15 00@16 00; No. foundry, northern, at $14 25@15 00; No. 1 foundry, southern and No. 1 foundry southern, soft, at $14 00@14 25.

Poisoned During an Operation.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Dr. T. H. White, resident surgeon of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is suffering from a severe case of infection caused by the prick of a needle in his little finger, made while sewing up an incision during an operation for appendicitis. The wound was hardly noticeable at the outset, but today his arm became swollen from wrist to shoulder.

Three Poisoned by Sausage.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. James O'Hara and a Slavish servant girl are dangerously ill from ptomaine poisoning caused by eating sausage Sunday morning. They became ill several hours afterward. Physicians relieved them, but today all three again became ill and are in a serious condition.

OUR NEW REAL STATE COMPANIES

Concerns Being Char- ed to Develop Vacant Frontage.

D BUILDING COMPANY

state or building companies for Pennsylvania charters eady for operations in a few Squirrel Hill Land Company o take over the McElroy and perties on the boulevard and avenue in the Twenty-second nty-third wards which were purby E. C. Burkhardt some months he company will plot the property e lots and place it on the market e spring. Following are the inorporators: E. C. Burkhardt, F. C. ner, G. M. Koser, Louis Beezer and C. Dean.

The Pittsburgh Hydraulic Stone Company is being incorporated to manufacture concrete building blocks which are coming into great favor among local builders. D. J. Kennedy, the builders' supplies dealer, is prominent in the enterprise and associated with him are E. S. Murphy, George A. Sloan, W. C. Jacobs, M. J. McBride, E. F. McBride, J. C. Adams, and Charles W. Searight. The company has leased the old plant of West & Wilson in Finance street, Twenty-first ward, and is now turning out a considerable amount of work, although the plant is to be greatly enlarged shortly.

George C. and Henry P. Burgwin, Joseph Ormsby, Edwin Logan, and H. S. McKinley are associated in another new company known as the Youghiogheny Land Company, which is understood to be interested in the plotting of a tract of vacant property on the Youghiogheny river.

The Reliance Land Improvement Company will be incorporated by the following: A. B. Forncrook, G. M. Cypher, G. C. Eickelberger, A. D. Knapp, J. P. Hammill, N. P. Still, J. H. Hunter, N. E. Otto, H. H. Grazier and J. D. Allison.

Another real estate concern to be called the Jefferson Real Estate Company has the following incorporators: Frank Dunbar, J. M. Buzar and C. H. Hayden.

Auction Sale on South Side.

The most interesting auction sale held for months will be that of the property of the Duquesne Ice Company on the South Side at 2 o'clock today. The property has a frontage of 112 feet in teh east side of South Sixteenth street and extends through 171 feet to South Seventeenth street where it has the same width. It adjoins teh holdings of the Union Planing Mill Company and the Mullaney estate. On the site are erected a number of brick buildings which with the machinery are included in the sale. The Fidelity Title & Trust Co. and John D. Biggert are receivers.

Another fine property on Squirrel Hill is being prepared for market, that of the A. Loughrey estate, occupying the square bounded by Beacon and Bartlett streets, Murray and Shady avenues. On the first named street has a frontage of about 1,000 and 400 feet in Murray and 302 feet in Shady avenue. The property is directly across Shady avenue from the holdings of George W. Guthrie and near the properties of Joseph L. Kay and L. B. Murdoch. Across Bartlett street are the 13 new houses erected by Harry M. Gross and a number of other high-class residences are in the near vicinity. The lots are being laid out with frontages of not less than 50 feet and a depth of from 150 to 200 feet and will be put on the market in the spring.

Provides Pure Water for Its Patrons.

The Mt. Lebanon Land and Trust Company has successfully solved the problem of getting pure water to its patrons and now has its own system of water works ready to supply 50 families on the plan. The reservoir of the plant is at the corner of Washington and Pueblo streets and holds 10,000 gallons. In addition to this there is a cistern which holds 12,000 gallons and 15,000 gallons more can be stored in the pipes. The main well is 168 feet deep and is so far sufficient to meet the demand. A further supply is guaranteed by four large springs on the company's property, which have been connected with the reservoir. The reservoir, which is 48 feet high, is 80 feet feet above the lowest point in the plan and the pressure is sufficient to send a stream of water over the highest house in the allotment, giving additional surety against fire.

Architect Marius Rousseau has awarded the contract to Hober & Son of McKees Rocks for the erection of a Roman Catholic church at Ellsworth to cost $20,000.

The borough of Homestead has given to Dixon Crematory Company of Toledo, the contract for an iron garbage furnace to cost $8,500.

Earhart Bros., of Glassport, have the contract for the three-story brick hotel and store building to be built by Michael Gross of McKeesport, near the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad station at Glassport. The building will cost $25,000.

Center Avenue Property Sold.

The former property of E. G. Mooney at No. 5838 Center avenue, lately owned by Sophia McCallin, has been sold to Joanna Byrne of Groveton for $11,000. The residence is a 10-room brick house standing on a lot 55x159 feet.

Through the Union Realty Company Robert J. Coyle, Jr., has sold to David I. Parkinson a three-story brick house, lot 30x140 feet, on the east side of Craig street, near Center avenue, Thirteenth ward, for $10,250. A. H. Seyd of the same company has sold for the United Real Estate and Construction Company to a local merchant a new brick house with lot 24x100 feet in Ophelia street, Fourteenth ward, for $6,500.

Collins avenue: John W. Sherrer sold to James Lappan an improved lot, 30x132 feet, on the east side of Collins avenue, Nineteenth ward, for $8,500.

Curtin street: The Fidelity Title and Trust Company sold to John E. Cox an improved lot 37.5x105 feet, on the west side of Curtin street, near Sylvania avenue, Thirty-eighth ward, for $8,000.

East End: Sidney H. Newbury sold to George Brailsford an improved lot, 20x148 feet on the south side of Frankstown avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, for $3,800.

South Side: James Kuntz, Jr., of Washington, Pa., sold to Sophia C. Maul an improved lot 21x110 feet on the south side of Carson street, near Twenty-fourth street, Twenty-fifth ward, for $8,500.

The buearu of building inspection issued the following permits yesterday: To J. J. Vandegrift estate, altering power plant building at Third street and Penn avenue, First ward, to cost $25,000; to Joseph Moneos, frame two-story addition to dwelling, at 707 Homewood avenue, Twenty-first ward, to cost $845; to Jacob Delp, frame two-story pool and billiard halls, at 2217 Fifth avenue, Fourteenth ward, to cost $1,000.

ELGIN, ILL., Nov. 9.—Butter ruled steady on the board of trade today, selling at 22c a pound. Sales in the district for week were 551,000 pounds.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at a decline of 5@10 points under liquidation following lower European cables and reports that jobbing demand was unsatisfactory which was backed up to a certain extent by smaller warehouse deliveries for the week. On the other hand the primary receipts continue small and at the opening decline a good demand developed from recognized bullish sources and with a closing advance in the French market, prices here were finally steady, net 5 to 10 points higher. Sales were 76,500 bags, including November at $5 45; December, $5 50@5 65; January, $5 60@5 75; March, $5 90@5 95; May, $6 00@6 10; July, $6 10@6 20; August, $6 20; September, $6 25@6 30; October, $6 30.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 9.—Spirits turpentine firm, 56c. Rosin firm, $2 20. Tar firm, $1 80. Crude turpentine firm, $2 25@3 30.

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The visible supply of grain Saturday, November 7, as compiled by the New York produce exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 25,155,000 bushels, increase 2,930,9006 bushels; corn, 7,776,000 bushels, increase 444,000 bushels; oats, 9,245,000 bushels, increase 268,000; rye, 1,077,000 bushels, increase 51,000; barley, 4,989,000 bushels, increase 1,009.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The drygoods market has not been particularly active, but has been characterized by unusual firmness. Operations of buyers continue conservative, but there is a feeling that with restrictions to active buying withdrawn, which is likely to be accomplished gradually, operations will be on a much more extended scale.

Two Gambling House Charges.

Mrs. Mary Audiline of Forbes street entered suit yesterday against Abel and Jacob Levine, charging them with running a gambling house at No. 51 Colwell street. The prosecutrix declared her husband had lost $1,000 at the place. Samuel Hohenstein of No. 44 Vine street has a similar charge against him, it having been made by Mrs. Lizzie Herskovitz, who alleges her husband lost $500 in gambling there.

Shocking Triple Tragedy.

SAGINAW, MICH., Nov. 9—Dr. E. W. Light, a prominent dentist of this city, committed suicide Sunday night, at his home, 813 South Jefferson avenue, after fatally shooting his wife and daughter, Ruby, a young girl of 18. The tragedy was not discovered until noon today.

SHARP ADVANCE MADE IN LETTUCE PRICES

In an otherwise quiet market, where no kind of produce moves with any great degree of activity, there is more life shown in the demand for lettuce than any other article. The advance in price for head and curly lettuce during the past two or three days has been quick, owing to the scarcity of supplies, the present being between seasons, field stock having disappeared, while hothouse plants are not ready in any great amount. Shipments of the latter do reach market occasionally, and are bringing fancy figures, which will probably be reduced before very long when supplies increase, as they are likely to do in the near future. String beans are much higher, and many dealers have quit handling them on account of the uncertainty of the condition of stock at this time of year. Southern shippers who are acquainted with the climate of the north can get their product to market in fairly good shape, while others, who do not appreciate the fact that the weather here is colder than in the south, frequently send consignments forward in unlined baskets, with no protection whatever. These shipments are undesirable when they reach here, and trouble is the result between consignor and consignee. It is for this reason that a number of local produce merchants prefer not to handle beans at this time of year. Squash do not move as quickly as usual at this season and prices are just about holding steady. Fruits of all kinds are unchanged. An advance has occurred in quotations for chestnuts, cost laid down here having been increased. A few dealers who were supplied with large stocks have not made the advance as yet, so the range of quotations is wide to cover all selling.

Flour, sugar and coffee remained unchanged in the local market at the opening of the week, the situation of the former being centered in the question of stock. There is a firm market for all spot offerings, and no necessity for reducing prices any further, although mills are inclined to be easier. Coffee is very firm, with a strong outlook for higher prices in the near future. Canned goods are unchanged, packers admitting that there must be a large increase in the demand to equal the offerings of tomatoes, which are very plentiful, large stocks being held, on which the fairly steady demand makes little impression. Corn is firm and will continue strong, as stocks are known to be light. Cereals are firmer, with local prices the same as those which ruled at the close of the week, but more strongly held. Beans are weaker, both navies and marrows having declined, while some jobbers at least are offering concessions on limas.

The Elgin board of trade made no change in price of creamery butter yesterday, and local quotations continue the same as last week, with the market quiet. Cheese is unchanged, and fresh eggs are steady at prices ruling last Saturday.

Cattle.

Cattle receipts were not so heavy by 45 cars as those of last Monday, nor so great as the average for several weeks past. The market held firm at quotations ruling at the close of the week, the decreased quantity of offerings keeping the situation firm, but not strengthening it sufficiently to bring about advances. Arrivals were well distributed throughout the different grades.

Choice, 1,400 to 1,600 lbs, $5 20@5 30; prime, 1,300 to 1,400 lbs, $5 00@5 15; good, 1,200 to 1,300 lbs, $4 50@4 85; tidy, 1,050 to 1,150 lbs, $4 10@4 25; green, 1,000 to 1,200 lbs, $3 80@3 90; fair, 900 to 1,100 lbs, $3 10@3 60; common, 700 to 900 lbs, $2 50@3 00; common to good fat bulls, $2 25@3 50; common to good fat cows, $2 50@3 50; heifers, 700 to 1,100 lbs, $2 60@4 00; god fresh cows and springers, $40@60; common to fair, $15@35.

Sheep and Lambs.

Offerings of sheep were just about equal to the demand today, and quotations remained steady, without any changes in figures. Lambs were in lighter supply than they were a week ago, however, and prices ruled about 25 cents higher. Veal calves fairly steady, with a straight reduction from top point of price range ruling at the close of the week.

Prime wethers, 90 to 100 lbs, $3 60@3 80; good mixed, 85 to 90 lbs, $3 25@3 50; fair, 75 to 80 lbs, $2 70@3 15; culls and common, $1 50@2 00; choice lambs, $5 40@5 60; fair to good, $5 00@5 35; common, $3 00@4 00; veal calves, $7 00@7 50; heavy and thin, $4 00@4 50.

Hogs.

Supply of hogs this morning amounted to 70 double decks, same as amount received one week ago. The market showed increased activity, however, and quotations advanced throughout the list.

Prime heavy, $5 45@5 50; mediums, $5 40@5 45; heavy Yorkers, $5 35@5 40; light Yorkers, $5 25@5 30; pigs, $5 00@5 25; roughs, $3 50@4 75.

ALL GRAINS CLOSED AT A LOSS YESTERDAY

Majority of Wheat Traders Sold Liberally of Both May and December in Chicago Pit.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—December wheat opened ⅛ to ¼c lower at 78c to 77⅞c under the influence of cables and liberal northwest receipts, together with the fact, that a large quantity of Duluth wheat was reported on its way to this market. Heavy world's shipments and an unexpectedly large increase in the visible augmented the initial pessimism and throughout the remainder of the session there was little demand save that coming from shorts with profits in sight. All options closed weak. Primary receipts aggregated 1,696,900 bushels, compared with 1,885,000 bushels last year. Minneapolis, Chicago and Duluth receipts reached a total of 1,480 cars against 1,445 last week and 1,067 a year ago. Anticipation of a bearish government report tomorrow, easy cables and favorable weather depressed corn, but the market was not an active one. Selling was chiefly for the local account and prices held fairly well after the opening decline. Local receipts were 180 cars.

With increasing receipts and a slow cash demand as a bearish basis, oats responded readily to the wheat weakness early, but steadied at the bottom and closed with some of the early loss recovered. December [illegible] down at 34⅞@35c. The first selling consisted strongly of a raid with a local long line the objective. Commission houses bought somewhat freely at 34⅝c, however, which had the effect of discouraging liberality in selling from other quarters. Receipts were 220 cars.

Buying of December lard for the foreign account was the main support of the provision market, although reports of a decreasing hog supply were also influential. The close was firm, January pork 7½c higher at $11 97½; January lard 7½c up at $6 87½, and January ribs 2½@5c improved at $6 25.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 185 cars; corn, 470 cars; oats, 340 cars; hogs, 17,000 head.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 9—Leading electricians from all parts of the country were in conference here this afternoon over the proposition to utilize the falls in the Ohio river at Louisville for power for traction, electric light and other plants throughout Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio.

The Weidner-Elkins syndicate which controls the traction lines to Ohio and Indiana have had experts examining into the feasibility of the plan and they have reported favorably. At Louisville tomorrow the engineers will confer with government engineers before taking the matter up with congress.

Chinese Laundryman Robbed.

Three men entered the laundry of Wing Kee, at No. 1703 Penn avenue, yesterday morning, and while one man engaged the Chinaman's attention by getting him to change a 50-cent piece, one of the others struck the Mongolian between the eyes, dering him unconscious. He was dragged into another room, the door was closed and the men ransacked the place, among other things securing $100 from a cash box. The Chinaman gave the police a good description of the men.

OPPOSED TO WAGE CUT BY EMPLOYERS

Aggressive Report Made by President Gompers at Federation Convention.

SHORTER HOURS MUST STAND

Twenty-Third Convention of American Federation of Labor Heard Facts and Figures Intended to Encourage Its Million and a Half of Members.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 9.—The 23d annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here today with 500 delegates representing nearly 1,500,000 artisans, present. The convention, which is being held in Faneuil hall, was called to order by President Samuel Gompers.

Many men prominent in labor's realm are in the city, among them being John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America. Today's program included the welcoming of the delegates, the appointment of committees and the annual reports of the principal officers.

The address of President Gompers occupied nearly three hours, and all of its salient points were greeted with applause. When he finished he received an ovation lasting several minutes. In his report he said during the past year 1,333 charters for unions affiliated with the federation had been issued. Of this number 20 are international unions and this gain in membership has now placed the per capita roll of the American Federation of Labor at 1,465,800. He made an exhaustive review of the strikes, arbitration and immigration. Relative to the now threatening contraction in business circles, he said:

While I do not know to what extent our declarations and suggestions may influence employers generally in the effort to dissuade them from pursuing the unwise and uneconomic fallacy of wage reductions, yet a clear sense of duty must prompt us to make our position upon this question clear and comprehensive. If we shall fail to convince them as to the course which they should, or rather the course which they should not, pursue in regard to the effort to reduce wages, we will at least have the consciousness of having done our duty in the premises, and so to shape our own course as will meet the situation emphatically and unmistakably.

The working people should resist any attempt to reduce their wages or to increase their hours of labor.

We are better organized and better prepared to resist encroachments upon our condition than ever before; and, if perchance some of our efforts may be lost, it is better to resist and lose than not to resist at all; for to complacently accept a reduction in wages is simply to invite its repetition while it enfeebles our ability to resist further efforts in the same direction.

In former periods of industrial stagnation employers often accompanied their wage reductions with discharges of some workmen, and then, as an inducement to those retained, suggested that they increase their hours of labor to, as they put it, "make up the loss." In other words, those discharged, being a menace both to the conditions of employment, as well as the employment itself, were utilized as a means to further reduce wages and impose more onerous conditions, while the increased hours of labor of those employed further accentuated and made acute the industrial situation.

Surely, it is not rational to suggest, for the relief of an over-stocked or glutted market, that the workers shall curtail their power of consumption and then work longer hours to increase production. I submit that the policy of the labor movement is wiser and has in it the means to the sooner restore industrial activity and bring about its revival.

We urge as a way out that wages be maintained, even if necessary, to resist reductions; that as a substitute for discharges of workmen, the work to be performed be divided, thus not only helping to bear each others' burdens, but more quickly to restore activity in industry, trade, and commerce.

Secretary Morrison in his report said the total receipts were $247,802.98, divided as follows: Per capita tax, $124,950.58; supplies, $35,141.35; American Federationist, $27,718.13; assessment, $19.45; defense fund, $49,083.40; premium on bonds, $329; special fund, $9,780.75. The expenses were $196,015.57, $51,787.39 less than the receipts. The receipts from per capita tax show a gain of $45,847.46 over that received during the eleven months of last year. Receipts from supplies show an increase of $9,257.06. Amount received from American Federationist shows increase of $10,548.73. During the fiscal year there were 84 strikes of which 49 were won; 21 compromised; 14 lost and 5 still in effect. These strikes involved 6,355 men and cost $19,278.65.

Treasurer Lennon reported the total fund now at his command was $86,013.12 which is the largest balance on hand in the history of the organization.

These reports were referred to the committee on distribution and the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning.

GREAT BATTLE IS FOUGHT ONCE MORE

Monument to the 73d Pennsylvania Heroes Is Dedicated at Chancellorsville.

CEREMONIES ARE IMPOSING

Gen. Blakeley of Pittsburgh Paid Tribute to Loyal Services of That Organization. Governor Pennypacker and Gen. Boynton Make Addresses.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Nov. 9.—The Seventy-third Pennsylvania monument was dedicated here today with imposing ceremonies. Comrade Hugh Kennedy of the regiment presided. Exercises opened with prayer by the Rev. J. J. Manker of Grant university, this city, after which Mrs. Pauline Koltes Eck of Philadelphia unveiled the monument which was wrapped with stars and stripes, while the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Gen. Blakely of Pittsburgh delivered an address, in which he paid high tribute to the services of the Seventy-third regiment, and said that the erection of the monument had been postponed on account of the fact that a suitable location could not be found. The spot occupied by the regiment in the battle of Missionary Ridge was finally selected.

Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker then delivered an address, presenting the monument to the national government, in which he said that he recognized the fact that from the hills of east Tennessee came riflemen who went to New Orleans to overthrow the British. He paid high tribute to Andrew Jackson, who always secured the help of Pennsylvania. He said Pennsylvania sent here 15 regiments of infantry and 15 batteries of artillery.

Gen. Henry V. Boynton followed Gov. Pennypacker, accepting the monument in behalf of the national government. He said that upon this field at Chancellorsville, at Vicksburg and at Shiloh are evidences of what Pennsylvania is doing for her sons who fought on these bloody fields. Gen. Boynton then described the movement of the Seventy-third regiment, which moved out of a ravine sweeping all before it, and marching up Missionary Ridge, charged against the heaviest fire known in history.

"While they were unsuccessful in their endeavor," said Gen. Boynton, "the members of this regiment immortalized their names."

Maj. Louis Fortesque of Philadelphia then delivered an oration paying a splendid tribute to American arms. Comrade Henry Sauermilch of Philadelphia delivered an address in German, which was followed by addresses by Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, Gen. Wiley, Gen. Gobin, Capt. J. W. Skinner and others.

Tomorrow night the party leaves for Pittsburg Landing to dedicate the Seventy-seventh Pennsylvania monument at Shiloh.

THREAT OF MURDER AGAINST A SHERIFF

Venango Official Warned to Stop Inquiry Into Boxer Kingsley's Death.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FRANKLIN, PA., Nov. 9.—Sheriff McCollum and District Attorney McBride are pushing their investigation into the cause of the death of Millis Kingsley, which followed a so-called boxing match in the Centennial club, Friday night, between Kingsley and Clarence Doolittle. In nearly every local pulpit yesterday the subject was commented upon. Today a threat was added to the affair when Sheriff McCollum received the following warning written on a postal card:

> You had better stay in your office and keep your water-soaked mug out ove other people's business. What you will get is a No. 38 Kentucky Bill if you dont stop your trying to get other people in trouble. This is a warning to you to look out what good citizens you run up against. It wont be a boxing matter.
> (Signed)
> I AM LOADED.

The sheriff offers a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the person who sent the missive. The sheriff is a prohibitionist which explains the expression used in the warning. Doolittle has not yet been taken into custody, but it is believed that his whereabouts are known and that he will soon give himself up. Deputy Coroner Griffin will begin the inquest on the death of Kingsley tomorrow and County Detective Brown it is understood, has been busy trying to secure witnesses to give their testimony at the inquest. Many of the spectators, it is alleged, are prominent citizens.

The funeral of Kingsley, who leaves a wife and two children, will occur tomorrow.

Colonial Design

The illustration merely shows the outline of what is really a most charming bureau. The richness and exquisite beauty of the wood is, of course, lost in the picture. But if you will come and look at the bureau itself you will at once discover that the absence of any ornate embellishment is due to the masterly reticence of the truly artistic conception.

The beauties of the pure Colonial style are too apparent to the cultured mind to require any amplification here. But they could scarcely find a more delightful medium for expression than in the suit of which this bureau is a worthy exemplar.

Specifications: 23 inches deep and 48 inches wide; made of solid mahogany; bevel plate mirror, 22 by 32 inches.

This style is exclusive with this store, as, indeed, are all the designs shown here.

The price of this bureau is consistently moderate. It is typical of the vast array of Colonial furniture here offered for your selection. And whatever you may select you will find that price is an inducement at

FURNITURE PRICES THAT WILL PUSH MANY PIECES OFF THE FLOOR

ELEGANT DRESSERS—A collection of the handsomest Dressers of the $25 and $27.50 grades it has ever been our good fortune to have in the store. Some are in golden oak, others in mahogany and still others in birdseye maple and curly birch. Part of them are the regulation four-drawer dressers, while others are in the "Princess" style with two drawers, full swell fronts, hand-polished finish and either oval or fancy shaped mirrors. If we had show-window space to display these charming bedroom pieces we could sell the entire lot in a day. They will go quickly at.......... $20

BEDROOM SUITES—From the sturdy oak came the well-seasoned cabinet wood from which were made the Three-piece Bedroom Suites we offer as a special feature this week. The beds are handsomely carved, the large dressers have serpentine swell fronts, and the combination wash-stands are provided with splasher-backs. Hunt up duplicates of these suites at other stores and you will find them marked $37.50—We ask you to pay.......... $29.75

FINER CHAMBER SUITES—Would you be willing to spend $80 for something handsome to furnish your guest chamber? See the massive quartered-oak Suites in two styles, hand-carved and polished, with shaped front dresser (four feet two inches long) and large combination commode, each piece mounted on ball-bearing casters. These $80 Suites we have decided to sell for $59.75

CHIFFONIERS — Standing in close ranks on our sixth floor is a line of chiffoniers, whose price extremes are $4.50 and $50. One-third of the way down the line is a special at $15 which we want everybody to see. The wood is quartered-oak, free from blemishes, and with a high polish finish. The six roomy drawers have full swell fronts, while mounted on the top is a large plate toilet mirror. You save $5 in buying such a chiffonier for.......... $15

BRASS BEDS—Two surprises in one bed—the elegance of it and the cheapness of it. It has two-inch posts with heavy filling, three-inch husks and knobs, extended bow-foot and ball-bearing brass casters. $37.50 is a modest valuation. What a felicity to get it for.......... $29.75

IRON-AND-BRASS BEDS—The art of combining the two metals into one piece of furniture finds an able exponent in a new line of Iron Beds, enameled in pink, green and white, with fancy scroll brass fillings, which come in full sizes only and should sell for $15.50. We are going to sell the first dozen that come into the store at a surprise price—for.......... $12.50

TO IMPROVE ONE HUNDRED BEDS. If your mattress is thin, lumpy, odorous or otherwise un-ideal (thousands of such mattresses in the city), let us replace it with a new Reversible Combination Mattress, with a top and bottom of soft felt spread in even layers, and a center of curled rattan and springy sea moss. A heavy twilled ticking is the cover, closely tufted, with edges carefully bound and securely stitched. One hundred such mattresses, each and every one of them worth $6.50, we will make a special November feature at.......... $4.25

CHEAPER MATTRESSES—Would you give $3 for a good night's sleep? You can get it on one of the good Combination Mattresses with soft tops and bottoms, in good grade ticking, diamond-tufted, with double-stitched edges that are worth $4.50, yet will be sold by us until fifty have been delivered for.......... $2.98

THANKSGIVING TABLES—A delayed shipm
Extension Tables ordered for Pittsburgh delive vember first, reached the store only yesterd each Table takes up a lot of room, and hol furniture is coming in fast, we will have to fo out in ten days or less. So we make a Tha feature of them now:

—Solid oak Extension Tables, in rich ish, with heavy box frame and five f legs. Really worth $8.50— Room making price.......... $

—Massive Dining Tables, hand-polished, inforced box frames, heavy fluted pillar claw feet, become an extraordinary special at.......... $12

—A special lot of Round Dining Tables whic have marked $15, $20 and $25 are each so that whoever buys one saves a $5 bill.

THIS DRESSER (drawing made from the piece and exactly like it), is solid oak, thoroughly well constructed, in a rich golden finish, with two small drawers, two full-length drawers, each with lock and key and fancy brass handles. The top-piece is a French plate mirror in fancy frame. Actual value $12. Special Price.......... $6.98

THANKSGIVING SIDEBOARDS—We are going to sell fifty Sideboards this week, and then say no more about them until after Christmas. Price is the lever that will move them.

—LOT NUMBER ONE — A lot of solid oak Sideboards of good construction and splendid finish, all this season's styles, very massive, with large mirrors. Worth $25 to $3 Special price this week.......... $19.75

—LOT NUMBER TWO—Handsome quartered-oak Sideboards with serpentine swell or rou fronts, massive carved columns, lined silver drawers and linen drawers with large cupboard below. Worth $30 and $35 — Special this week at.......... $25

PITTSBURGH COUCHES—More leather Couches are sold in Pittsburgh than in any other two cities of its size in America. Good reason — leather doesn't show soot, washes off and gives splendid service.

—Diamond tufted Couches, upholstered in genuine leather and filled with a combination of hair-and-moss, evenly spread over good steel springs, built on a massive oak frame. Special at.......... $24.75

PARLOR ROCKERS — Four new styles that will captivate your fancy. They have gracefully shaped arms, bent spindle or panel backs, saddle and roll seats — some will sell swiftly at.......... $5

PARLOR SUITES—$25 is a popular price for a good Parlor Suite. We are showing a line at that figure, some in three and some in four pieces, that have hand-polished mahogany frames and the best steel springs with a covering of Verona Velour. Look farther and you will find the same thing in other stores—but marked $32.50 and $40. Perhaps you can beat them down. We name the rock-bottom price first of all and stick to it.

GROUP OF CHAIRS—Let us show you $5 Chairs in a single group. All are solid oak with high backs, extra braces and fancy turned spindles and posts. They are very heavy and the construction and finish throughout are the best. You save a dollar every time you buy one for.......... 98c
